BREAK NEW DEAL WAGNER LABOR ACT FILIBUSTER

Committee Forced to Offer Amendments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—The New Deal filibuster against amendment of the Wagner labor act, which has extended thru two sessions of congress, was broken today.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton.

Yielding reluctantly to almost overwhelming pressure from congress and the public, Mrs. Mary T. Norton [D., N. J.], chairman of the house labor committee, introduced a measure providing three major changes in the act. A number of other amendments are expected to be added when the bill reaches the floor.

Green States A. F. of L. Opposition.

Other developments illustrative of the nation-wide storm about the administration of the act were:

1. President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, in response to an inquiry from Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.], wrote that the A. F. of L. continues to favor the abolition of the present National Labor Relations board as biased, prejudiced, and guilty of maladministration of the act.

2. Representative Charles Hawks Jr. [R., Wis.] introduced a bill to turn the enforcement of the Wagner act over partially to the states by making it inoperative in states which have satisfactory arrangements for guaranteeing the worker the right to join a union of his choosing. Wisconsin has such a setup, Hawks asserted.

Committee Drafts Amendments.

Chairman Norton succumbed to the demands for labor act legislation at this session after her committee today drafted two amendments. Previously it had approved an amendment which would increase the membership of the present board from three to five. The two new recommended changes would:

1. Give a majority of the employés of any craft in an industry the right to recognition as a collective bargaining unit.

2. Give employers the right to petition the board for an election among workers to settle disputes among unions.

The first amendment would allow crafts which muster a majority of the votes in a plant to bargain for themselves, regardless of other unions in the factory. This change has been sought by the A. F. of L. and strenuously opposed by the Congress of Industrial Organizations, which has urged plant-wide elections.

Petition Granted Only Once.

The right of employers to petition for an election was admitted by the board last year and adopted as a policy. It was noted, however, by the house committee under Representative Howard W. Smith [D., Va.], which investigated the administration of the act, that the board thus far has seen fit to grant an employer's petition in only one instance.

The labor committee, thru Chairman Norton, will attempt to bring up the amending bill under a suspension of the rules. Such a procedure requires a two-thirds vote to pass legislation and it also has the effect of shutting off amendment from the floor. It was freely predicted that the speaker would not permit the bill to be brought up in this way. It is expected that it will be brought to the floor thru a rule provided by the rules committee granting plenty of time for debate and not limiting amendments.

Filibuster Began Last Year.

Abolition of the present board, instead of increasing the membership from three to five, will be proposed on the house floor.

The filibuster against amendments to the Wagner act began early in the 1939 session. Both house and senate labor committees, dominated by the New Deal, refused to take action.

The disclosures of the Smith committee weakened the New Deal stand. The committee's report last Saturday presented evidence to support the charge that property and personal liberty rights were being violated "with reckless abandon" by the labor board. That led to breaking the filibuster today.

FORGES AHEAD OF VANDENBERG BY NEARLY 2 TO 1

Garner Is Trailing Roosevelt, 2 to 1.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., April 3, Wednesday.—Delegates pledged to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the Republican presidential nomination held a decisive lead early today over delegates pledged to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan as returns from yesterday's presidential primary were tabulated.

The vote in 826 of the state's 3,011 precincts was:

Dewey slate—Secretary of State Fred Zimmerman, 45,422; Albert J. O'Melia, 37,781; Ralph Nelson, 40,126; Quincy Hale, 38,988.

Vandenberg slate—Lieut. Gov. Walter Goodland, 24,038; Fred H. Clausen, 23,182; Michael G. Eberlein, 23,854; Edward W. Richardson, 23,858.

Roosevelt Ahead, 2 to 1.

In the Democratic primary President Roosevelt was running more than two to one ahead of Vices President John N. Garner. In that primary the voters expressed their direct choice for President and in the Democratic delegate race.

In the Democratic preference primary returns from 1,176 precincts gave: Roosevelt, 66,921; Garner, 28,764.

The Roosevelt-Farley delegates, backed by National Committeeman Charles E. Broughton and generally referred to as the administration slate, were leading the Roosevelt ticket supported by the Democratic party organization, the group headed by Gustave Keller of Appleton and Edward P. Curry, chairman of the Milwaukee county Democratic committee.

G. O. P. Total Is Larger.

The total Republican vote was running ahead of the total Democratic vote in the ratio of 10 to 9. This was a marked reversal from the last two presidential primary elections. In the primary of 1936, the Democratic vote was more than twice that cast in the Republican contest. In that year William B. Rubin, the biggest Democratic delegate vote getter, received 236,976 votes, while Philip Nelson led in the Republican delegate primary with 125,329.

In the succeeding November elections in 1936, Mr. Roosevelt maintained a two to one advantage over Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas.

The early lead of the Roosevelt-Farley delegates, both over the Garner and the party organization ticket, was generally attributed to support from the La Follette Progressives, who with no national candidates of their own were free to vote in either of the old party races.

Patronage Bids Charged.

Charges were made by the Keller-Curry faction early in the campaign that Broughton was appealing for La Follette votes in the distribution of census jobs. The complaint was made that more than half of the census supervisors and enumerators were selected by Broughton from the La Follette organization.

Altho the President outstripped Garner in the popular vote, the tabulation of more than one-fourth the precincts indicated that one Garner candidate for delegate at large might win. He is William R. Callahan, son of John M. Callahan, an Al Smith Democrat for many years and former national committeeman.

Garner supporters made their fight for delegates almostly solely on a plea to uphold the tradition against a third term.

Weather Affects Voting.

The early vote was reported lighter than in 1936, when President Roosevelt received 401,779 votes in the presidential primary and the late Senator William E. Borah polled 187,334. Weather conditions upstate were unfavorable to a heavy vote.

The weather also was gloomy and quite cold over most of the state. This slowed up the early voting. In La Crosse there was a half inch rainfall during the morning. While politicians over the country are watching today's voting in Wisconsin as a barometer of much political significance, the voters apparently did not feel a corresponding interest.

The Wisconsin primary law gives no test of party regularity. The primary is open. When a voter enters the polling booth he is given both a Republican and a Democratic ballot. He must then choose between them.

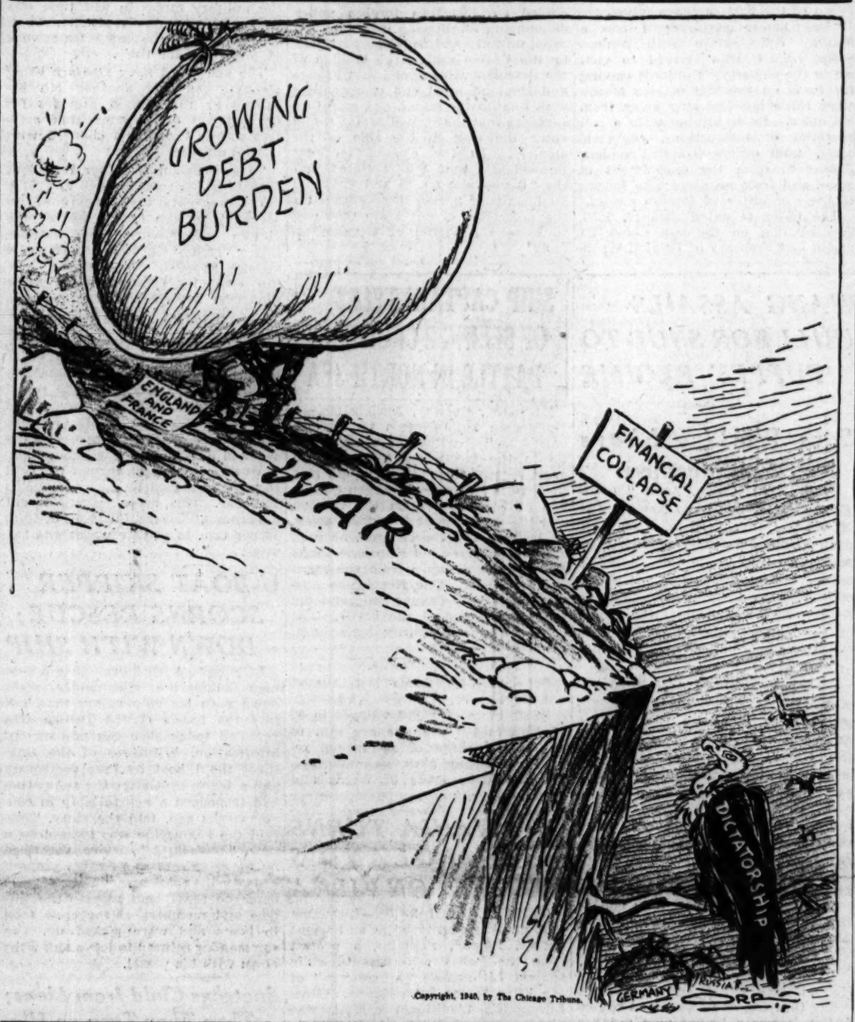
DANGEROUS ROAD



Zeidler Beats Mayor Hoan in Milwaukee

BULLETIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 3, Wednesday (AP).—Mayor Daniel W. Hoan today conceded defeat in his race for re-election against Carl F. Zeidler. "Zeidler is in; I hope he does a good job," Hoan said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., April 3, Wednesday.—Carl F. Zeidler, 32 year old attorney—tall, blond, and handsome—yesterday defeated for reelection Daniel W. Hoan, Socialist, who for 24 years has been mayor of Milwaukee.

Carl F. Zeidler.

Zeidler beat Hoan by a campaign the veteran mayor could not understand. When Hoan called names Zeidler, who has an impressive tenor voice, sang a song. Zeidler gathered around him the support of younger Milwaukee and many women workers. They held meetings every day and every night and everywhere. They promised an administration for all of Milwaukee, with no special privilege for those who carried the party card of socialism.

Nonpartisan Incumbents Win.

With Zeidler all of the nonpartisan incumbents of the other elective offices were returned. Theodore Dammann, who until his defeat for reelection as secretary of state in 1938 was accounted one of the Progressive party's best vote getters, fared little better than the rest of Hoan's ticket.

With 390 of Milwaukee's 435 precincts reported, Zeidler received 99,248 votes to 87,759 for Hoan. William H. Wendt, nonpartisan city controler, received 118,598 to 61,811 for his opponent, John Grunwald, Hoan's Socialist secretary. Joseph J. Krueger, nonpartisan city treasurer, polled 108,893 to 72,972 for Dammann, and Walter J. Mattison, nonpartisan city attorney, lead all others in votes with 120,587 to 51,451 for Paul Gauer, former Socialist president of the city council.

Hoan has been mayor since 1916. Before that he served six years as city attorney. He has stood for election eight times and seven times he was unbeatable. Personally a man of character and ability, he was quietly supported by the big business elements in Milwaukee who, despite his party principles, considered him a safe mayor. As an offset to a Socialist mayor they elected nonpartisans to other offices and placed a nonpartisan majority in the city council.

Council Majority Sought.

This year Hoan sought to acquire a majority in the council. "If you can't give me a coöperative council, don't elect me," he said in most of his speeches. The voters took him at his word.

Hoan, even more than the La Follettes, has been the symbol of radicalism in Wisconsin government. His defeat is a blow to the Farmer Labor Progressive Federation, of which the Milwaukee Socialist party is the dominant unit.

Zeidler, when an honor student in the Marquette university, was picked as the man of his class most likely to succeed. He followed his graduation by several years as assistant city attorney, from which office he resigned to become a candidate for mayor. He had been campaigning informally for several years. He was always open for an invitation to talk or to sing for a meeting of the parent-teachers' association or for a church society. When he entered the campaign he had a ready made machine that went out to work for him.

He is unmarried.

NAZIS MUST STRIKE A DECISIVE BLOW IN WEST, SAYS GOERING

BERLIN, April 3, Wednesday [By radio]—(AP).—Field Marshal Herman Wilhelm Goering declared today that "a decisive blow must be struck in the west" and asserted that Adolf Hitler had "mobilized all resources" for that purpose.

"Germany will strike a deadly blow when Hitler is determined to end the war," Goering told the nation [and Europe over all German radio stations], in a one-hour address to an audience of Hitler youth assembled in the air ministry's festival hall.

Goering indicated that the Fuehrer has a lightning war—like that used to crush the Polish armies—in store for his British and French enemies.

"The war was forced upon Germany," he asserted, "but we smashed the Polish army in 18 days. We struck a blow which our enemy will hardly forget. When the time comes we shall strike a blow at the western powers with the same strength."

Police Go Right to Bottom of a Big Mystery

Late yesterday a man left a brown paper package in the Railway Express company office at the Union station. It was addressed to George Mason, president of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation, Detroit, Mich.

The sender had been gone about 15 minutes when W. E. Riggs, chief special agent for the express company, noticed two odd things about the package: It bore a label reading: "Expressmen Please Do Not Open Under Any Circumstances." And it ticked.

They Become Alarmed.

Riggs called it to the attention of Lee Pecher, the clerk who had accepted it. Pecher looked alarmed.

"Could it be? . . ." said one.

"A bomb!" they chorused.

Riggs called the state's attorney's office. Lieut. Tom Kelly and Raymond Burton and Charles Rawleigh of the state's attorney's police responded Kelly called for water, and a steel drum full of water was wheeled up.

Kelly gingerly picked up the package. Riggs and Pecher backed up. Chief J. E. Prendergast of the station police didn't come too near. Clerks and station employés slid behind pillars.

Audience Holds its Breath.

Kelly dropped the package in the water. It sank. Everybody waited. Five minutes went by, and the onlookers began to move cautiously forward. Kelly removed the package from the water, and the onlookers moved cautiously backwards. He put it on a nearby truck and began tugging carefully at the wrappings. His audience held its breath. . . . Kelly removed the paper, uncovered the object. . . .

"A radio!" every one exclaimed.

Kelly and Burton and Rawleigh tried to look nonchalant. They telephoned the Zenith radio people, who said they were sorry the radio had been left on and the batteries had hummed and sounded like a bomb. They said they would send Mr. Mason a new one today.

KENNEDY DASHES TO PARIS BEHIND VEIL OF SECRECY

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 2.—Documents published by the Germans purporting to show that last June he promised Poland he would urge Britain to supply her with funds today brought Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to Britain, to Paris on a hasty and mysterious flying trip, it was reported here tonight.

It was said Kennedy came to confer with Anthony Drexel Biddle Jr., American ambassador to the transplanted Polish government at Angers, France, on the German white book containing documents said to have been found in the Polish foreign office at Warsaw.

Deny Book Prompted Trip.

Some persons concluded that Kennedy was seeking to clear up the allegations that he was instrumental in encouraging resistance to Germany and was contacting Polish officials here thru Biddle.

Kennedy had nothing to say about his Paris trip and American embassy officials said it was personal and had nothing to do with the white book. They said Kenendy had rushed to Paris because his old friend and private secretary, Eddie Moore, had fallen ill here. Kennedy had desired to keep his visit to Paris secret.

PREPARE NEW CHARGES

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 2.—Germany is sifting four cellars full of documents collected in the Polish foreign office in Warsaw in preparation for the publication of additional revelations which will embarrass many chancelleries, Count Hans Adolf von Moltke, former German ambassador to Poland, declared today.

He indicated the Germans expect the material will enable them to issue more white books such as that published Friday in which Joseph P. Kennedy and William C. Bullitt, American ambassadors to London and Paris, were alleged to be quoted on events prior to the start of the war.

Documents Called 'Revealing.'

While showing American correspondents the alleged documents Von Moltke, who edited the white book, refused to admit he had another "bombshell" prepared for American or other diplomatic representatives, but said the documents were "amazingly revealing."

"We will continue to work and from time to time make disclosures when it seems in the interest of clarifying events preceding the war," he said. However, he refused to reveal whether his unpublished material names American ambassadors or President Roosevelt.

Laughs at Falsification Charges.

Von Moltke laughed at charges the Germans falsified the documents.

"See for yourself," he said. "They weigh many tons and I do not believe there are enough Polish scholars in all Germany to accomplish such a colossal job of faking."

Telling how Germany obtained the documents, he said a porter at the Polish foreign office stated that Polish officials started packing the documents on Aug. 23 and that many cases were shipped to other cities on Sept. 3, two days after Germany invaded Poland. On Sept. 5 a station master telephoned the foreign office that about 124 were left and was ordered to burn them. Unable to tolerate what seemed to him to be unnecessary destruction, it was said he had them carted back to the then-deserted foreign office and the Germans found them when Warsaw fell.

AMONG THE NEW NOVELS

ORDERS ENVOY BACK TO PARIS; LEAVING TODAY

'In Public Interest,' Says Secretary.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—The Roosevelt administration made certain today that William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, will get out of the country before there is any congressional investigation of the war guilt allegations contained in the German white book, published last Friday.

While senate administration leaders were making extraordinary efforts to prevent an official investigation before Bullitt could leave the country, Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] wrote a letter to Secretary of State Cordell Hull demanding that Bullitt be kept here pending action on resolutions calling for his appearance before both the senate and the house foreign affairs committees.

Flying Back to Post.

The state department announced tonight, however, that Bullitt will depart from New York tomorrow, aboard the Trans-Atlantic Clipper. In a letter to Fish, Secretary Hull said the public interest demanded that Bullitt return to his post. He has been in this country almost two months, but his departure was delayed, according to Hull, by the illness of his daughter.

The secretary also declared that "Ambassador Bullitt has succinctly and categorically denied any imputations relating to himself" in the German white book, which contained alleged Polish diplomatic reports attributing warmongering statements to Bullitt and to Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain.

Senate Action Foiled.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] had intended to press for action by the foreign relations committee tomorrow on his resolution demanding that Bullitt be called for questioning, under oath, with respect to the war mongering allegations. However, Bullitt apparently will be gone when the committee meets tomorrow.

Representative Fish, author of a similar resolution in the house, told Secretary Hull that Bullitt should welcome an opportunity to present the facts to the congress and the American people.

"On the other hand, if he should return before such an investigation can be held, it might create a false impression in the public mind," Fish said. "The charges, emanating from the foreign office of a government with which we are at peace, must be answered fully, and any attempt at evasion would be misleading, while to remain silent would be to give them the stamp of authenticity."

Bullitt Brands Charge "A Lie."

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky moved to head off the Reynolds resolution by giving a private luncheon for Bullitt in the office of the secretary of the senate.

At this luncheon, attended by various members of the foreign relations committee, Bullitt dismissed the German white book as "a damned lie."

Bullitt denied also that he told an audience at Bordeaux, France, early in 1939, that "France and the United State are indefectively united in war as in peace." This remark, widely quoted in French and American newspapers, was the product of a drunken reporter who misunderstood him, Bullitt contended.

Administration members of the foreign relations committee expressed complete satisfaction with Bullitt's story and the fullest confidence that Senator Reynolds' resolution will be pigeonholed.

Urge Trust in President.

When Reynolds made another speech in the senate today demanding that the German white book charges be investigated, administration supporters gave him the hush-hush treatment.

The administration senators suggested that Reynolds was presuming to inquire about extremely delicate matters that a United States senator—even a member of the foreign relations committee—ought to trust to the President and his representatives abroad, especially in such perilous times.

"The senator must realize that at this time, of all times since the world war began, the foreign relations of the United States are in a more or less delicate posture, charged with possibilities dangers, threats, and ominous rumblings of war," said Senator Tom Connally (D., Tex.), another member of the foreign relations committee. "Does not the senator from North Carolina realize that the President is charged under the constitution with the conduct of our foreign aairs, except in those particulars in which the senate shares that responsibility?

Pleads for Caution.

"Does not the senator think that this is a matter which ought to be trusted to the discretion and wisdom of the President? I think it is a matter about which we ought to be very cautious before interjecting the senate, or a committee, or any one else, into these activities at this time."

Senator Reynolds expressed the "humble opinion" that instead of waiting for the German government to prove truth of the white book charges, the senate should attempt to establish their falsity.

"The papers from the white book charge that our representatives have encouraged the present war in Europe," he said.

Reynolds also demanded, in his resolution and in his speech, that Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles be called before the foreign relations committee to give an account of his personal survey, at President Roosevelt's request, of the European war situation.

Demands Public Be Informed.

"The American people," Reynolds said, "are desirous of knowing with whom Mr. Welles talked, where he talked, what he said, and what was said to him. I rather feel that the American people are entitled to know something about his conversations; in other words, to ascertain whether the situation for us involved any seriousness."

Senator Connally said he would "hoist before the mad charge of the senator from North Carolina at least a yellow light—not necessarily a red light to stop him, but a caution light to cause him to hesitate on the brink of what might be a very serious accident, a collision with some other force which might bring us into trouble."

Connally repeated that he wanted to "let the President alone" and trust him "in this critical time when the slightest spark might ignite a train of dangers which would bring tragedy to the people of the United States."

"Arsenal of the World."

Reynolds replied that he was thankful for the yellow light held out to him by Connally, but that what he wanted was "a red light against war."

"However, I must disagree with the senator when he says that we are in a peculiarly delicate situation," Reynolds continued. "If we are in a peculiarly delicate and dangerous situation, it is attributable to ourselves—and to nobody else."

"Did the United States start the war?" Connally demanded. "Did we unleash the engines of death and destruction? Did we drop any bombs?"

"That is the question propounded by the white book," Reynolds replied. "It is true that he have not dropped any bombs, but the probabilities are that millions of our bombs will be dropped there because we are the arsenal of the world and we are manufacting bombs and selling them to anybody who can come and get them."

After repeated attempts by Connally to silence Reynolds with such admonitions as "this is no boy's job," Majority Leader Barkley expressed the opinion that it would be unwise for the senate to inquire into the activities of the President and his representatives, especially the Welles mission. To "listen in by remote control" to the conversation between Welles and the heads of the European governments might lead to misinterpretations, he said.

ENVOY OF SOVIET VISITS HULL, BUT EMBARGO STICKS

Long Conference Held by Two Diplomats.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today emphasized after a long conference with Constantine A. Oumansky, soviet ambassador to the United States, that the American moral embargo against shipment of American war planes to Russia is still in effect.

Nothing was said on Mr. Hull's announcement about shipment of copper and oil to the Red government, which enabled the soviets to fight Finland and may afford an avenue of rich war supplies to Germany.

In January some 55 million pounds of American copper were shipped to soviet Russia. There also have been huge shipments of wheat, aluminum, brass, metal working machines, and electrical apparatus. This nation makes large shipments of oil and gasoline, altho shipment of high test airplane gasoline has been banned to the soviets.

Confer More than Hour.

Hull disclosed that the moral embargo was one of the subjects he discussed with the soviet envoy in a conference which lasted an hour and five minutes—longer than any accorded a foreign diplomat in recent years.

When he was asked directly at his press conference a few minutes after Oumansky had left the office whether the moral embargo against Russia was still in effect in view of the end of the fighting between Russia and Finland, Mr. Hull said that it still was in effect against every nation in the world that incurs the penalty.

The moral embargo is an extra-legal policy designed to penalize any nation whose armed forces are guilty of unprovoked bombings of civilian populations. It attempts to ban the export to such nations of any American planes, parts, or material essential to the manufacture of planes and equipment, or plans for the manufacture of high test aviation gasoline.

No Countries Specified.

The administration never has specified any particular countries in announcements of the moral embargo policy, but a statement by President Roosevelt last Dec. 2, shortly after Russian planes had started bombing civilians in Finland, had the effect of applying the policy to the soviet. It previously had operated since June, 1938, to prevent shipment of American airplanes to Japan.

Oumansky would say nothing to reporters about the subjects he discussed with Secretary Hull. It was the first time he had seen the secretary officially since Feb. 1, when it is understood, he complained about an anti-Russian speech made by Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson.

Britain and France Plan to Link Youth Propaganda

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2.—Earl De La Warr, president of the board of education, will visit Paris to confer on plans to develop among school children of Britain and France a fuller knowledge of each other's culture and language, it was announced today. Broadcasts, films, lectures, and scholarship exchanges will be used. Similar youth propaganda have been going on for some time between Italy and Germany.

German Evidence Against Bullitt

[Acme Radiophoto.]

Copy of first sentence of letter purportedly written by Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador to the United States, and published by Germany in white paper which has caused storm because of mention of American diplomats. The last sentence of the letter was published previously. The translation of the first sentence follows:

"Day before yesterday I had a lengthy conversation with Ambassador Bullitt, who arrived to visit me in the embassy. Bullitt is leaving for Paris on the 21st of this month after three months' stay away from his office. He is leaving with a full portfolio of instructions, conversations, and orders from President Roosevelt, from the department of state, and from senators who belong to the committee of foreign affairs."

The letter is dated Jan. 16, 1939. The heading on the left shows its origin as "Embassy of Poland, Washington, D. C." Below that is a notation showing that the letter is on the subject of "conversation with Ambassador Bullitt." It is labeled "secret" and addressed to the [Polish] "Minister of Foreign Affairs."

As made public by Germany the letter went on to list instructions Bullitt carried to Paris, which included an American foreign policy denouncing totalitarian states, accelerated military and naval preparations by the United States, the opinion of the President [Roosevelt] that France and England must end compromises with totalitarian states, and moral assurances that the United States would enter the war on the side of the empires. In the closing sentence Potocki said that Bullitt stated that the "democratic states had given up all imaginary armed intervention for the protection of any state that was to become a victim of German attack."

WANG ASSAILS HULL FOR SNUB TO PUPPET REGIME

Says World Abhors U. S. Statesmen.

SHANGHAI, China, April 2 (AP).—The Central China Daily News, organ of Wang Ching-Wei's Japanese supported Nanking régime, replied today to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's nonrecognition declaration. It stated editorially that "Hull should have realized by this time that the people of the entire world, especially the Chinese, abhor and despise the false utterances of American statesmen."

Secretary Hull on March 30 declared that the United States would continue to recognize the Chinese government at Chungking and that the United States considered the setting up of Wang's Nanking régime as further evidence Japan meant to force her will upon China and to exclude rights and interests of third powers.

Wang's newspaper termed Hull's statement "more farcical than the grotesque antics of Charlie Chaplin. . . . His outburst will only add to the many ignominious incidents of American history."

Chinese Report Victory.

HONGKONG, April 2 (AP).—Central News, Chinese official agency, reported today that Chinese forces had routed 10,000 Japanese troops who made a bitter four day counterattack on Wuyuan in Suiyuan province, 350 miles northwest of Peking.

Millions Face Starvation.

PEKING, China, April 2 (AP).—Reports from foreign missionaries and reliable Chinese sources in the interior of the North China province of Hopei tell of a struggle by 5,000,000 peasants to survive famine conditions born of floods last August and September.

Inhabitants of 12,000 villages in 82 of Hopei's 140 counties are said to be on the verge of starvation, reduced to eating bark, swamp grass, and porridges made of weeds and cotton husks.

SHIP CAPTAIN TELLS OF SEEING 2 CRUISERS BATTLE IN NORTH SEA

BERGEN, Norway, April 2 (AP).—A Norwegian ship captain tonight reported having witnessed a naval battle in the North sea between two cruisers yesterday. The captain said that while en route to Bergen he saw one of the cruisers on the horizon and the other about five miles away. At least 12 shots were fired, he said, and the crew of his ship saw shells fall a short distance from the stern of one cruiser. The Norwegian hurried out of the danger zone and did not see the end of the battle. The captain could not identify the cruisers.

LITHUANIA TURNS DOWN POLAND'S PROTEST ON VILNA

GENEVA, April 2 (AP).—Lithuania took another slap today at an ancient enemy, Poland, rejecting a protest from the Polish government-in-exile against Lithuania's "acceptance" of the Vilna region from Russia. Vilna, Lithuania's traditional capital, was handed over to Lithuania by Russia when Poland was partitioned last autumn. The Lithuanian government sent the league of nations a note recalling that the Vilna region was seized by Poland in 1920 and from Lithuania's viewpoint never was Poland's rightfully. The note refrained from naming the Polish government, with headquarters in France, since Lithuania does not recognize it.

ITALY VOTES BILL TO MOBILIZE ITS CIVILIANS IN WAR

Drastic Measure Extends to Children.

ROME, April 2.—The Italian cabinet today approved a bill providing for civil mobilization in war time. The bill includes not only men and women but children of both sexes from 13 years up.

No other details of the bill were issued, but it is understood to be one of the most drastic measures of the kind planned by any country.

Law to Regulate Feeding.

In addition, a law regulating the feeding of the civil population and the military forces in war time was published in the official gazette. That, too, is put in the same framework of preparing for the worst.

The army and navy also are being strengthened and another bill approved by the cabinet provides for development of the "maritime artillery militia" which is charged with coastal defense.

"The insistent if rather impudent threats which some French and British newspapers are echoing of attacks by foreign navies against the Italian coast," writes the authoritative Virginio Gayda in the Giornale d'Italia tonight, "makes the new provisions for coastal defense more than ever necessary."

Drive to Collect Iron.

Another reinforcement of a war measure decreed today is an order forcing property owners to demolish all iron grilles and turn the metal over to the state to be transformed into arms and instruments of labor.

Another new measure increases the pay and pensions for government employés an average of about 7 per cent to meet increased living costs due to the war. This move follows recent government-decreed increases of 10 to 15 per cent in private wages and salaries.

U-BOAT SKIPPER SCORNS RESCUE; DOWN WITH SHIP

LONDON, April 2 (AP).—How a German submarine commander went down with his ship rather than fall into the hands of the British was revealed today thru the ministry of information. Witnesses of the sinking of the U-boat by four destroyers and a flying boat after the submarine had torpedoed a neutral ship in convoy weeks ago, told the story. They said the submarine was located by a new "hush-hush" device described by naval officers as "fingers groping beneath the sea." After it was severly damaged the U-boat rose to the surface and members of the crew took to boats and were picked up. The commander refused to leave and went down with his vessel.

Snatches Child from Lions; Then They Turn on Him

Prescott, Ariz., April 2 (AP).—Two lions clawed and bit Jack Russell today after he rescued a child who had approached their cage. As Russell, a circus employé, tossed the child out of reach, the beasts reached thru the bars and caught his arms. Other workers drove the animals away with poles and Russell was taken to a hospital.

REPORTS FIRST HOME OF POLYNESIANS WAS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

BELLA COOLA, B. C., April 2 [Canadian Press].—Thor Heyerdahl, Norwegian scientist and traveler, today said he had traced the origin of the Polynesian races inhabiting Hawaii and the South Sea Islands to the Bella Coola valley of British Columbia.

Supposed route of races' migration.

Heyerdahl, who spent a year in Polynesia, said the original inhabitants of Bella Coola valley apparently had been driven from their homes about 1000 A. D. by the warlike Salish Indians of the Lower Fraser valley. He suggested they fled in canoes until they reached the open seas and prevailing winds carried them 2,300 miles southwest to Hawaii. Some spread thru Polynesia to Easter, Tonga, and Marquesas Islands.

GERMAN VESSEL READY TO TEST GAP IN BLOCKADE

DUBROVNIK [Ragusa], Jugo-Slavia, April 2 (AP).—The German freighter Ankara, loaded with bauxite, a mineral important to Germany's wartime industries, today prepared for a test voyage thru Italian and Jugo-Slav territorial waters. It hopes to establish a blockade-proof route for Germany extending all the way from the Black sea.

German sources said that if the Ankara succeeds in reaching Trieste, Italian port from which supplies may be shipped overland to Germany, more than 200 German freighters rusting in Italian Adriatic ports will be put into service. These vessels, idle since war started, would try to ply thru neutral coastal waters as far as Russia's Black sea oil ports.

The Ankara is scheduled to sail Thursday.

Vetoes Plan to Raise Tax on U. S. Beer in Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, April 2.—Gov. William D. Leahy today vetoed a revenue measure which proposed to raise the tax on beer imported from the United States by 20 cents a case.

BRITAIN FORGES TRADE PACT RING AROUND GERMANY

Warns Neutrals They Must Limit Sales to Nazis.

Nazis Warn Britain

BERLIN, April 2.—As soon as Germany experiences any effects of the intensified blockade against her as announced by Prime Minister Chamberlain she will answer every British action with corresponding action, official sources said tonight. What form the German reprisals will take depends upon British measures, it was said. Some quarters suggested German submarines would operate in Scandinavian waters if any attempt were made to seize German iron ore ships inside Norwegian territorial waters.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2.—The expectation that by control of the seas and employment of direct economic pressure on neutral countries Great Britain can prevent vital war materials reaching Germany was expressed to the house of commons today by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Chamberlain announced that war trade agreements, which he said he believes will prove satisfactory, already had been concluded with Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Iceland, Belgium, and the Netherlands.

He did not elaborate on the contents of the agreements, but it was clear from his outline of Britain's new economic policy toward the neutrals that the supplies permitted to enter these countries will depend not only on their refraining from re-exporting goods to Germany, but even refusing to send Germany—beyond specified limits—their own domestically produced oils, fats, minerals, and other vital supplies.

Use Money Power on Balkans.

It was also intimated that as a result of new trade talks and by wielding Britain's money power on the Balkans, the empires expect to achieve even greater results. The Balkans, Chamberlain said, already are selling to the empires the type of products which are essential to the German war machine.

The fact that Chamberlain specifically mentioned that missions were expected here shortly from Jugo-Slavia and Rumania was regarded as significant that he hoped for the collaboration of these countries in the economic strangulation of Germany. He said discussions now are under way with Switzerland.

Chamberlain drew a distinction between the "war trade pacts" with the Scandinavian countries and Belgium and Holland and "commercial agreements" being discussed with Spain, Greece, and Turkey. The difference seems to be that the pacts contain certain promises not to sell to Germany and the commercial agreements provide for the outright cash sale of surplus products needed by Germany.

Control Empire Products.

Another method which hereafter will be applied to keep the neutrals in line with the empires' purposes is control of the sale of empire products. These will be sold only when the neutrals agree not to reëxport them to Germany or use them at home while releasing their own similar supplies to Germany.

Besides purchasing the whole of Norway's exportable surplus of whale oil and other supplies of neutrals bordering Germany, the empires also are taking steps "to prevent war materials reaching the enemy by way of land routes not formerly used," Chamberlain said.

This was interpreted to mean doubling patrols in the Pacific to prevent goods reaching Germany by way of Vladivostok and the trans-Siberian railroad and other routes.

On the question of tightening the naval blockade and infringing on neutral rights, Chamberlain pulled his punches, merely warning that "we have not reached the limit of our effective operations in this region"—which brought cheers.

"Certain practical steps" are being taken, Chamberlain said, to halt the passage of cargo ships from Scandinavia to Germany—a route over which Swedish iron ore moves to the reich. He failed to divulge what the steps were, but the remark was interpreted as meaning that Britain would start a naval offensive against ore ships.

Previously Minister of Economic Warfare R. H. Cross told the house that he could not accept the statement that imports from the United States to neutral countries surrounding Germany had increased and were finding their way into Germany.

CALL 4,500,000 RUMANIANS FOR WORK ON FARMS

Youth Will Be Mobilized to Boost Output.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 2.—Four and one-half million boys and girls between 10 and 18 years of age will be mobilized by the Rumanian youth movement this spring to work on the nation's farms, it was announced today.

This move is aimed at maintaining normal agricultural production and may enable Rumania to increase her agricultural exports, as Germany is reported to be demanding.

With hundreds of thousands of peasants called to the colors last fall far below the normal quantity of wheat was planted. Government officials said they hoped to make up some of this loss by adding to the acreage under spring wheat.

Seen as Answer to Germany.

The drafting of the country's youth for farm work was believed in some quarters to be Rumania's answer to the German demand that 500,000 of her 1,600,000 soldiers be demobilized and returned to the land. Rumania, it was said, is reluctant to do this as long as she feels herself menaced by Russia or Germany. However, it was reported that some peasants will be released from the military services to supervise their youthful aids.

Along with the demobilization suggestion Germany was said to have offered to send 6,000 German agricultural experts into Rumania to speed production.

Government to Provide Funds.

Forty thousand leaders of the Strajerii, the youth movement, will select the boys and girls for the work. Many, drawn from cities and towns, will be without farm experience. When the plan was announced it was emphasized that "all the powers of the country must be employed. The young workers must replace those at the front. The plowing and seeding are not the problems of the peasants only. They are the problem of all Rumania."

Older students will be released from school as soon as needed and many will be used until harvest time.

The agricultural campaign is to be threefold. The government aims to provide labor, seed, and machinery. A credit of about $1,650,000 will be made available to farmers at a low rate of interest, and funds will be provided for tools and equipment where needed.

PARIS IMPRISONS RED LEADER FOR DEFEATIST ACTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 2.—Andre Vrignaud, communist labor leader, was given a maximum sentence of five years in prison plus a fine of $2,030 today for "acts harmful to the national defense." Sentence was passed by a military court.

Vrignaud was charged with defeatist activity and spreading anti-French propaganda. The prosecution presented as evidence two circulars said to have been written by him. The circulars incited French syndicalists to cause trouble wherever possible and thereby handicap the government's prosecution of the war, the prosecution said.

Vrignaud formerly was secretary of the communist federation of metal workers. When it was dissolved he was alleged to have continued his subversive activity secretly.

GEN. GARIBALDI ENDS HIS STAND AGAINST FASCISM

ROME, April 2.—Gen. Giuseppe Garibaldi, eldest son of the Italian patriot, who had been a voluntary political exile in the United States because of his hostility to Fascism, today made a public act of submission to Premier Mussolini. In a letter to Il Duce Gen. Garibaldi said: "Having been in Italy for a short while after 16 years of absence spent entirely in the United States, and having returned here because of the danger of the eventual loss of my mother, I have had the opportunity of seeing the profound transformation of the political and economic life of the nation under your excellency's leadership."

GERMANS BOMB SCAPA FLOW

German planes last night bombed Scapa Flow, British naval anchorage in the Orkney Islands, north of Scotland. Berlin and London accounts differ on the raid's results. The two versions:

BERLIN, April 3, Wednesday (AP).—German Heinkel bombers, again raiding Scapa Flow, last night "effectively attacked" a number of British warships, DNB, German News agency, reported early today.

The agency said planes returning from the raid radioed that bombs "of the largest caliber" scored direct hits on some warships and that others were damaged by missiles that exploded in the water.

One Ship Lists Heavily.

One warship listed heavily following the attack, DNB said, and fire and heavy smoke clouds poured from another.

Twenty-five bombs dropped by British raiders in an attack at the Island of Sylt all were said to have missed the patrol boats at which they were directed.

Guns Roar Near Vosges.

PARIS, April 2 (AP).—The British-French high command tonight reported numerous artillery actions west of the Vosges mountains. At least two German planes, it added, were shot down yesterday, and one French craft was lost.

[The German high command said three enemy planes were shot down Monday and that one German plane was lost. Five German planes were said to have fought eleven French planes near Pirmasens on the western front.]

LONDON, April 3, Wednesday (AP).—German aircraft attacked Scapa Flow at dusk last night, the air ministry announced this morning. Its statement said:

"German aircraft carried out an attack on Scapa Flow at dusk.

"They were driven off by the fire of ships and batteries.

"Bombs were dropped, one of which fell on the shore. No ship was hit or damaged.

"One German aircraft is believed to have been brought down by gunfire."

Hear Bomb Explosions.

For about five minutes civilians near Scapa Flow heard heavy anti-aircraft fire. Then came the explosions of bombs. British fighter planes went up in pursuit of the raiders, which made off quickly.

The manager of a public works project said he saw one of the German planes spiral downward toward the sea.

Another witness said he saw five or six bombs explode in the sea.

Germans Bomb Convoy.

German planes hurled 10 bombs at a British convoy in the North Sea yesterday afternoon, the admiralty stated, but did no damage.

That British planes bombed German patrol boats at the Island of Sylt, German aviation base in Heligoland bight, also was announced by the admiralty. The raid was made Monday night.

War Developments

German aircraft yesterday attacked the British base at Scapa Flow (1). The British announced their flyers bombed German patrol boats near Sylt (2). A German-French air battle was reported near Pirmasens (3). In the nearby Vosges mountains artillery actions were reported.

CALL THOUSANDS OF NEW TROOPS FOR SWISS ARMY

BERN, Switzerland, April 2 (AP).—Switzerland moved nearer general mobilization today as the general staff summoned to active service 41 army units amounting to tens of thousands of troops. They will report on April 15.

The call was connected with the high command's determination to keep the the Swiss strength as closely as possible on a level with the number of troops any one belligerent has stationed near Switzerland's borders.

Swiss military quarters believe the Germans have between 180,000 and 270,000 men in the Baden and Württemberg areas north of Switzerland. Swiss officials said, however, their presence "gives no immediate cause for alarm."

FINNS GIVE UP GOLD RINGS TO BUY WAR PLANES

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 2 (AP).—Finnish men and women of all ages and classes voluntarily went to depositaries today to surrender rings, watches, bracelets and other personal jewelry in an effort to raise $6,000,000 to buy pursuit planes such as they needed but did not have in the war with Russia.

Finns originally planned to start converting gold rings into "steel birds" on March 15, but peace came two days earlier and the plan was temporarily abandoned.

The reorganized government is again building for defense and security, however, and the people have insisted on going thru with their plan, which is expected to collect at least half of the 2,100,000 gold rings estimated to be in the country.

4 TRUCK DRIVERS CHARGE WASTING OF UNION'S FUNDS

Minneapolis, Minn., April 2 [Special].—Funds of the General Drivers' union were squandered by its officers for airplane rides, visits to swank hotels, and to pay their personal obligations, it was charged today at the hearing of a suit brought by four truck drivers seeking the officials' ouster.

A new list of accusations, based on the findings of a court supervised audit of the union's records, included the following charges: Loans were made without vote of the union membership or any serious expectation of repayment; illegal strike expenses were approved; the officials made unauthorized payments of sick and death benefits and of moneys to other organizations.

Altho the union has an income of $150,000 annually, its treasurer is bonded for only $2,000. The union president, Carl Skoglund, admitted during the day's hearing that he is not an American citizen.

CANADIAN ARMY VOTE OPPOSES LIBERAL REGIME

OTTAWA, Ont., April 2 (AP).—More than half of Canada's soldiers voted against the Liberal government of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King in last Tuesday's general election, it was disclosed today, but they failed to change the final results in a single constituency. The principal election issue was the government's conduct of the war, which the opposition contended had not been vigorous or efficient enough.

FOOD RATIONING A FARCE, BRITISH CRITICS CHARGE

Declare Ministry Staffs Favor Profiteers.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 2.—The hardships and deprivations caused the poorer classes who comprise one-third of the population of the nation were pictured tonight in a debate in the house of commons. However, a motion demanding that the government take "energetic measures to restore the balance between purchasing power of the people and the cost of living generally" was defeated, 161 votes to 117.

Characterizing the administration of the food act as a farce, John Morgan, a Laborite, criticized the food minister, William S. Morrison, for failure to keep prices down and for his policy of staffing his departments with people from industries which are profiting from the business.

Prices Up 36.4 Per Cent.

Morgan asserted the food situation was worse than during the last war. He said that despite Morrison's assurance that food prices were only up 17 per cent, actually they were up 36.4 per cent. Morgan complained that the meat supply, provided wholly by home production, was exhausting the stocks of pigs and poultry. He said that because the price of sugar is "four times the world price" those who need sugar the most can't afford to buy the full weekly ration of 12 ounces. He said the same condition exists for milk and butter.

Morgan charged Morrison with employing as "the brains" of the bacon control, a man who, previous to the war, tried to establish a Canadian bacon trust here. He charged that preference given Canadian bacon had created a glut, and accused the food ministry of trying to cut Danish imports "to make room for more Canadian bacon."

Morrison replied that the prices fixed were necessary because of the heavy costs of freight insurance and the margin of profits allowed middlemen was justified because huge numbers of persons are dependent on the food trades for a livelihood.

Aroused by Tax Talk.

Reports to the ministry of information intimating that new taxation which would hit wage earners receiving between $18 to $43 weekly created such a furore in the press that Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, answering a question in commons, declared no one had the right to make such an announcement on behalf of the government.

Members, however, were not satisfied with Simon's statement and officially put the question for answer at Thursday's session, "Whether the statement was given out with his authority." Lord Josiah Charles Stamp, chief economic adviser to the government, was identified as the source of the original statement and press comment was inclined to believe it was intended as a "trial balloon."

FRANCE TAKES 1 DAY CENSUS

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 2.—A census of all civilians on French soil, including foreigners, was taken in France today in preparation for the issuance of food rationing cards which are to be introduced shortly, probably on June 1. The aim of the census is to prevent hoarding and to permit a fair distribution of available food stuffs.

The information assembled will be used to allot the daily ration of bread, meat, and other goods to which each civilian is entitled. Workers doing hard labor will be given the maximum ration.

In Paris four million census cards were required. Each civilian devoted only a minute or two to filling out his card. No snooping questions were asked, each person simply was obliged to give his name, address, trade, date and place of birth, and the number of meals usually eaten at restaurants.

The head of each house also filled out a fuel card, stating the amount of coal and firewood needed for heating and cooking. Usually central heating is shut off in Paris apartments on April 15, but this year the no heat rule went into effect last midnight and will remain in effect no matter how cold the weather. The only exceptions are hospitals which will be heated as usual.

Restrictions on the baking and sale of bread do not mean there is any danger of a wheat shortage in France, it was announced today. Besides, a reserve stock of 20,000,000 tons of wheat, France has its North African "granary" from which it can get all the wheat it needs.

Increase Wheat in Colonies.

Wheat growing has been promoted in recent years in the colonies Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia. Algeria now produces 6,000,000 tons of hard wheat and 3,000,000 tons of other wheat per year. France imports one-third of this in normal times, and 1,250,000 pounds of other cereals used for pastry cooking. There are 1,500 modern mills in Algeria capable of processing a much larger quantity of grain should the export demand increase.

Tunisian wheat is considered to be of finer quality but is less plentiful. France imports 75,000 tons annually. It is believed the amount could be greatly increased as could the amount imported from Morocco where 2,000,000 tons of wheat are produced yearly.

Two robbers who carried pistols and a roll of adhesive tape went into the Brite cleaners' shop at 222 South Cicero avenue yesterday and fled with a small amount of money after tying and gagging Miss Lucille Kane, a clerk. A few minutes later Miss Kane worked free of the bonds and notified the police. On Monday the tape bandits held up a south side candy shop.

SAYS HOME LOAN OFFICIALS PLAY AT U. S. EXPENSE

Church Tells House of Joyful Junkets.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—High government officials were accused in the house today of illegally charging the government for visits to Rose Bowl football games, sun baths in Florida and California, vacation trips to Atlantic City, week-end cruises, and cross-country sightseeing tours.

Representative Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.] made the charges in demanding an investigation of the Federal Home Loan bank board, the Home Owners' Loan corporation, and the Savings and Loan Insurance corporation.

Church noted that officials of these agencies had spent $1,500,000 for travel last year. This was the largest single administrative expense item except for salaries in the bureaus. He produced the official records of the general accounting office to support his accusations.

Calls It Petty Thievery.

"The officials of these organizations seems to be under the impression that they are presiding over a travel bureau and conducting a 'see America first' campaign," Church told the house. "This is nothing more or less than petty thievery. If men occupying places of responsibility, where they handle millions and millions of dollars, would stoop to this type of thievery, I can well imagine the kind of thing we will discover once we investigate their activities and make our own accounting of their use of funds in the nonadministrative category."

Church named the following officials and the amounts they spent for week-end trips and vacation tours during 1939:

Nugent Fallon, gen. mgr., SLIC	$3,392.18
John H. Fahey, chairman, HLBB	7,641.52
T. D. Webb, vice chairman, HLBB	3,404.29
Fred W. Catlett, member HLBB	5,524.69
O. E. Loomis, asst. to chmn. HLBB	1,542.53
C. E. Tilton, asst. gen. man. SLIC	6,718.40
James Roundtree, asst. to vice chairman HLBB	2,349.10

"It is indeed a pathetic picture," said Church. "Thousands of our people are losing their homes thru foreclosure. Thousands of our people are paying interest on loans on their homes. Yet we find these officials literally enjoying themselves at government expense and at the same time receiving a high salary from the people."

Church said that the controler general had submitted the evidence of illegal travel expense items to the attorney general and to Jesse Jones, administrator of the federal loan agency, who assumed control over the three agencies last year under the President's reorganization plan.

Tells Details of Spending.

Church went into detail concerning how the officials traveled at government expense under the guise of official business. Fallon, a $10,000 a year official, made week-end trips and holiday excursions to his home in New York City and his summer home at Swampscott, Mass.

Fahey, another $10,000 a year man, also made week-end trips at government expense to his home in Boston and his business headquarters in New York. [Fahey is a trustee of the Edward A. Filene estate and president of the Twentieth Century fund.]

Webb, whose home is in Nashville, Tenn., made frequent trips to that city and to Cincinnati, O., where his son is a board employé. Webb was also a frequent visitor to Atlantic City at public expense, the records revealed. Catlett was the board member whose official business took him to the Rose Bowl football game at Pasadena, Cal.

"Here is burocracy at its worst," commented Church.

Divorces Engineer

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. ALICE GREMLEY.

Mrs. Alice Gremley, 38 years old, 2227 Carmen avenue, was granted a divorce yesterday from Charles H. Gremley, an engineer who, she testified, tried to remodel her to his own specifications after their marriage in March, 1938.

"He had known me for 18 years before our marriage," said Mrs. Gremley, "but after the ceremony he began buying me books on poise and personality. He made me take steam baths to reduce from 185 to 155 pounds and had four moles removed from my face. He didn't like the expression of my mouth so I had to have some dental work done. He tried to make me drink so I would be more modern."

Mrs. Gremley told Judge Rudolph Desort that her husband struck her during the modernizing process. Mrs. Gremley's attorney, Harry X. Cole, announced a settlement of $6,000 cash and $3,500 in property.

1,540 RESERVES READY TO HELP COAST GUARDS

226 Members with 193 Boats in Chicago.

Washington, D. C., April 2.—One thousand thirty-three boats and 1,540 owners of water craft are enrolled in the new coast guard reserve, Rear Admiral R. R. Waesche, commandant of the United States coast guard, said today.

National defense officials long have considered amateur boat operators as an important arm of the military reserve. Naval officials have made a survey of the number of motor boats now operating which could be used in a national emergency. During the world war they were used for auxiliary duties, such as picketing, laying nets, and carrying dispatches.

Bigger Enrollment Expected.

"Enrollment in this voluntary, nonmilitary organization is progressing satisfactorily," Admiral Waesche said. "With warm weather approaching and the large army of boating enthusiasts beginning to yearn for the touch of the tiller and the freedom of open water, we look for a great increase in enrollment."

Waesche said the purposes of the reserve are to increase safety at seas and on all the navigable waters; to promote efficiency in the operation of motorboats; to obtain better compliance with the laws, and to aid the coast guard. Also, the reserve can assist in the coast guard's neutrality patrol work by reporting any suspicious movements of vessels.

266 Members in Chicago.

The number of enrollments by coast guard districts is as follows: New York, 371 reservists, operating 266 boats; Chicago, 266 reservists, 193 boats; Cleveland, 221 reservists, 171 boats; Norfolk, 175 reservists, 128 boats; St. Louis, 163 reservists, 86 boats; San Francisco, 103 reservists, 40 boats; Jacksonville, 87 reservists, 34 boats; New Orleans, 70 reservists, 56 boats; Seattle, 70 reservists, 46 boats; Boston, 14 reservists, 13 boats.

24 WARSHIPS LEAVE HAWAII FOR WAR GAMES

HONOLULU, T. H., April 2 (AP).—Twenty-four warships in single line formation, led by 14 destroyers, steamed seaward today for the 1940 naval war games. The craft headed southward from Pearl Harbor, but were expected to bear eastward to meet the fleet, which left the mainland yesterday. One stack of each ship was painted yellow, with a black band at the top. It was believed this was to distinguish vessels of the defending fleet in the maneuvers. About 9,000 men were aboard the Hawaiian detachment, which included light and heavy cruisers.

BLONDE REVEALS PELLEY SCHEME TO BE U. S. KING

Tells Boast That He'd Seize Government.

Washington, D. C., April 2 (AP).—From a blonde secret agent—Miss Dorothy Waring of New York—the Dies committee heard today that William Dudley Pelley had planned to use his Silver Legion to seize the United States government and make himself king.

William Pelley.

Miss Waring said Pelley came to her apartment dressed in uniform and black boots and on a shoulder strap carried a pistol. Pelley tried to interest her in supporting the legion financially, she said.

"He explained that eventually the organization would march on Washington and that he would be the dictator of the country," she said.

At another point she said he had assured her he would be the country's white king.

Recalls Letters About Guns.

Pelley, Miss Waring said, told her his legionnaires were armed. She also recalled having seen some correspondence, with either the Winchester or Remington Arms companies, about the purchase of weapons for legionnaires.

Miss Waring said she was a journalist and a former secret agent for the McCormack committee, which preceded the Dies committee in investigating un-American activities for the house.

She was confidential secretary to Royal Gulden, whom she identified as the leader of the order of '76, when she first met Pelley, she testified. She was living on Park avenue and Pelley got the idea that she was wealthy.

Military Tie-up Charged.

Representative Samuel Dickstein [D., N. Y.], who was vice chairman of the McCormack committee, preceded Miss Waring on the stand. Dickstein charged that Pelley had failed to give a true picture of his Silver Shirters when he appeared before the committee recently. On that occasion, Pelley expressed admiration for the committee's work.

Dickstein said Pelley was a Jew-baiter and a self-styled American fuehrer whose aim was to replace the present government with one patterned after the Hitler régime.

"I charge that he was tied up with a number of army officers, and I have evidence to prove it," Dickstein said. "Aids of Pelley kept in close touch with a National Guard officer in Detroit, who trained Ku Klux Klan members for cavalry duty in 'the coming turmoil.'"

Officer's Letters Read.

Representative Charles Kramer [D., Cal.] then identified documents which he said had been seized in Pelley headquarters. Among these were letters which Dickstein said had been sent to a Pelley assistant by Dr. Samuel J. Rubley, now of Logansport, Ind., who was identified as former commander of the medical detachment of the 106th cavalry, National Guard, of Detroit.

One of these, dated Oct. 17, 1938, praised the idea of organizing silver rangers, which Dickstein said were mounted adjuncts of the Silver Shirts. This letter said that Rubley had contacted the leader of the Ku Klux Klan, "Mr. Webber," and that the klan was starting a drive for 10,000 members.

"Out of that number there are to be picked a number and they are to be turned over to me for military drill and training," the letter continued. "From them I'll pick about 50 and drill them during the winter in equitation. My pet dream is to organize a S. S. ranger troop or squadron, and supplement the mounted police [illegible] the coming turmoil."

Dies committee agents obtained a truckload of records in a raid today on Philadelphia communist headquarters. The documents, taken by subpoena and search warrant, included complete membership lists and financial statements.

Waterway Planned

Arrow indicates proposed waterway to link Tennessee and Tombigbee rivers which was included in rivers and harbors bill reported favorably in senate yesterday. The bill also provides for improvement of the Tombigbee and Warrior rivers in Mississippi and Alabama.

1ST PORK BARREL RIVER BILL O. K.'D BY SENATE GROUP

Calls for Outlay of 231 Millions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—A $231,000,000 rivers and harbors bill, the first of a series of three separate pork barrel measures aggregating $412,000,000 under consideration by the senate commerce committee, was reported favorably today. The vote was 12 to 4. Three Republicans joined nine Democrats in recommending approval of the 139 projects authorized by the measure.

The bill authorizes an appropriation of $25,900,000 for improvements on the Illinois waterway in the Chicago area and its extension to connect with the Indiana Harbor canal.

When the house last year passed an omnibus navigation, power and flood control bill aggregating $83,000,000, the senate committee went to work on it and boosted the total to $412,000,000. Threats of a filibuster in the senate induced the committee to recall the bill and split it into three parts, apparently in the belief that opposition to one class of projects might jeopardize the others.

A Navigation Bill.

The bill reported today is a navigation measure, with no power, no flood control, no pork, according to Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], commerce committee chairman and at times a leading economy advocate.

Senators voting against the bill, however, noted that it authorizes an appropriation of $66,000,000 for a waterway connecting the Tennessee and Tombigbee rivers and $6,750,000 for improvements on the Warrior and Tombigbee rivers in Mississippi and Alabama. Mississippi politicians have been seeking congressional approval of the Tombigbee project for more than half a century, but heretofore it has been ridiculed to death.

Senator Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi was the man who put over the Tombigbee project in the commerce committee.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.], Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], and Senator Francis T. Maloney [D., Conn.] were the committeemen voting against it.

Plans for Illinois.

The war department's plans for the Illinois water project include:

1. Enlargement of the Calumet-Sag channel to a width of 160 feet and a usable depth of 9 feet.

2. Dredging on a barge channel 160 feet wide, with a usable depth of nine feet, in the Grand Calumet river from the existing channel in the Little Calumet river to its junction with the Indiana Harbor canal and thence northward thru 141st street, East Chicago, to deep [lake] draft navigation in Indiana harbor.

3. Construction of a lock in the Little Calumet river to prevent reversals of flow and to regulate the water levels and the amount of water diversion westerly of the lock.

4. Rebuilding or otherwise altering at federal expense, all obstructive railroad bridges across the Calumet-Sag channel and the proposed Illinois waterway portions of the Little Calumet river, Calumet river, Grand Calumet river, and Indiana Harbor canal, so as to provide suitable clearances.

RECEIVER PLEA AGAINST DAILY WORKER DENIED

Widow Loses in Effort to Collect Judgment.

New York, April 2 [Special].—Judge Peter M. Daly in Brooklyn Supreme court today denied the application of Mrs. Edith Liggett for the appointment of a receiver for the Comprodaily Publishing Company, Inc.; the Daily Worker, its daily publication which is the official organ of the communist party; and for Clarence Hathaway, editor of the paper.

Mrs. Liggett's petition for receivership was brought in connection with litigation growing out of a series of articles in the Daily Worker. She charged that she and her husband, the late Walter Liggett, were libeled in the articles.

Her husband, editor of a Minneapolis weekly newspaper, was slain Dec. 29, 1935, at a time when he was bringing to a climax an editorial campaign against political-criminal alliances in Minnesota.

Wins $2,762 Judgment.

Mrs. Liggett won a libel judgment of $2,762 against the defendants, corporate and individual, on May 24, 1939. The receivership suit was filed by Morris D. Forkosch, her attorney, after the defendants failed to pay the judgment. Subsequently, a body attachment against Hathaway was granted in a Brooklyn court, and as a result Hathaway, to avoid payment, had to remain in his Brooklyn home for six months during which he edited the Daily Worker by telephone. Had he traveled to Manhattan he would have been subject to arrest.

In denying the receivership application today, Judge Daly tentatively set May 6 for trial of Mrs. Liggett's pending suit against Earl Browder, general secretary and nominal head of the communist party; William Z. Foster, and lesser communist officials named in a separate action charging conspiracy to deprive her of the $2,762.

Mrs. Liggett charges that the libel defendants avoided payment thru a conspiracy by having the publishing company "turn over to others and to the communist party large sums for political propaganda."

Seeks an Injunction.

Her suit also seeks an injunction to restrain the defendants from disposing of any of the assets of the publishing company or the newspaper, and any assets Hathaway may have.

Commenting on an announcement from Washington, D. C. today by Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge that the Daily Worker has complied with the statute requiring agents of foreign governments to register with the state department, Editor Hathaway said:

"Newspaper reports to the effect that the Daily Worker 'admitted' being a foreign agent are false and are contradictory to the official records on which they purport to be based."

[Assistant Attorney General Rogge's announcement in Washington said that while the Daily Worker denied it acted as an agent for any foreign principal it admitted relationship with several foreign organizations, including Runag, a communistic propaganda source in Moscow. Further, it was said the Daily Worker disclosed that arrangements between it and Runag and other foreign news agencies had been made by Secretary Browder of the communist party in the United States and by a Julius Alperi of Paris.]

FINDS STATE HAS LOST PATIENCE WITH NEW DEAL

Warren Wright, candidate for the Republican nomination for state treasurer, returned to Chicago yesterday from a speaking tour downstate. He said he had found Illinoisans generally out of patience with New Deal efforts to buy off the depression.

"They know that the money has run out and that the only way to beat the depression and bring back prosperity is to fight," he asserted. "But they know also that they cannot fight as long as the New Deal has the country bound down with despotic laws and dictatorial edicts adopted for European countries.

"The United States is ready for the greatest advance in its history, once these wraps are removed and business, industry, and agriculture are given a chance to go ahead. That is why the New Deal—lock, stock, and barrel—is going to be tossed out next November."

ROOSEVELT ASKS SIX CHANGES IN FEDERAL SETUP

Says Reorganization Will Save $150,000.

Washington, D. C., April 2 (AP).—A third government reorganization plan, calling for reshuffling of half a dozen agencies and abolition of some jobs and offices, was submitted to congress today by President Roosevelt.

Estimating that the plan would result in savings of about $150,000 a year, Mr. Roosevelt said this "comparatively small amount in no way measures the worth of the proposals." Their principal advantage, he said, "will be increased effectiveness of operation of the agencies concerned." The plan would:

1. Consolidate the bureau of fisheries and the bureau of biological survey into a single bureau to be known as the fish and wild life service.

2. Consolidate into a fiscal service in the treasury the office of the treasurer of the United States, the office of commissioner of accounts, and the public debt service.

New Marketing Organization.

3. Correlate the functions of the federal alcohol administrator with the activities of the bureau of internal revenue, particularly the latter's alcohol tax unit.

4. Consolidate the division of marketing and marketing agreements of the Agricultural Adjustment administration and the Surplus Commodities corporation into an agency to be known as the surplus marketing administration.

5. Abolish the offices of commissioner of immigration and district commissioner of immigration and naturalization. Both are in the labor department.

6. Clarify the relations of the administrator of the civil aeronautics authority and the five-man board of the CAA by making the administrator the chief administrative officer of the authority "with respect to all functions other than those relating to economic regulation and certain other activities." This, Mr. Roosevelt said, would eliminate confusion of responsibilities.

An Office Is Abolished.

7. Abolish the statutory office of recorder of the general land office of the interior department, its duties to be absorbed by the regular civil service personnel of the land office. The President said the office of recorder was a "relic of the quill and sand box period in the transcription of land records."

The order will become effective within 60 days unless it is rejected by both houses of congress.

Under Mr. Roosevelt's second reorganization plan, the bureau of fisheries was transferred from the commerce to the interior department, and the bureau of biological survey was shifted from agriculture to interior. He said today, however, that the "natural areas of operation of these two bureaus frequently coincide, and their activities are interrelated and similar in character." Consolidation, he added, will "eliminate duplication of work, facilitate coördination of programs and improve service to the public."

Plans Wildlife Director.

The new fish and wildlife service would be administered by a director and not more than two assistant directors. The offices of commissioner and deputy commissioner of fisheries and the offices of chief and associate chief of the bureau of biological survey would be abolished and their functions transferred. The office of fisheries commissioner is now vacant. Ira N. Gabrielson is chief of the bureau of biological survey.

The Surplus Commodities corporation, among other duties, supervises the distribution of surplus food products to the needy by means of the stamp plan. The division of marketing agreements with which it will be included, administers AAA marketing agreements regulating the sale of milk and some fruit and vegetable crops. Agriculture department officials said Milo Perkins, president of the Surplus Commodities corporation, would become administrator of the newly created Surplus Marketing administration.

IF EVERYTHING SEEMS TO GO WRONG

Answer this question . . .

Are you sure that you may not be a victim of too much acid in your bladder!—a condition which can be brought on if your kidneys fail to eliminate at least two quarts a day. Here's what can happen if that occurs—

The acids and by-products of metabolism (which are expelled thru the bladder) are insufficiently diluted. They reach the bladder in such a highly concentrated acid condition that they irritate the sphincter muscle and the sensitive bladder linings. Such irritations can cause those "overwhelming" urges that wake you up; pains in back, lower abdomen and the legs; burning passages, itching. Under such conditions, you can't be blamed if you feel blue. But you can be blamed if you take no steps to relieve such a situation.

Take FOLEY PILLS. They act on your kidneys and bladder in three ways. They stir those sluggish kidneys, and dilute and neutralize the over-acid contents of your bladder. Furthermore, FOLEY PILLS transform those over-acid contents into a bland solution which actually helps soothe those tortured tissues and quiet those irritations which may be responsible for those "overwhelming" urges, backaches, getting up nights, burning, itching, etc.

Don't let too much acid in your bladder make you feel worse. Start taking Foley Pills today. Quick results, quick relief, quick satisfaction or your money back. At all druggists.

WHEATON SPEECH ENDS DOWNSTATE TOUR BY BIDWILL

Confident in G. O. P. Race for State Secretary.

Arthur J. Bidwill, a Republican candidate for secretary of state, yesterday completed his downstate campaign by appearing in Wheaton. Since Jan. 26 he has been in each of the 101 counties outside of Cook.

Arthur J. Bidwill.

Confidence that he will carry the downstate sections as well as the metropolitan area was expressed by Bidwill. He claims that a majority of the regularly elected Republican ward committeemen in Chicago are supporting him. He has the unanimous indorsement of the country township G. O. P. leaders in Cook county, he said.

Youngest of 3 Candidates.

At 37, Bidwill is the youngest of the three Republican candidates for the office he seeks. However, he has had long business and executive experience, being now the general manager of a printing and office supplies company.

In 1938 Bidwill was elected state senator by a majority of 33,000 votes—said to be the largest ever received by any one in Illinois. This was termed a demonstration of the indignant reaction of voters in the 7th senatorial district to Bidwill's ouster from the senate in an election contest in 1935 after he had received a certificate of election.

Benefits Him Politically.

The senate vote depriving Bidwill of his seat was taken at the apex of the Democratic majority's push toward this goal. Young Bidwill fervently pleaded for fair play, but the dominant group inched him out of the senate during a four hour session. There was no recount of the ballots.

What might have seemed at first a blighting personal tragedy turned out to be of benefit to Bidwill politically. His case was termed a symbol of Democratic ruthlessness, and the next year he won the Republican nomination for state auditor.

Altho defeated in the Democratic landslide, Bidwill seized the opportunity in the 1936 campaign to make many friends downstate. Thru these friends he now has an organization for his present candidacy in every county.

Bidwill resides with his wife and three children in River Forest.

SENATOR BURKE PUTS AMERICAN PRINCIPLES FIRST

Seeks Renomination as Foe of Burocracy.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Omaha, Neb., April 2.—Senator Edward R. Burke's campaign for renomination by the Nebraska Democrats next Tuesday is based primarily upon his record in support of what he considers American principles of government, as against the growth of a New Deal burocracy which follows the European patterns of a centralized power.

On this issue, which is called conservatism, he stands firm against the attacks of his party opposition, led by Gov. R. L. Cochran, who stands on a general and rather vague platform of "sympathy with Roosevelt and the liberals," with whom, he says, Senator Burke is not in sympathy.

Labor May Decide Winner.

Senator Burke is devoting the last week of the campaign to Omaha, where the labor vote may decide the issue for the state, as between conservative and radical Democrats. Here he takes the stand that political liberty is the first essential to be considered, that when this is lost, as it may well be with increasing burocratic pressure from Washington, the whole interdependent progress of humanity receives a setback.

Senator Burke has straightforward and unusual campaigning methods. In Omaha he is depending a good deal upon house party meetings, some 200 of which have been conducted in all parts of the city. Here the women play a predominant part. They are organized by precincts and every day several of them give a house party, in which they play cards and serve tea and in the course of the afternoon or evening introduce Senator Burke to their guests.

The senator takes as much pains in explaining his principles to these groups or in greeting street corner groups in the country towns as he does to his larger audiences in the meeting halls.

Majority Want Jobs.

"I have never doubted," he says, "that those receiving assistance from the government would far prefer steady jobs in private employment at fair wages. So with the millions who constitute the ranks of the unemployed, whether on federal relief or not. What they want is the opportunity for jobs.

"To that problem of providing regular work in private industry I have devoted every bit of energy at my command. We must open the way for the free flow of private capital into investment. As the American Federation of Labor says: 'When the opportunities for profit diminish, opportunities for jobs disappear.'

"This country has become the leading nation on earth by holding fast to the principle of free enterprise. When taxes are too high, or punitive in nature, when labor relations are mishandled, when business is unduly harassed, capital remains idle. Progress is stifled. The inevitable consequence is widespread unemployment, an enormous relief burden, a fearsome national debt.

Sees New Deal Mistakes.

"I have devoted my utmost efforts to release the log-jam, to aid in starting a great forward movement that would put men and women back to work at fair wages. I have opposed the enactment of some measures because they seemed to me to endanger such a purpose. No one appreciates more fully than I do the enormity of the task that confronted this administration. No one is more ready to acclaim the splendid accomplishments of the last seven years."

"But I see clearly mistakes that have been made, and I would correct them before they work irreparable injury."

Senator Burke's chances have increased greatly, according to the report of his scouts, with the endorsement of former Gov. Arthur J. Weaver's candidacy for the senate on the Republican side by Senator George W. Norris. The Norris Progressive vote, it is figured, swings from one party to another, and this move may mean a loss of 20,000 votes for Cochran. It also may result in the nomination of Hugh Butler of Omaha as Republican senatorial candidate. With Butler and Burke nominated, it is figured, the Norris independent group would have to put up another candidate by petition.

Trend Toward Conservatism.

Despite the great relief needs of Nebraska in the last six years, due to crop failures, despite the New Deal money sent into the state, there is a distinct conservative trend observable today, both in the Democratic and Republican camps. President Roosevelt is unopposed for the Democratic presidential preference in the April 9 balloting, but that does not mean the Nebraska Democrats are in favor of a third term. They are privately against it and are talking of a Hull-Farley ticket.

On the Republican side, while Dewey is expected to get the popular vote, there already is talk of the delegation ignoring this advisory vote and going for Vandenberg or Taft.

One of the interesting results of the primary election will be that of William Ritchie for delegate-at-large to the Democratic national convention. He is a Burke worker and has announced himself as against a third term. Incidentally, he reports that Burke sentiment is growing among labor groups and that he will be nominated.

Stands by His Principles.

Senator Burke comes by his ideas on political liberty partly thru inheritance. His father's people were refugees from English political persecution in Ireland, his mother a Yankee school teacher. He was born in a section house in Running Water, S. D., 60 years ago, and worked his way thru Beloit college and the Harvard law school.

He is noted in this state for disregard of his political fortunes when a matter of principle is concerned. He sticks by the principle and lets the results fall where they may. He has refused to surrender to New Deal dictation in Washington, and is taking the consequences today in this campaign. The New Deal opposition is under cover, but still is there.

In his campaign address on the monopoly investigation Senator Burke gave, perhaps, the best exposition of his stand in regard to New Deal trends.

Bias Against Business Told.

"The departmental representatives who have been conspicuous in the hearings have a strong bias against big business," he said. "They believe firmly that a concentration of power in the federal government is necessary to break up a concentration of power in private industry.

"They see monopoly in every large aggregation of capital and are prone to overlook such benefits as are derived by the masses of our population. They think our economic system has failed and that far-reaching changes must take place. The structure that they envision has more resemblance to socialist and fascist states than to the American system of free enterprise.

"It is proposed, and much of the program has already been enacted into law, that federal burocrats shall supervise the management of our industry, agriculture, and finance. Control is to be taken away from private business men, farmers, and financiers and vested in the government. The pattern is strikingly similar to that which has been followed in the totalitarian countries of Europe, but is in violent conflict with our system of free enterprise."

Sullivan, president; John Hogan, vice president; Earl J. McMahon, secretary and treasurer, and Hugh Mulligan, Patrick Cullen, and Frank Axelson, trustees.

ERNEST W. MAU QUITS POST AS BERWYN OFFICIAL

Ernest W. Mau, ex-convict treasurer of Berwyn, resigned his office last night. The resignation was accepted by unanimous vote of Mayor Anton Janura and the aldermen.

The resignation came as Robert Wright, assistant state's attorney, was preparing to present evidence to the grand jury today seeking new indictments charging forgery against Mau and Matthew Berg, former treasurer. Mau and Berg were acquitted Feb. 14 on a directed verdict by Judge William J. Lindsay of charges of embezzling $3,726 from the Berwyn special assessment fund. Evidence at the trial indicated a $513,498 shortage in the fund. Wright said other persons might be involved.

The embezzlement trial came to an unprecedented conclusion when Wright staged a "sitdown" after Judge Lindsay had ordered the public defender to draft contempt citations against the state's star witnesses, Attorney Harry H. Hitzeman and his wife, Rosalyn.

Taft May Withdraw Name from New Jersey Primary

Trenton, N. J., April 2 [Special].—United States Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, in a telephone conversation from Washington with the secretary of state's office here, indicated today that he will withdraw his name from New Jersey's Republican presidential primary. This action would leave Thomas E. Dewey as the only Republican entry.

PENDERGAST FOE ELECTED MAYOR OF KANSAS CITY

Rides to Victory on Issue of Machine Control.

Kansas City, Mo., April 2 (AP).—Tom Pendergast's once all-powerful political citadel, which slow horses and federal income tax evasions sent tottering, was crushed today by women.

John B. Gage. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Aroused by the pleadings of a Fusionist party, led for the most part by Democratic and Republican business men who never before sought political office, the militant women outcampaigned and out-fought the Pendergast-blessed forces into a devastating defeat in a city election for 11 elective offices.

So crushing was the defeat that out of the race for mayor, eight councilmen, and two municipal judges, the straight Democratic ticket won only one council seat, possibly two, but no more.

Mayor Victor a Lawyer.

Leading the Fusionist parade was John B. Gage, Kansas City lawyer, who won the mayoralty from Flavel Robertson by a majority of approximately 20,000. Gage is the first man in 14 years to be elected mayor without Pendergast blessing. Swept into office with him were four councilmen-at-large, two district councilmen, and two city municipal judges.

Thus the Pendergast-blessed ticket, run without the former boss, who is nearing the end of his term at Leavenworth for income tax evasion, lost its greatest remaining stronghold, the city hall.

Before today's rout at the polls, which drew approximately 175,000 votes, the machine that dominated this city of 400,000 for 16 years had lost control of the WPA, the city police department, and all caste with Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, former Pendergast man who later became the boss' worst and hardest fighting enemy.

Returns from 450 of 462 precincts for mayor gave: Gage, 91,336; Robertson, 72,006.

Women Turn the Tide.

But the women were the story. They turned the tide against a political stronghold once ranked as the most invincible city machine in the nation. The women worked to get out the vote and they got it. They even invaded the northside Democratic stronghold and won precincts in the 1st and 2d wards that haven't returned a vote against the Democrats within memory.

Despite the heavy vote, an air of calm prevailed in marked contrast to the bloody and fraudulent elections of such years as 1934, when four persons were killed, and 1936, when the landslide Democratic vote resulted in indictment of more than 200 persons for vote fraud conspiracy.

There were three arrests today—one for alleged voting under an assumed name and two charging attempted vote buying.

The election was forced by passage in February of a charter amendment cutting short the terms of incumbent city officials. The amendment was placed on the ballot by the same Fusionist groups backing Gage today, but had the verbal support of James Pendergast, nephew of the imprisoned Pendergast and heir to at least part of his political power.

City Corruption Revealed.

Pendergast's indictment, just a year ago next Sunday, was the opening wedge in a series of events leading to today's election. It was followed by the indictment and imprisonment of several of his key lieutenants, closing of the city's $20,000,000 a year gambling industry, smashing of a $12,000,000 a year narcotics ring, passing of police department control from city to state and disclosures of city hall financial discrepancies.

Thruout a hectic campaign, fusionists labeled the Democratic organization ticket a "machine" slate, pointed to its "100 per cent" indorsement by James Pendergast and its selection by a committee named by John G. Madden, Democratic county chairman and a Tom Pendergast attorney.

BODY OF BLONDE FOUND IN STREET OF HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Cal., April 2 (AP).—The body of Pearl Wessel, an attractive blonde from St. Louis, was found tonight on the pavement at the bottom of a steep hillside. Police were informed two men had been seen driving away from the spot where Miss Wessel last was seen alive.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cote, who live nearby, said a youth came to their door shortly after dusk and told of seeing Miss Wessel go up the 30 foot hillside, apparently struggling with a man. The youth said he saw her disappear and then two men driving away in an old automobile. The youth obtained a license number, which was turned over to police.

CICERO ELECTS 1ST REPUBLICAN IN TWELVE YEARS

34,663 Out of 38,330 Voters Go to Polls.

For the first time in 12 years a Republican was victorious in a Cicero town election yesterday when Frank J. Christenson won the post of assessor, defeating the Democratic incumbent, Henry R. Schwarzel. Five other Democrats, two of them incumbents, won the other posts at stake in the election.

Frank Christenson.

The election was one of the most hotly contested in the history of Cicero. There were 34,663 votes cast, more than 90 per cent of the total registration of 38,330. In all cases the Republican and Democratic candidates were separated by less than 900 votes, and for the position of town clerk, the Democratic candidate, Anton J. Krupicka, won over his Republican opponent by only 39 votes.

Both Get More Votes.

Both parties polled more votes than they had in the 1936 election. The small majorities for the Democrats yesterday, and in 1936 when they won all places, were in sharp contrast to 1932, when Joseph G. Cerny, the Democratic nominee for town president, received 1,399 votes more than the Republican candidate.

A third slate of candidates, the Better Government party, polled only a small percentage of the vote, but if there had not been a third party and these votes had been added to Republican totals, the G. O. P. would have swept the entire election. The Republicans charged that the Better Government candidates were picked by Congressman Anton Maciejewski, Democratic boss.

How Candidates Finished.

In the following tabulation, Democratic candidates are denoted by D, Republicans by R, Better Government candidates by B G, and incumbents by asterisks:

PRESIDENT—George Stadronsky [D.]*, 16,496; Frank E. Svoboda [R.], 15,603; James J. Pelikan [B. G.], 2,078.

TOWN CLERK—Anton J. Krupicka [D.], 16,150; John C. Stoffel [R.], 16,011; Ben Boehrman [B. G.], 1,896.

TOWN COLLECTOR—Jerry J. Viterna [D.]*, 16,294; Jerry Dolezal [R.], 15,674; Joseph F. Kafka [B. G.], 2,023.

TOWN ASSESSOR—Frank J. Christenson [R.], 16,179; Henry R. Schwarzel [D.]*, 15,949; Walter Babita [B. G.], 1,893.

TOWN SUPERVISOR—Leo Kasperski [D.], 16,132; Frank A. Marek [R.], 15,807; James Serna [B. G.], 2,083.

TOWN TRUSTEE—Edward Grisko [D.], 16,207; Jerry A. Holecek [R.], 15,793; Walter J. Smith [B. G.], 2,091.

Two instances of violence were reported during the voting. John B. Grazulus, 1527 South 50th avenue, a Republican worker, suffered a broken nose when three men assaulted him with pistol butts at 15th street and 49th court. Frank Kay, another Republican worker, said the same three chased him from the same corner and smashed the windshield and side window of his automobile.

LANDON AND HAMILTON INDORSED FOR KANSAS DELEGATES-AT-LARGE

Beloit, Kas., April 2 (AP).—Republicans in all of Kansas' seven congressional districts have endorsed Alf M. Landon, 1936 presidential nominee, and National Chairman John Hamilton for delegates-at-large to the G. O. P. national convention in Philadelphia.

The 6th district—last in the state to hold its district convention—voted today for L. A. McNally of Minneapolis and W. D. Ferguson of Colby as district delegates.

In most states all delegates are chosen in state convention. In Kansas two delegates are chosen in each district convention. Four delegates-at-large are chosen at the state convention.

Today's district election represented a complete triumph for the Republican faction led by Landon and Gov. Payne Ratner, who did not enter the competition. He left the other spot open for Hamilton.

DEWEY BACKERS WIN NEW YORK DELEGATE RACE

Garner Forces Lose in Primary Vote.

New York, April 2 (AP).—Pro-Dewey candidates for election as delegates to the Republican national convention appeared to be easy winners tonight in the only New York City congressional district where the organization's designees were contested.

Representative Bruce Barton and Mrs. Mildred Hollingsworth had 267 and 284 respectively, in early returns from the 16th congressional district, to 77 and 60 respectively for Mrs. Florence Chatfield and Lambert Fairchild, who ran with opposition to Dewey as the issue. The polls closed at 10 p. m.

Barton and Mrs. Hollingsworth are followers of Republican National Committeeman Kenneth Simpson, who has promised his first-ballot support to Dewey. Altho Republican candidates for delegates ran uncommitted, most of them were favorable either to Dewey or to Frank Gannett, Rochester publisher, with Dewey conceded by many politicians as likely to get the greater share of the 92 member delegation selected.

Garner Forces Defeated.

Garner forces failed in their challenge to Roosevelt third-term sentiment. Incomplete but apparently decisive returns late tonight from the only four congressional districts in which they opposed organization designees indicated that Garner candidates for election as delegates to the Democratic national convention had been defeated in each case.

The regular designers—Tammany's and those of the allied Democratic organizations—while not committed, are expected to support a third nomination for President Roosevelt, if he wants it.

Victory Margin 2-1.

The district in which the Garner backers had concentrated their campaign—the 16th—showed the Tammany designees, Representative James F. Fay, a 100 per cent New Dealer, and John Eagan leading by more than 2 to 1.

The vote: Fay, 4,799; Eagan, 4,737; Alfred E. Smith Jr., 2,125, and State Senator John McNaboe, 2,141.

In the 23d district organization designees had leads of around 4 to 1; in the 22d [where Ed Flynn, pro-Roosevelt Democratic boss of the Bronx, was one of the candidates for delegates], better than 5 to 1; in the 1st district about 5 to 1.

At midnight the outcome of the intraparty fight between right and left for control of the American Labor party had not been indicated.

PLASTICS ON PARADE (4)

By CALEB

COMES now under scrutiny a recently developed plastic—Lucite—wherein we have the paradoxical and the impossible actualized! A research group worked years to achieve it, and their sole "raw materials" were coal, air and water!

The intricate chemical processes involved in making this plastic comprise thirty distinct steps, involving pressures equal to that developed in firing a great naval gun (five tons to the square inch). The result is a clear liquid called a monomer, which, in three further changes, known as "polymerization," emerges as a transparent solid of a crystalline clarity that rivals Nature's own quartz.

As easily as you are doing now, you could read these lines through a solid block of Lucite a foot thick; yet the peculiarity of a cylinder of the material is that, looking in endwise, nothing can be seen through its sides. The reason is that the inside walls are mirror-like, producing the phenomenon called "total reflection."

Two further amazing attributes belong to Lucite: (1) a ball of it dropped onto a steel plate bounces, instead of breaking; (2) in solid rod form, however curved or angled, it transmits light rays from source to exit without loss of brilliance or gain of heat! In this way light can pass almost undiminished even through Lucite knots. "Edge lighting," as it is called, is also made available, by cutting or etching the surface and allowing the prisoned light to escape. Decorative effects are endless.

With such a thrillingly fascinating substance to deal with, facets of mention crowd in headlong! It is hard to keep any explanation organized. Think, for example, what the unique properties of Lucite mean to the surgeon or dentist, in providing him delicate, self-lighting exploratory instruments. Or to the decorator, designer and display advertiser, for artistic effects. Or to the builder of mechanical models, for transparent reproduction of hidden working parts—to the costume jeweler, the auto builder, the muralist, the lighting specialist . . . even the furniture maker. For of Lucite are entire chairs gracing the Crystal Room of the Hall Galleries in Boston! The iridescent ceiling of the St. Francis Hotel cocktail lounge in San Francisco—and the luminous lounge mural in Sak's new Hollywood store—are further Lucite triumphs.

In short, here is the very poetry of plastics. Twenty-four states have highway departments studying Lucite safety markers for night driving. Lucite duplicates of pearls, star sapphires, rubies, moonstones, and other precious stones rival the originals. As for merchandise uses, in over fourscore miscellaneous lines its popularity is already assured . . . and in these matters of universality and versatility only one other plastic, yet to be considered, offers it conspicuous competition.

HORNER'S NEW SLUSH LEVY PUT AT 30 PER CENT

Civil Service Gouge Hit by Adamowski.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

An unprecedented slush fund levy on state employés is in progress in Illinois, Benjamin S. Adamowski, minority leader in the Illinois house and insurgent candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, charged last night.

He said the new gouge is deeper than any before and includes all the 12,000 state civil service workers, who in the past were dealt with gently because state law prohibits solicitation from them.

Adamowski said the new levy is being made because both the Nash-Kelly and the Springfield wings of the regular Democrats are in a desperate financial condition as the primary draws near.

Chairmen Exacting Levies.

The civil service workers are being solicited by the various regular Democratic county chairmen, Adamowski said. He said Samuel L. Nudelman, state finance director, decided on this method because of the danger of prosecutions for making collections from civil service employés. The county chairmen are being rewarded for their work by being permitted to keep their collections for disbursement in their own districts next Tuesday, the day of the primary.

Adamowski said another reason for the heavy levy at this time is that the slush fund collected by the Illinoisans and released by the courts last week is not the windfall that had been expected. While this fund, banked in Nudelman's name, totals $200,000, virtually all of it is mortgaged and cannot be used in the final critical days of the primary, he declared.

"The opposition, in desperation, is engaged in a criminal attempt to get funds to fight the insurgent Democratic candidates, Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, candidate for governor; State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, candidate for reëlection, and myself," Adamowski said.

Rate Is 12 to 30 Per Cent.

Adamowski issued the charges before making a radio address and visiting ward meetings in behalf of the insurgent campaign against the regular Democrats. He said the charges were based on information received from civil service workers thruout the state. On Monday night Barrett charged that the Nudelman forces were taking $150,000 from the pay checks of the 18,000 noncivil service employés.

"The new levy on the April pay checks ranges from 12 to 30 per cent, varying in different localities," Adamowski said. "In Springfield the rate is 15 per cent."

The insurgent Democrats appeared at four ward meetings last night, 2709 East 83d street, 8801 Commercial avenue, 4615 South Mozart street, and in St. John Cantius hall, Carpenter street and Chicago avenue.

Stelle Calls for Cleanup.

Stelle, in his speeches, recounted recent scandals involving the present administration in Springfield, and called for a housecleaning in the party.

"In recent weeks the citizens have been jolted to the realization that something has happened in our state," he said. "Headlines blazon the story of court orders, indictments, and scandals.

"Never before have our citizens been so aroused. And never before has there been such dire necessity for them to rise in protest. When the people voted for Henry Horner and nonesty and decency in 1938, they didn't vote for a bedside cabinet, a backroom regency."

REGULAR SLATE STICKS TO THIRD TERM REFRAIN

Sound Roosevelt Praises at Ward Meetings.

Democratic candidates on the regular slate continued their praises of President Roosevelt and their insistence that a third term for Roosevelt is the main issue in the Illinois Democratic primary as they visited 15 ward meetings on the south and west sides last night. They sped busily from rally to rally from 8 p. m. to midnight, each candidate averaging four appearances during the evening.

Four candidates from the top of the state ticket headed each of the flying squads. They were Senator James M. Slattery, candidate to succeed himself; Harry B. Hershey, candidate for governor; State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis, seeking nomination for lieutenant governor, and Congressman John C. Martin, candidate for state auditor. Cook county stalwarts of the party brought up the speaking strength at each meeting to an average of seven men.

Senator Slattery told his audiences, mostly in the south side colored wards, that Democratic voters must demand that President Roosevelt seek a third term.

Praises Foreign Policy.

"He kept us out of war," Senator Slattery said. "You and I know what he accomplished in the perilous days of the last year. You have seen our fears of being involved in the struggle dispelled thru the months as he has met every issue that has arisen."

Referring to the Supreme court decision Monday compelling the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to refund more than 6 million dollars to their 800,000 customers in Chicago, Senator Slattery said he thought the decision was a good test of his administration as chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission.

"When the gas company first sought to increase its rates in 1936 I heard all the evidence and decided it was unfair and an unnecessary burden on the plain people of Chicago," he said.

Hershey at Massmeeting.

Hershey addressed a massmeeting of members of the Chicago Teachers' union at the Auditorium hotel before attending ward gatherings in the 8th, 16th, 17th, and 18th wards.

"I want to continue the splendid work the state of Illinois has been doing in the field of education," he said. "I favor the further development especially of the vocational training opportunities in the state. My program as governor will provide an ever normal granary of benefits for the people of Illinois. I believe in a program to promote safety on the state's highways and to extend the farm to market road system."

HIT, RUN DRIVER KILLS VETERAN.

Moline, Ill., April 2 [Special].—David Carlson, 52 years old, a world war veteran, died in Moline Public hospital today of injuries received Sunday when he was struck by a hit-and-run motorist. Police found a broken cowl light at the scene and hoped it would aid them in apprehending the driver.

Appear in Court

Martin Ochs (left), who was held to grand jury, and Paul Labriola, who was discharged in Felony court.

A true bill charging Martin Ochs, 27 years old, with robbery, was reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday after a hearing in Felony court in which Ochs was held to the jury in $10,000 bond by Judge Jay A. Schiller.

John Annes, son of James Annes, wealthy owner of a restaurant chain who has been in technical custody as a material witness, was released. Charges against Paul Labriola, a city employé arrested with Ochs, were dismissed.

The robbery was that of the National Baking company, 325 East 26th street last Wednesday night. Two men held up James Glyman, the owner, and took $837. Annes, who formerly worked for Glyman, was in the bakery office at the time of the holdup. Annes, on the witness stand, said he had been riding in an automobile a short time before with Labriola, who is a former school friend, Ochs, and a man he knew only as Joe. Annes named Ochs, but not Labriola, as one of the robbers. He said he knew nothing of a contemplated robbery. Glyman identified Ochs in the court room.

LYONS PROMISES TO KEEP POLITICS OUT OF SCHOOLS

Patronage in Education Is Termed Intolerable.

Richard J. Lyons, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, pledged himself last night to keep the school system free of politics if he is elected.

Speaking before the Chicago Teachers' union in the Auditorium theater, Lyons declared that education is the provice of educators, not politicians. Lyons also spoke in Oak Park, Chicago Heights, in the 30th ward, and before colored Shriners in the Savoy ballroom, 47th street and South Park way.

"I believe that a candidate's campaign promises should be considered in the light of his record," Lyons told the teachers. "It is a matter of pride to me, therefore, that Francis G. Blair, former state superintendent of public instruction, has asked the teachers of Illinois to support my candidacy.

School Patronage Assailed.

"It is intolerable that any public official or member of any school or college board should attempt to use our educational system as a means of building a political machine or dispensing political patronage. It is the duty of school boards to represent all the citizens—not political parties or factions."

Lyons then outlined policies which he said he would strive to put into effect. He said he favors extension of an adequate tenure law to downstate teachers to insure them greater security.

"I consider it axiomatic that every teacher should have a full and fair hearing before removal for cause," he said. "I regard it as elementary that all meetings of school boards should open and that star chamber sessions should be outlawed. I advocate increasing the requirements for teacher education.

Executive Rule Urged.

"I consider it so obvious as hardly to require mention that matters of educational policy, both in our elementary or secondary schools and in our colleges and normal schools, should be invariably considered in the light of the recommendations of the responsible executive officers.

"Laymen should recognize and never forget that education is a field for experts. Thruout my public life I have been guided by this principle."

At the other meetings he addressed Lyons stressed his 10 years' experience in the legislature and declared that familiarity with the state's lawmaking machinery is vital to a governor.

He declared that Gov. Horner's lack of legislative or executive experience was responsible in part for the increase in government cost during the last seven and one-half years. [Horner was Probate judge of Cook county before being elected governor.]

LUND CHARGES FUND DIVERSION BY HORNERITES

Gov. Horner and Samuel L. Nudelman, state director of finance, have bankrupted Illinois to build a Democratic political machine, it was charged in a radio address last night by State Representative Arnold L. Lund of Riverside, candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

Lund declared that Horner and Nudelman are guilty of malfeasance, that they have diverted more than 31 million dollars in relief and old age assistance funds, and that they plan to impose new taxes upon the people after the April 9 primary.

Lund pledged himself to direct all his energies toward economy if elected. As lieutenant governor he would be president of the senate and would have great influence toward sidetracking bad and wasteful legislation, he said.

"The lieutenant governor, if he is conscientious and forceful, can become the watchdog of the Illinois treasury," Lund continued. "That I pledge to do. My record in the general assembly this last session has proved my sincerity."

BROOKS ASSAILS NEW DEAL POLICY AS ROAD TO WAR

Scores Secret Work of Emissaries.

Utterances and activities of the Roosevelt administration's representatives abroad were submitted by Wayland Brooks last night as proof that the New Deal is plunging this country toward war.

Brooks, a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, reviewed the doings of Ambassadors Bullitt and Kennedy, Minister James H. R. Cromwell, and the secret negotiations of Sumner Welles.

"If elected, I will make every effort to see that America takes advantage of the fact we are more than 3,000 miles from Europe's turmoil," Brooks said in meetings in Oak Park, Chicago Heights, and in the 30th ward. "We must stay completely and absolutely out of their wars.

Assails Pink-Reds.

"America is confused. I doubt that any one can determine truly what the Roosevelt foreign relations program is. I am certain that unless the pink-Reds in Washington are deposed by the Republican party in November they will lead us into another war."

Brooks, an overseas veteran of the last war, holds a number of decorations for bravery under fire and was wounded seven times while fighting with the marines. Opposition to foreign entanglements has been one of the themes of his campaign.

"The present administration promoted a neutrality law which was supposed to insure our remaining neutral in any European conflict," he said. "It prohibited sale of war materials to any people at war. But as soon as war started in Europe this same administration forced congress to change the law so we could sell war materials on a so-called cash and carry basis.

Secret Moves Cited.

"Each day we learn of new secret moves by the administration that brings us nearer to the brink. The crash of a bombing plane some months ago brought out the fact that secret deals had been made to sell our latest aircraft to warring nations. We never have been told the truth about the visit of Sumner Welles to the capitals of the warring countries of Europe.

"Our people are alarmed by the steady march of European dictator power against the minorities. They are worried when the head of this government talks about taking an aggressive interest in the peace of Europe.

"When elected to the senate of the United States, I never will cast my vote to send one American boy to die on the battle fields of Europe. But, if our country is forced at any time to defend its shores against foreign invaders, I will take the front line again."

N. U. GROUP WILL WATCH POLLS FOR STELLE FACTION

More than 800 members of the Northwestern Better Government league have pledged themselves to act as poll watchers for the insurgent Democratic ticket in the precincts next Tuesday, Benjamin S. Rosengard, president, said yesterday. The league, composed of Northwestern university alumni and undergraduates, has given its support to the Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett insurgent ticket.

"The league is strictly nonpartisan," Rosengard said. "Its members were active for Dwight Green, Republican candidate for mayor in 1939, and for Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney in Democratic primaries."

Many of the members will carry cameras to the poll areas, Rosengard said, in efforts to obtain evidence which might be used in the courts.

Adamowski Forms a Law Firm with Old Partners

Benjamin S. Adamowski, a candidate for the United States senate in the Democratic primary, announced yesterday that he has formed a law partnership with James V. Sallemi and Joseph B. Crowley. The three men previously were associated in offices at 30 North La Salle street. They have opened new quarters at 135 South La Salle street. Adamowski has been a member of the state legislature for nine years. He is a former master in chancery in the Circuit court and former attorney for the board of election commissioners.

SECOND CHURCH POLL INDICATES SHIFTS IN VOTES

Garner and Stelle Slip a Bit in Canvass.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A poll of 31 Chicago churches last Sunday in THE TRIBUNE'S straw vote shows some variations from the poll of 39 churches polled Easter Sunday. In today's church table Thomas E. Dewey, Republican candidate in the presidential primary, has more votes than President Roosevelt, as he did in Easter's straws. Roosevelt has a larger percentage of the Democratic vote than before, getting 91.89 per cent of those straws, while Vice President Garner, who had 11.77 per cent in last week's churches, has 8.11 in today's.

John Stelle, antimachine Democratic candidate for governor against Harry B. Herschey, has a drop in this week's church vote as compared with last week's. So has Benjamin S. Adamowski, antimachine candidate for senator against Senator James M Slattery. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney keeps at about his old ratio of 64.71 per cent against 35.29 for John Gutknecht.

Green Ratio Increases.

Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for governor, got 65.57 per cent of today's church straws and Richard J Lyons 34.43, an increase for Green over the Easter table.

Twenty-seven downstate cities in today's poll gave net results which reduced Stelle's downstate percentage somewhat. He is still leading Hershey in the downstate poll. Out of 19,083 Democratic straws outside of Cook county so far in the tables, Stelle has 52.28 per cent.

In the cities given today he leads in a round dozen. Some are in the north, like Sterling, Watseka, Danville, and Hoopeston. He leads in Jacksonville in central Illinois, in Beardstown on the Illinois river in old-fashioned Democratic territory—all within easy distance of the state house and its machine. Hershey's ratio was brought up largely by a straw poll in Decatur which gave him 100 more votes than Stelle.

Regarded as Close Race.

Hershey got 51.60 per cent of the straws in today's 26 cities; Stelle had 55.64 per cent of the straws in 19 cities yesterday, when the table contained more towns from southern Illinois, where the lieutenant governor lives and is strong. As the poll stands, subject to changes in later straws, politicians regard this as a close race.

In 19 of 27 downstate cities in today's poll, Dewey got more votes than did Roosevelt. Green increased his percentage a trifle. He has 61.02 per cent of the straws in today's cities; Lyons 38.98. Lyons led in four of the cities. In yesterday's cities, Green had a trifle under 60 per cent of the vote.

In all Republican straws to date in Chicago, suburbs, and downstate, Green has 60.02 per cent; Lyons 39.98. Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for senator against Ralph Church, has 67.57 per cent of the total straws; Church 32.43.

DITCHBURNE HITS NEW DEAL; ASKS LABOR'S SUPPORT

Harry S. Ditchburne, Republican candidate for nomination for state's attorney, made an appeal for the support of labor in a radio speech last night. He predicted victory for the Republican party, saying "the people are tired of experimentation and the empty promises of the New Deal."

He cited his indorsement in 1936 as a friend of labor and said that if elected he would not interfere with the lawful activities of honest unions.

"The union working man should be allowed to work out his own union problems as long as he stays within legal bounds," Ditchburne said, "and in that type of activity my attitude would be hands off."

LAW PROHIBITS PARTY SWITCH IN THIS PRIMARY

Jarecki Warns 1939 Choice Prevails.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki reminded 1,261,904 Chicago voters yesterday that under the amended state primary act they are bound to vote in the April 9 primary on the same party lines they followed in the mayoral primary of Feb. 28, 1939.

The law applies to an estimated 150,000 Republicans who switched allegiance in the 1939 primary to support State's Attorney Courtney in his unsuccessful fight to win the Democratic nomination for mayor from Mayor Kelly. The total Democratic vote in the mayoral primary was 954,311; the Republican total 281,845.

Old Restrictions Knocked Out.

The amendment to the primary law knocked out all party restrictions prior to Jan. 1, 1939, when it went into effect, and gave voters an opportunity of beginning party affiliations afresh. Judge Jarecki's statement on the law read:

"The primary act amended in 1939 provides, among other things, that no one shall change primary party voting within a period of 23 calendar months next preceding the calendar month in which the primary election is to be held.

"In effect, it further provides that in determining the 23 months period during which persons are prohibited from changing their primary party voting, no reference shall be had to any vote cast in a primary previous to Jan. 1, 1939.

"Any one voting in the primary of one political party on Feb. 28, 1939, CANNOT now on April 9, 1940, vote in the primary of some other political party."

Republicans who joined the Courtney movement have the alternative of not voting at all, or remaining in the Democratic ranks until after the primary, it was said. Courtney, now running for renomination as state's attorney on the organization ticket, is eager to keep his following intact.

The primary law prior to the 1939 election provided that two calendar years must elapse before a voter could switch parties.

Prior to the primary of April 14, 1938, Judge Jarecki held that the change could be made even tho that primary came two days short of two years after the 1936 primary. As a result thousands of Republicans voted in the Democratic primary. Their support was credited with bringing about Judge Jarecki's renomination.

Views on Open Primary Told.

Judge Jarecki was quoted as saying at that time that a primary should always be open, with no limitation on the voter.

In the mayoral primary last year the election board issued information sheets for judges and clerks concerning the new primary law. The instructions said voters could choose their parties, but made no mention of the fact that once a citizen chose, he would be barred from switching for 23 months. Mention of this was also deleted from the election board's roundtable broadcasts.

In any event, the party lineups which prevail in next week's primary will not be binding at the next primary scheduled here, that for the 1942 general off year election, which will be in April, 1942, more than the required 23 months from this year's primary.

Judge Jarecki said provisions of the amended primary act will be rigidly enforced. Judges and clerks were instructed and later examined on the point at the school conducted by the board of election commissioners. The judge and commissioners again discussed the law governing switching at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

How System Works.

Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, a member of the board, said each voter will be given an application for a ballot to sign, on which he must mark his request for either a Republican or Democratic ballot. The polls judges then will refer to their master file which shows the part; with which the voter affiliated himself in 1939.

If the request and the record match, the voter will get his ballot. If not, he will be denied one. If he insists the master file is in error, he must swear an affidavit to that effect and have it supported by a householder living in the precinct.

GUTKNECHT ASSAILS COURTNEY 'INACTION' ON SCHOOL PROBLEM

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney warned the public of "terrorism" in the public schools when he was candidate for mayor last year, but has done nothing since to change the situation, Judge John Gutknecht, who is opposing Courtney for the Democratic nomination for state's attorney, said last night. Judge Gutknecht spoke before the Chicago Teachers' union at the Auditorium hotel.

"When the present state's attorney was running for mayor he said that 'terror runs rampant in the public schools'," Gutknecht asserted. "A state's attorney who makes such statements is either willfully reckless or he has evidence on which to act."

ENGINEER FOUND DEAD OF POISON IN INDIANA WOOD

A man identified as James H. McQuaide, 40 years old, a consulting engineer, was found dead yesterday in a wood five miles east of Hammond. Sergt. Michael Leeney of the Hammond police said he evidently had ended his life with poison from two vials found in his pocket. He had been dead about 15 hours. McQuaide lived at the Park Manor hotel, 7086 South Chicago avenue. Leeney said he learned there that McQuaide left last Thursday after writing a note to Manager M. J. Tuohy. The note asked the manager's forgiveness for "walking out" and said circumstances over which he had no control were responsible. Leeney was told that McQuaide's wife and two children are in Miami, Fla.

EIGHT ACCEPTED FOR TRAINING AS FLYING CADETS

Eight young Chicagoans yesterday were accepted as cadets for the army air corps aviation training centers. They passed rigid physical examinations and withstood the scrutiny of an army air crops recruiting board at Sixth Corps Area headquarters on the 9th floor of the new postoffice building.

They are the first of a group of 40 candidates for future graduation as air corps reserve officers who are to be recruited from this area. The examining board, headed by Capt. Paul B. Wurtsmith, will remain here until April 13.

All those accepted will be sent to one of a dozen civilian schools for the May 15 flight training class.

Urge Merriam to Take Plan Commission Post

Civic and business organizations are urging that Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago accept the chairmanship of the Chicago Plan commission recently offered him by Mayor Kelly, Ferd Kramer, president of the Metropolitan Housing council, said yesterday. In a letter to Prof. Merriam, Kramer reported he had gained repeated evidence of this support in conferences with both loop and neighborhood leaders. A letter similar in tone was sent to Prof. Merriam by Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

MACHINES DRAW GREEN'S FIRE AT WARD MEETINGS

Points to Straw Polls as Indication of Revolt.

The New Deal and political machines drew the fire of Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for nomination for governor, in a series of northwest side ward meetings last night.

"The first test in the fight to see whether the United States is going to adhere to American traditions of government will occur next Tuesday when the citizens of Illinois march to the polls and cast their ballots," Green said.

Cites Newspaper Polls.

"The people of Illinois are against the philosophy of the New Deal and its attack upon individual initiative and private enterprise," he continued. "The polls now being taken by newspapers, both Democratic and Republican, in Chicago and downstate cities clearly show that the people are rapidly swinging into the Republican ranks as the only means of restoring our country to American ideals.

"Machine government, the American form of the European dictator ships, has aroused the wrath of our people. We, in Illinois, have felt the effects of machine control in our courts,' our educational systems, our state finances, and even the welfare of the unfortunate citizens who are on relief or WPA rolls. The rebellion of the people against this drift toward socializatior. on the part of the New Deal and its subservient state machines is clearly demonstrated in the polls now being taken in Illinois.

Sees Opposition to Machines.

"Almost without exception, the citizens of Chicago and downstate are shown to be supporting my fight against the New Deal and machine government. They are for me as an independent candidate who will lead them in their fight.

"If my votes have been confined to members of the Republican party, then the Republican party has honored me by an expression of confidence in my candidacy of two to one. If they are a cross section of the people, then the mass of our voters have spoken in unmistakable terms as to which party may look forward to victory in November and the type of government that they will demand of the man who hopes to be the next governor."

ASKS REPUBLICAN VICTORY TO BRING BACK CONFIDENCE

Frank J. Mackey, candidate for the Republican nomination for congressman at large, told a 5th ward audience last night that better times are in sight. However, he warned, they hinge upon Republican success.

"We appreciate the fact that unscrambling the egg in Washington will be a Herculean task," said Mackey, a business man, author of a book: "Forward March," and a director of the rehabilitation department of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

"However, a Republican victory in November will restore confidence. Hope will then take the place of fear and helplessness. Capital will come out of hiding. The wheels of industry will begin to hum.

"There will be more jobs than there are men. And this nation, under God, will have a new birth and experience an era of freedom, happiness and prosperity such as it has never before enjoyed."

PARLEYS TO PICK JUDICIAL SLATE SET FOR APRIL 11

Cook county Republicans and Democrats will meet on the same day to nominate tickets for the judicial elections in June, it was learned yesterday. The Republican county convention, originally set for tomorrow, will convene and adjourn immediately until April 11, the day chosen for the Democratic county convention. It was suggested in some quarters that this date was chosen to facilitate the formation of a coalition ticket. At the offices of the Republican county committee, however, it was stated that "the only talk of coalition had been suggestions by public spirited citizens."

FREEDOM OF THE AIR.

In a recent decision affecting the application for a broadcasting license in Dubuque, Ia., the Supreme court ruled that the federal communications act did not give the Federal Communications commission the authority to regulate the business of its licensees, to supervise their programs, or control their management or policy. Congress had not, the court held, recognized the broadcasters as common carriers but had left the field to free competition. Radio had not been put under such regulation as the railroads, for instance.

The finding that the commission has no control over the policy and the programs of the stations would seem to be a declaration reaffirming the right of free speech as well as the independence of private management and policy in broadcasting. The rules of the communications commission have required the licensee, upon demand, to prove in applying for a renewal that the programs have been in the public interest, presumably with the commissioners deciding what the public interest might be.

Inasmuch as the licensing system has always been used as a means of censorship and suppression, the intimation was that if a station management displeased authority or was not amenable to suggestion the license would be taken away and given to some one else, regardless of the property investment involved. Property rights have not been established in the radio. The station management is expected to be sensitive to the official voice and mindful of the official favor.

There have been at various times some manifestations of this implied censorship and control. A California station, it will be remembered, was advised that it was not in the public interest for it not to broadcast Mr. Roosevelt's talks. A Pittsburgh station was told—this was before Mr. Browder became something worse than a poor relation of the New Deal—that it did wrong in cutting him off the air in a general broadcast. Stations which took a comedy skit in which Mae West's script writer thought he was being amusing and wasn't, were informed that their broadcasting had been offensive and that it would be remembered as a demerit if there should be any further derelictions of the sort. The broadcasting companies took due alarm and even the mention of Miss West's name was barred from the air. When for reasons of conscience and judgment they wanted to withdraw their facilities from Father Coughlin, they felt obliged to adopt a strained code of ethics to accomplish their purpose.

There was another instance in which authority decided that the short wave broadcasts to other American countries should be designed solely with the view to transmitting the most favorable ideas of American achievement and culture, as produced—it was to be understood—under Mr. Roosevelt's guidance. Upon reconsideration this rule was withdrawn as a boner. It was too truly tendentious.

Tendency is, indeed, sufficiently indicated and it follows the instinct of persons who have authority to license communications. They have always used the licensing powers to impose their restraints and to influence the spreading of opinion and information. The Supreme court says there is no authority in the law for any control of the radio programs.

BUILDING WAGES.

Building trades unions in various sections of the country are reported favorable to a proposal to reduce wages on residential construction, tho not on commercial building. So far, the movement has made little progress in Chicago, but in New York 19 A. F. of L. unions are reported to have started negotiations for a $9 a day wage scale instead of the $11 to $14 now in force.

The new policy is justified as one means of stimulating employment in an industry which has shown relatively little recovery from the depression. If the union leaders had been strictly logical they would have included commercial and industrial building in the wage cuts, because the lag there is greater than in residential construction. The discrimination can be explained, of course, as the product of years of indoctrination. Even tho a new commercial or industrial building would, as a rule, evidence an employer's desire to expand his pay roll permanently, the trades unions can still, as a matter of union policy, keep his building costs high and therefore discourage him from hiring more men and women.

This kind of thinking, of course, is not peculiar to union agents. They control a monopoly in most of the larger cities and they behave like other monopolists; they think in terms of high unit prices instead of maximum volume through lowered unit prices. Needless to say, the mistaken policy is paid for by the rank and file of the unions. Men who might otherwise be working and supporting their families are kept in idleness or forced on the dole.

The evils of monopoly are often great, but in one sense they have been exaggerated in the public mind. Monopolies tend to destroy themselves. If prices of a commodity or service are fixed above a reasonable level competition is invited; and in the absence of competition business falls off. Both these forces appear to be operating in the building trades today. The C. I. O. is taking advantage of unemployment in the industry to organize its rival unions; the existing unions are under pressure to revise their wage scales in order to create work for their members.

THE STRONGBOX UNDER THE COATTAILS.

The sacred coattails are an indispensable stage property for all of the boys in the back room, but none of the boys is putting them to more use than our raincheck senator, the Honorable Slattery. He is not only running on them, he is trying to hide behind them. Such a feat may seem to deny the laws of physics, but that only proves that the physicists underestimate the agility of politicians.

The Honorable Slattery says that the unregenerate souls who keep mentioning his strongbox are just a bunch of Roosevelt haters or tools of Roosevelt haters. He sets himself forth to the electorate as a mere weak vessel for the presidential desires and holds that any attack on his reputation can have but one motive, the desire to deprive the President of one of his yes-men.

To State's Attorney Courtney, who is with the Honorable Slattery on the back room ticket if not with him in the back room, this may have the mark of a dirty crack. Only recently the state's attorney was vying over the radio with his primary opponent, Judge Gutknecht, as to which loved President Roosevelt the more and the earlier. And yet it was Mr. Courtney who dragged the strongbox out into the half light in which it still reposes.

The state's attorney did not report on his investigation. Such facts as the public has are those the Honorable Slattery has chosen to give. These are the facts:

In 1938 he was chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission, which regulates the public utilities of the state. He took a sum of money, exceeding $20,000, from a safe deposit box and had it placed in a brokerage account in the name of one of his daughters. The money was used for the purchase of 1,000 shares of Commonwealth Edison company stock, which in a short time were sold at a profit of a few thousand dollars. A check for $25,000 was drawn to the daughter by the brokers, and after she had cashed it the money was returned to the strongbox, Slattery says.

The senator said the money was part of a settlement given his ten children on the death of their mother. It did not, however, come from the mother's estate, so far as public records show. No record of that estate has been found in the Probate court.

That is the record. It has never been verified by any public body. The state's attorney did not present the matter to the grand jury and therefore did not have that body's power to subpena pertinent records. The Democrats in the senate saw no reason to go behind the explanation of a brother yes-man. The Illinois legislature, asked to investigate, deemed it a matter for the senate, and Ben Adamowski, on whose behalf the strongbox is now being thumped, waxed indignant at Republican demands for an investigation of Gov. Horner's commerce commission.

The Honorable Slattery professes to see nothing unusual in keeping large sums of money in a strongbox. He professes to see no impropriety in a member of his family, using money furnished by himself, buying stock in a company over which he held vast regulatory powers. He has not told where he got the money he took from his strongbox. He has not replied, at this writing, to the charge of John Stelle that the money was a campaign contribution he collected from utility companies for the 1938 senatorial campaign of Scott Lucas, the paladin of the 2 per cent racket.

As a private person, on the evidence at hand, Slattery would stand convicted of no crime. But he is not a private person. He is an office seeker bound to give the voters a reasonable account of such of his personal affairs as might have any influence on his conduct of public business, and the explanation he has offered is a fishy one. It is fishy by itself, and taken in conjunction with the antics of the Honorable Slattery's political bedfellows—with the 2 per cent scandals and the ever growing mystery of Lynden Smith's black books and death—its reticence is damning.

In 1932 Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt gained nation-wide publicity by his removal of Sheriff Tom Farley of New York county, who had refused to tell where he got the contents of his little tin box. At that time the governor said:

"As a matter of sound public policy, I am very certain that there is a requirement that where a public official is under inquiry or investigation, especially an elected official, and it appears that his scale of living or the totals of his bank accounts far exceed the public salary which he is known to receive, he, the public official, owes a positive public duty to the community to give a reasonable or credible explanation of the source of the deposits."

The Honorable Slattery holds that it is a matter of sound public policy that any one who asks where he got the $25,000 is a Roosevelt hater.

SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

Two hundred thousand stock breeders, polled by the Breeder's Gazette, their trade publication, stand 3 to 1 against governmental control of any kind of farm product and against slaughter of pigs or any other device to curtail production.

In reply to a questionnaire covering four major questions of New Deal policy with respect to agriculture, the 200,000 voted as follows:

	Yes.	No.
Should production be controled?	26%	74%
Should payments be made for soil conservation?	27%	73%
Should United States make "parity payments" to farmers?	22%	78%
Would you give up all farm benefit payments in the interest of a balanced budget?	77%	23%

"The live stock farmers of America stand 3 to 1 in favor of an independent agriculture," commented Samuel R. Guard, editor of Breeder's Gazette. "They voted in that ratio against controled production. They want a free farming enterprise."

Results of the poll may also be considered important from the political standpoint.

In the slaughter of the innocents that marked the first efforts of the administration to create a pork scarcity to benefit American agriculture, city resentment against the inevitable effect on pork prices was derided by farmers who believed in controled production on the grounds that the city people had been getting all the gravy anyway, and it was the turn of the farmers to get some benefits. If the stock breeders' poll proves anything, it demonstrates that reaction against the slaughter has now crystalized even in agricultural circles into resentment against curtailed production which was the inevitable concomitant of the slaughter policy.

This change in sentiment will inevitably be reflected in the farm vote next November.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office.

AFTER THE SHOW IS OVER.

"Key Largo." Now just where is that, I pray,
And what's the meaning o' this spiggoty phrase?
—Come, come, 'tis plain you've never wintered in
The blessed, balmy state of Florida.
You'll find it stretching south o' Biscayne Bay
For many a mile along the coast,
And if you ever made Key West by car
You've rumbled o'er at least one-half of it.
"Key" for "cayo" in Spanish, meaning isle,
Or sandy shoal along a coral shore,
And "largo" meaning "long," so there you have the answer—
Long Island, in the habla Español.

Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to dither
Along this way we know not nor do care,
But this is how a play by Maxwell Anderson
Affects us with its dreamy flow of verse
Both blank and scrambled. 'Tis like taking dope
To listen to those muttered monotones,
Those long, dull speeches to slow meter set.

Our reason totters on its tinsel throne,
Our feet go fast asleep, our eyelids droop,
Our fingers twitch, our pulse becomes erratic,
And all our nervous system is unstrung;
In short, we feel that we can't take it
When listening to a play by Mr. Anderson.

RELIEF IN RECTAL ITCHING.

SEVERE and persistent itching about the rectum is one of the most tormenting afflictions that can come to any one. The reason that cure is difficult is because the symptom may arise from many sources. Certain cases are the result of bacterial invasion wherein organisms from the bowel set up enough activity to produce toxins and thus irritate the nerve endings in the skin. Now and then an allergic origin will be detected. The individual is unduly sensitive to some food, drug, or other offender with which he comes into intimate contact.

Not long ago I learned of an industrialist who had journeyed from doctor to doctor seeking relief. For several years he had been using phenolphthalein as a laxative. Recently the disturbance had become unbearable and his last physician sent him to a hospital for a checkup. While there, the drug in question was not prescribed and—within two weeks—all symptoms vanished. On his return home, however, he again resorted to his favorite cathartic, whereupon the discomfort again became evident. A study of his behavior in the hospital as contrasted with that in his own quarters elicited but one essential difference—namely, the chemical employed to promote emptying of the colon. When the pills were excluded the distress abated completely. In this instance the explanation rested either upon an allergic or a toxic basis.

Another patient—a college instructor, 31 years of age—submitted to an operation for hemorrhoids [piles] some three or four years ago. At that time, X-ray studies revealed a spastic bowel which was later controled with belladonna. Some time later, however, rectal itching began. A careful investigation of his health habits showed nothing out of the ordinary. In addition to ointments and suppositories, alcohol injections had been tried—all without success. The condition soon became intolerable—with the victim a nervous and physical wreck—utterly unable to carry on his work.

On the theory that some microbe invasion might be responsible a vaccine was made from the germs lurking on the epidermis in the vicinity of the bowel outlet. Treatment was begun with small doses, which were increased gradually—a week apart. Within two months the annoyance faded away and has not recurred.

A third example illustrates still another type. A well known business executive had been bothered intermittently for several years. The complaint would persist for a while when—without the slightest warning—all signs would cease and he would be perfectly comfortable. After three or four months of freedom, however, the manifestations would reappear.

Because of an eczemalike eruption about the anal region, allergy was thought of. His bath soap was changed to the superfatted variety, linen underclothing was replaced by cotton or silk, and high vitamin feedings, and hydrochloric acid were advised. This latter substance was recommended because an examination of the gastric contents disclosed its absence from the stomach secretions. Within six weeks he was free from all symptoms and has since remained so. In addition, the skin lesions cleared up.

Not infrequently, X-rays will be helpful. Mild exposures will reduce the activity of the sweat glands—as well as the sensitivity of the cutaneous nerves. If, at the same time, all drugs of the coal tar group can be curtailed or omitted entirely, a salutary effect may be brought about. If the stools are found to be teeming with poison manufacturing bacteria definite amelioration may be accomplished by the use of large quantities of lactic acid milk [buttermilk]. Apparently the change in the flora of the intestine is sufficient to allay the trouble.

Sometimes local remedies will bring relief—at least temporarily. These include ointments containing a small amount of carbolic acid, zinc oxide, starch, and resorcin. Occasionally wet heat—that is, hot packs wrung out of boric acid solution—will be serviceable.

Instead of being looked upon as neurasthenics or as prone to hysteria, these patients must be taken seriously as a thoro search should uncover the cause.

RATE OF HAIR GROWTH.

T. V. writes: How long does it take for a head of hair to grow? I had mine bleached, but now desire to return to my natural chestnut locks.

REPLY.

Long enough to allow for a generous amount of meditation on vanity—about a year—perhaps longer. It all depends upon the rate of growth.

NOSE OPERATION.

J. M. writes: Is a submucous resection usually successful in clearing up chronic congestion of the nasal passages?

REPLY.

The operation is usually advised for the purpose of overcoming obstruction to the free passage of air.

VIBRATOR.

B. E. writes: Would an electric vibrator relieve varicose veins on the legs?

REPLY.

No. If anything, such treatment will make them worse. A snug compression bandage will afford relief.

THE DEAL.

Aurora, Ill., March 26.—Was it an accident that this war got under way when President Roosevelt was still in power?

It looks like a three sided compact, France's part being to supply the army, England's part to supply the navy, while it was the United States' part to take care of the aviation end.

The billions, which were appropriated to care for the needy, made a sure club with which to line us up to assume our rôle. No one could say we are not holding our end up! UNWILLING HELPER.

TREES VS. HAY FEVER.

Chicago, March 26.—Spring is here and soon nature will unfold in all her beauty. Among the springing plants will be the flowering weeds which cause hay fever.

Soon coughs, sneezes will again arouse the local and state government into action. Thousands of men will go out and cut down these weeds only to have them reappear as rapidly as they are cut. How long will it be before man utilizes science and natural law? Plant shade trees in all weed areas, prairies, road sides, etc., and the weeds would be crowded out. In their place would be shade trees to comfort the human soul against the burning rays of the summer sun and the cutting, biting winds of the winter. DR. RICHARD KAMINSKI.

FUN IN THE ALLEY.

Oak Park, Ill., March 27.—I was much interested in Shirley Poersch's reminiscences of duck-on-the-rock in Oak Park 10 years ago.

While her way of playing was not the safe and sissy way, it was somewhat less virile than the game of 20 years ago.

The additional enjoyment we derived from the game was obtained by equipping the player who was "it" with a tennis or soft ball. After righting his can upon the rock, he did not have to run after and tag a rapidly retreating player, but merely propel the ball at the other players' posteriors.

The speed and accuracy of the throwing left a vivid impression on my past that dims the scarred shins.

LADY REQUESTS KICK IN PANTS.

Chicago, March 29.—Several weeks ago I found a wallet in a loop theater. It contained some cards, photos, and a 10 dollar bill. The following morning I phoned the number given on the business card. [The person involved is the head of an adjustment company.] I told the gentleman where I was located and he came over that afternoon for his wallet. He insisted that I tell him what size stockings I wear so that he could send me a half dozen pairs for being so nice. I told him that it wasn't necessary, but he was very persistent. I told him. I'm still waiting for those stockings. In the future, if I'm ever tempted to be honest, I hope somebody gives me a well-deserved kick in the pants. D. S.

SO LONG.

Green Bay, Wis., March 27.—Being one of your subscribers for many years, I was indeed surprised to read your editorial on the chain store tax question.

Do you realize that the chain monopolies are driving the independent jobbers and retailers of the nation out of business? Do you realize that "Independence Made America"?

I can understand your prochain activities because they spend a lot of money advertising in your newspaper. You can cancel my subscription which expires Aug. 5, 1940. It is very evident you must have some chain store combine securities. A. L. THOMAS.

THIS FUN IS NOW CONCLUDED.

Chicago, March 28.—Do we need a change of administration in Washington, or Dewey? A. C. JOHNSON.

FROM DANIEL CATTON RICH.

Chicago, March 29.—In THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE for March 24 the writer of your art column, Eleanor Jewett, makes the following statement concerning the 44th annual exhibition by artists of Chicago and vicinity: "The Art institute teachers and students monopolize the exhibit this year to an amazing extent and most of the choice 'hanging' spaces are theirs." Since Miss Jewett's charge is so sweeping it might be well to state the facts. Of the 232 exhibitors only 19 are students in the school and 10 are teachers, an average of 9 per cent of those showing works. As for the installation, every one knows that a well-hung museum gallery depends on such factors as size of canvases, scale of forms, harmonies of color and texture rather than the personalities involved.

Further on in the same article she reports that Art institute students "gathered in many of the awards." Of the nine prizes given but two were won by artists enrolled in the school. In the same hasty manner Miss Jewett remarks that the galleries of the institute "are only rarely open to the average Chicago artist." It is well to reiterate what has long been a policy of this museum: that Chicago painters and sculptors may not only submit work to our three most important annual exhibitions but during the summer the east wing galleries are given over almost exclusively to work by our local artists. No other museum in America has had so sustained and liberal an attitude toward the men and women in its city who are creating its art.

What Miss Jewett does not point out is that this year's jury was elected by the artists themselves. Louis Betts, Alexander Brook, and Morris Kantor were successful candidates in a new voting system whereby painters submitting works choose their own judges. Her implication is that Mr. Betts, a "conservative," was snowed under by Mr. Brook and Mr. Kantor, "modernists." Actually this was not the case. Most of the works admitted were unanimously chosen and nearly all the prizes received three votes out of three. Mr. Betts expressed disappointment at the poor showing made by many of the more traditional works brought before the jury while all three judges commended the fresh and attractive character of much of our local painting.

These gentlemen had no way of knowing which canvases were the work of young men or grandfathers and were as impartial as a jury can be, since they were almost totally unfamiliar with current Chicago art.

To prohibit students and teachers in the school from exhibiting at the institute would seem unfair discrimination, since they are artists first and students and teachers second. After all, age does not guarantee excellence—you may be 60 and still a beginner; 20 and already a master. If Miss Jewett will consult the history of art she will find it strewn with such paradoxes.
DANIEL CATTON RICH.
Director of Fine Arts, the Art Institute of Chicago.

IT SEEMS NOT.

Chicago, March 28.—I write to ask if there is any way to restrain people from smoking at soda counters, restaurants, and in bowling alleys. When we are eating or exercising we are breathing deepest and, in a big city, it seems we get all too little pure, fresh air. This goes for elevators, also. The liquor and tobacco men do not stress the fact that training tables are banning both liquor and tobacco, and always have. And, after all, aren't we all in training all of life's journey? GEORGE E. BOYNTON.

AIR MAIL.

Chicago, March 30.—If James Walker thinks the railroads are slow when it comes to mail, what would he say to air mail taking 12 days to deliver a letter to Warren, Idaho?
MRS. E. C. ANDERSON.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problems a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

MORTGAGE ON HOME.

Chicago, March 29 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. Is it advisable to keep a mortgage on one's home? I am in a position to clear up the mortgage, but [2] several friends say it is advantageous to retain the mortgage in that it would be easier to sell the property should I ever decide to do so. A. W.

1. If the chances of your selling in the near future are substantial, the existence of the mortgage would reduce the expenses, since otherwise it might be necessary to place a new mortgage on the property in connection with the sale, but if all cases were considered we would be confident that the disadvantage to parties who have lost their property by foreclosure would far outweigh such minor advantages.
2. We would disagree with them.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

STEPS TO CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, March 21 [Friend of the People].—My husband came to America illegally in 1925. I am legally here and have a declaration of intention [first paper]. We have an American born boy. Is there any chance for us to become citizens? W. O.

The inquirer does not furnish sufficient facts upon which to make a reply. It is suggested that she may call at this office for a personal interview so that all the facts may be ascertained and she may be appropriately advised. If she is legally here, as stated, she may take appropriate steps toward citizenship and she will be informed in that regard. With reference to her husband, she will be advised as to how he may have his immigration status adjusted. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

A Gay and Capricious Novel by Elizabeth Is Just the Thing for Your Literary Spring Tonic

"Mr. Skeffington," by Elizabeth. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.] To be published Friday. April choice of the Book of the Month club.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

As gay and full of spring sunshine as a yellow crocus is this tale of the threatening autumn of a woman's life—the shadow of 50 to a woman whose beauty, if not her virtue, has been its own reward. Lady Frances Skeffington [Fanny to her friends], after being her life long the kind of woman who is armored against the world by the triple plate of being an earl's daughter, fabulously rich, AND beautiful, is faced with one loss which time cannot heal—because it is time's own theft. Time did its thieving so suddenly that one day she was ravishingly beautiful, the next ill, and almost the next a woman approaching 50 who looked 60.

Elizabeth.

But if you think that Elizabeth — that delicious Elizabeth of the "German Garden" and "Fräulein Schmidt and Mr. Anstruther" and "The Enchanted April," and especially of the hilarious "Introduction to Sally"—goes and gets all sentimental about Fanny's bereavement you misjudge one of the most surely to be counted on delights of present day literature. For here, with a nice wit and an occasional hilarity that makes you laugh aloud, Elizabeth has written one of the gayest books of her career, underlaid with pity that has no pathos to it.

To tell the whole story of Fanny's eye-opening to her state would lessen the reader's bubbling fun in seeing it with her. After she had divorced Mr. Skeffington some twenty odd years before for misbehaving [having forgiven him seven times, but refusing to attain the biblical seventy times seven beatitude of forgiveness], Fanny had had a good many admirers who were always wanting to die for her. Fate casts across her path four of them, and in their also ageing eyes she sees her new self.

One of the admirers, the Rhodes scholar who had been her devotee before her illness, she finds in the arms of one of his own contemporaries. The sister of another one, an ardent clergyman now passionately devoted to the saving of lost souls, mistakes her for one of his brands snatched from the burning. Her most poetic admirer is now a calm and almost palsied husband and father, who pities her almost as much as she pities him. The fourth almost convinces her that he still loves her, but fate shows her with a wink that he doesn't.

And all the time she has been mentally seeing her divorced husband sitting in the chair opposite her and trying to forget him—and what happily happens in the last short chapter nobody could guess if he didn't peek.

Of course Elizabeth's books aren't great—whoever said they were? But they have the true lilt and gayety of spring in them. And don't we all need a spring tonic? It's always for any reader an "Enchanted April" that produces an Elizabeth.

Meyer Levin's New Novel

"Citizens," by Meyer Levin. [Viking, $2.75.]

This novel by one of Chicago's own citizens has already in New York as well as in Chicago become one of the books that everybody is talking about. Whether it remains in that envied class or achieves the even more envied position of being a book that every one reads from cover to cover as well, only time will tell. For it is no secret to any one whose business it is to watch the public's reactions to books that some of the books that become the most spectacular best sellers and are glibly on every one's lips aren't necessarily read.

"Citizens" is a tremendously earnest, powerful, and serious book about a steel mill strike in Chicago. It does for its subject exactly what an autopsy does, and it does it in the same interested but unemotional and calm manner in which an autopsy is performed. That the book does not offer a diagnosis only proves the author's honesty.

"Citizens" will inevitably be compared with "The Grapes of Wrath." Yet "The Grapes of Wrath," from its first page, grips the reader's attention, and despite its "message" it is primarily a novel. "Citizens" does not have that quality. The reader never—except for the main character of Mitch Wilner, the young physician who, just by being at hand, becomes the doctor for the wounded and dying in the strike riot—feels any tense interest in the human beings of the book. His deep interest is in the anatomy of the strike, in the interplay of factions and personalities and circumstances and intrigue.

In "A Note on Method," Meyer Levin explains: "This novel does not pretend to be a complete fiction. The reader may wonder then why I did not write a precise history, using actual names of places and persons. I did not do so because the form of the novel appeared to permit me the most effective interpretation of those events and of the conditions which gave rise to them."

To this reader, "Citizens," however powerful a document, lacks that primary requisite of the timeless great novels—the power to grip the reader's attentions and his emotions and never to release them until the last line is read, the kind of breathless interest of even such a long and involved tale as "Crime and Punishment."

Another by Faulkner

"The Hamlet," by William Faulkner. [Random, $2.50.] Published Monday.

The cult for William Faulkner is firmly established. No matter what he writes, the number of his readers doesn't vary. The most enviable critical acclaim has never been able to break down the prejudice of the fantastic best seller reading public against reading about unpleasant people [with an imbecile always one of them]. And on the other hand the most horrific of Mr. Faulkner's scenes do not lose him one devoted reader nor do those devotees' convictions that he sometimes writes like an angel increase the sales of his books.

William Faulkner.

"The Hamlet" is true Faulkner, all Will and a barn yard wide. It concerns the machinations of the members of the Snopes family who arrive in the hamlet as tenant farmers and before the book has ended have taken it and every one in it the way the seven year locusts take a ripe field. The assorted Snopeses are trickier than Vermont wooden nutmeg salesmen, but the smartest of them all is Flem, who works as quietly and as effectively as a termite. There is humor in some of the situations and talk as broad as the Joe Miller joke book. But everything is so mixed up with everything else into a sour mash that the undeniable beauty of some of Mr. Faulkner's paragraphs is lost.

No matter how mixed up or even repellent to some readers his work may be, however, no one interested in contemporary American novel writing can disregard William Faulkner.

Writes Sequel

Alice Tisdale Hobart, whose new novel, "Their Own Country," a sequel to her "Oil for the Lamps of China," is reviewed below.

"Their Own Country," by Alice Tisdale Hobart. [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.50.]

The author of "Oil for the Lamps of China" has written a sequel to that compelling popular tale in which both its skill and its reality are duplicated, a novel which should achieve a duplicate of its popularity.

"Their Own Country" is a sequel, however, only in the sense that it carries on the life story of Hester and Stephen Chase. If you have never read "Oil for the Lamps of China," you will never miss the record of their earlier years. If you have read it, you will remember that you felt as the book ended that their life in China had rounded out a destined cycle there, and you will realize that this story of a man of 40, returning to his own country jobless after even a well spent life abroad, is of something that could happen and has happened to many others than Stephen Chase.

"Their Own Country" is first of all a good story. Mrs. Hobart proves here that she is a natural teller of tales, and that she doesn't need the allure of an exotic background to capture the interest of her readers and to hold it unwaveringly. She also proves that her own country is both known and dear to her. The fur storage business in New York, the mysterious squeezing out of small store owners by a "merger" of food purveyors, the operation of a small alcohol cooking plant in mid-Kansas are as engrossingly portrayed as was "the company" in "Oil for the Lamps of China," and the human equations are as delicately made.

Hester and Stephen at the book opens are mature and they grow more mature in these pages. They face their problems with courage and with intelligence in a novel which will give many readers a fresh picture of their own country. F. B.

Unusual Novel Built Around 7 Captives in Dictator Country

"The Major Has Seven Guests," by Constance Wagner. [Stokes, $2.50.]

In a little European country, ruled by a dictator, seven American citizens are taken from a train for "protective custody." They are an art connoisseur, who tells the story; a wealthy business man and his wife, a political visionary who had been a conscientious objector, a confidence man, a young girl violinist, and a lady with a past.

Their imprisonment, in the care of a pompous major, brings strange friendships and bitter enmities. The business man and the visionary are always in conflict in their philosophies. The business man's wife grows gradually as a symbol of evil, joining forces with the confidence man. The violinist suddenly finds the spur to musical greatness.

There is some brilliant writing in the unfolding of the story and characters, particularly in the interplay of emotions. The climax is highly dramatic, bringing on the betrayal of two of these people. The sharp portrayals and nuances recall some of the best in De Maupassant. The author is a Chicagoan. S. M. K.

Among Current Mysteries

A Slam Bang Thriller.

"Sabotage," by Cleve F. Adams. [Dutton, $2.] Published Monday.

One of the best of the slam bang, hardboiled mystery adventure stories is this which deals with Rex McBride, a private detective assigned to find out who wants to wreck a big government dam project. Mr. McBride seems to thrive on getting his eyes blackened and his feet burned by matches. But neither he nor the girls are able to resist each other. The girls seem to fall over each other trying to do him favors. He is shot at and missed a few times. He does some shooting himself. And when the mess is over, Mr. McBride has his man in satisfying fashion. S. M. K.

Cleve F. Adams.

Astute Murderer Exposed.

"Death Down East," by Eleanor Blake. [Putnam, $2.]

There is an accident at a clambake in a New England summer resort. A young girl is dead and innocent people hold themselves responsible. Mark Crosby, private detective, who mixes metaphors and stutters when excited, proves that it was not accident and that two other strange deaths were attributable to the same astute murderer. E. T.

Agatha Christie at Her Best.

"And Then There Were None," by Agatha Christie. [Dodd Mead, $2.]

This new mystery is by far the best of all those from the clever pen of Agatha Christie. Viewed simply from the technical point of view, it is a little masterpiece. But added to that there is the interest of unusual locale, a mysterious island off the English coast, and the suspense that comes with the death of one person after another in the house party to which all have been invited by an unseen host. Like the nursery rhyme of "The Ten Little Indians," every day or two sees the dwindling of the gathering until, out of ten people, only two are left. The dénouement is as unexpected as it is original. E. W.

Peek Into Detective's Life.

"Mr. Polton Explains," by R. Austin Freeman. [Dodd-Mead, $2.]

Detective story readers who rate Dr. Thorndyke as one of the world's great fiction crime solvers will be interested to know that at last R. Austin Freeman lets his readers in on the personal history of the ubiquitous Polton. The first half of "Mr. Polton Explains" is a Dickens-like autobiography of Dr. Thorndyke's assistant. It covers the period from childhood to the time he enters the service of the great detective. The latter part of the book is about Polton's skillful aid in solving a seemingly unsolvable arson-murder. Every Thorndyke fan should enjoy this peek into Polton's old fashioned past. A.C.

Child's Wonder World Relives in Adult Stories

"Ake and His World," by Bertil Malmberg; translated by Marguerite Wenner-Gren. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.]

"Morning Shows the Day," by Evelyn Bolster. [Vanguard, $2.50.]

"Conversation," by Conrad Aiken. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.]

BY WILL DAVIDSON.

Most of us strove to outgrow the world of childhood. And most of us—had we the power—would recapture at least the more imaginative wonders of that privileged state. Too often, however, when adults attempt a literary exploration of the juvenile universe they end up in a fog of baby talk and cuteness.

At least two of these authors show gratifyingly shrewd and sympathetic understanding of the child mind and heart, and their stories seem to have been written from the inside looking out.

Ake's world is a wonderland of fresh northern smells and sounds—the cool dampness of Swedish woodlands and the salty dampness of the sea. This tow-headed little boy creates from the things around him a fantastic land in which he is always supreme, and from this half dream world draws strength to cope with the problems of reality. A thoughtless adult word sends him into the darkest, most terrifying depths of loneliness, yet when his elastic spirit pulls him back he discovers in his terror a whimsical and most entertaining possibility.

Bertil Malmberg, Sweden's finest lyric poet, gives a simple beauty to these prose sketches. Marguerite Wenner-Gren has done an excellent translation. It is not, as Stephen Vincent Benet says in his introduction, a children's book. It is childhood itself.

It is unusual for a first novel to have as much charm and as remarkable economy of effort as "Morning Shows the Day." It is a minor miracle for it to show so penetrating an understanding of the childhood mind. Here is the story of three motherless children whose father must take them from community to community as he finds work, carving their own niche in each new place by dint of brains, fists, and a fierce, instinctive teamwork. We see the world thru their eyes. Adults, to them, are generally pretty vague figures, depending upon their ability to understand children, but the other children are as real as a bruised knuckle.

Conrad Aiken is not attempting a study of childhood, so his book cannot be compared with the others on that basis. However, it is around a child—who never quite becomes a reality to the reader—that the forces of the book play. Tip, the artist, and Enid, his wife, a Boston girl with generations of stiffness to overcome, almost lose each other in an emotional maelstrom. But clinging to both, and keeping them from the final break, is a love personified by Buzzer, the adored and adoring little girl. This is really Tip's story, but Buzzer gets an assist.

HERSHEY APPLIES HIS JURY STYLE TO PRIMARY DRIVE

Uses Lawyer's Approach in Governor Race.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

If you should happen into an Illinois courthouse some afternoon and come upon Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville campaigning for the Democratic nomination for governor you might take him to be a lawyer addressing a jury. Then you would see the jury box behind him and see his face toward the audience.

Harry B. Hershey.

But you would note that when he is driving home a point or emphasizing a statement for its drama his intonations are those of a lawyer. So are his gestures. And this is not strange.

Hershey has been a practicing attorney 30 of his 55 years. When chosen by the party leadership on Feb. 9 to replace Gov. Horner on the ticket, he was chairman of the Democratic state central committee. He resigned and also relinquished a post in the state department of insurance.

Lawyer-to-Jury Intimacy.

Hershey is first of all a lawyer, his friends assert. He even thinks out personal problems in terms of his court experience, they add.

When campaigning he likes to get down as close as possible to his hearers and talk to them with lawyer-to-jury intimacy.

"And if you don't believe Harry Hershey keeps his word, you just go down and ask in Taylorville, Christian county."

This is one statement that goes into every speech Hershey makes. He calls it his way of saying: "You don't know me, but if you're interested enough to investigate you'll find I'm what I say I am."

The candidate has lived in Taylorville since he was taken there from Mansfield, O., at the age of 8. His father, a grocer, sent him to the grammar and high schools in Taylorville, central Illinois city of 8,000.

On U. of I. Debate Team.

Hershey's education was continued at the University of Illinois. He made the debating team in his sophomore, junior, and seniors years and was graduated from the liberal arts college in 1909. He was a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity.

Hershey was awarded his law degree at the University of Chicago in 1911 and was elected Taylorville's city attorney before he had opportunity to qualify for the bar. In 1912 he was state's attorney of Christian county. He served two terms and convicted 96 per cent of the defendants he prosecuted. In 1925 he was elected mayor of Taylorville, serving two two-year terms.

Hershey was elected to the Democratic state central committee in 1932 and, sponsored by Gov. Horner, became its chairman in 1938. It was in 1937 that he accepted the position as counsel of the liquidation, conservation, and rehabilitation division of the state insurance department. The governor has offered him several appointments which he has declined.

Well Fixed Financially.

The Democratic candidate is well fixed financially, as his Taylorville neighbors put it. He has a comfortable two story brick home with a bright living room and a cheery fireplace. He enjoys relaxing there.

"Why don't you head for Chicago?" they used to ask Hershey when he was prosecuting attorney and still in his twenties. He had thought of that during his years at the University of Chicago. But he felt his best chance for success lay in his home town. Too, he wanted to get married.

And he did in 1912, to Miss Leah Stapleton of Assumption, whose French ancestors settled the region. She is a graduate of Smith college. In addition to rearing their two sons, she has found time to devote to the work of the Presbyterian church and has helped her husband manage their 1,000 acres of farm land.

The boys are August, 25 years old, with chemical engineering degrees from the University of Michigan and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Richard, 23, who will be graduated in June from the Harvard law school. August is employed by the Standard Oil company of Louisiana.

Another reason Hershey didn't stay in Chicago was that he enjoys small town life. He likes to know and hello everybody he meets on the street. He likes to talk crops and ride over a farm. However, he is deeply interested in politics. He made a hit with the Kelly-Nash organization by saying that very thing after his selection to head the Democratic state ticket.

"I've been an organization man myself—from precinct captain to chairman of the state central committee," he told them. "I'm proud to be an organization man."

Hershey added at the same time that he intends to indulge in no mud slinging. He believes party harmony at a general election is more important than a personal victory at a primary. Hershey, a Horner man from the first, said repeatedly during the campaign that if elected he would carry out the ideals and policies of the present governor.

Some of the candidate's friends, including Gov. Horner, profess to see a physical resemblance between Hershey and Abraham Lincoln. Hershey is just under 6 feet and tho big boned is of spare build. His rugged face is brown and weathered. He has a strong nose. The crinkles at the corners of his eyes mark him as one who smiles easily and laughs heartily. His curly hair is iron gray.

He smokes cigars and is not a teetotaler. But his wants for stimulants are moderate, his friends say. Hershey likes golf and his score is in the low 80s. In the winter he bowls. In reading, his taste runs to history and biography.

Adjusting Quarrel

BILLIE HUBER.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 2 (AP).—Billie Huber, actress and model, and Gilbert H. Mosby, wealthy patent medicine manufacturer of Miami Beach, Fla., are about to adjust their marital differences.

Attorneys for the two said they were filing today motions to dismiss Miss Huber's contested suit for $900 a month separate maintenance. She estimated his income at $5,000 a month.

The former Earl Carroll showgirl charged her husband had threatened her with a razor, struck her, used liquor to excess and was seen often in public with other women.

$175,000 WASTE IN LIQUOR STAMP BUYING CHARGED

Legislators Air Purchases by Nudelman.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Illinois buys 112,000,000 decalcomania stamps each year at 75 cents a thousand, a price which State Representative Clinton Searle of Rock Island said yesterday is at least 32 cents a thousand too high. He charged that State Finance Director Samuel L. Nudelman has been responsible for thus "throwing away" $35,000 of the taxpayers' money in each of the last five years, a total of $175,000.

Searle and Speaker Hugh W. Cross had just obtained documents tending to convince them that Illinois is not alone a victim of high priced decalcomania. Two governmental documents were in the hands of Speaker Cross yesterday suggesting that a nation-wide racket had been worked against many states besides Illinois.

Cross Explains Purchases.

"Decalcomania sounds like a mental disease," Speaker Cross explained, "but in reality is the name applied to a process of transferring pictures or printed matter from paper to glass. The state of Illinois buys decalcomania stamps and sells them to dealers who must put a stamp on every bottle of liquor sold here. There is a mental strain arising from the attempt to figure out a fair price for these little stamps."

Representative Searle contends that Nudelman was under no mental strain when he recommended in 1936 that the contract for the stamps be awarded to the American Decalcomania company. The president of that company, George Eisenberg, was admittedly a personal friend of Gov. Horner at the time, and, in addition, is a second cousin of Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], assistant boss of the Kelly-Nash-Horner Democratic machine, a fact which relieved Nudelman of the necessity of heavy thinking in making his contract award, Searle declared.

The charges made by the legislators, both of whom are Republicans and running for office, grew out of a pronouncement by the Federal Trade commission on July 3, 1936, and a suit filed in the United States District court here on Aug. 9, 1939.

Named in Price Fixing.

The trade commission named the American Decalcomania company as one of nine concerns which had entered into a price fixing agreement that had been in operation for five years.

The lawsuit charged the American Decalcomania company with having continued to operate a price fixing agreement with supposedly competing concerns up to the date of the filing of the suit. This charge was undenied and the company, according to Speaker Cross' information, paid $17,500 to keep the case out of court.

These revelations were considered as extremely important in view of what transpired in Illinois in 1936, Searle said. It was in that year that Eisenberg got the contract, altho his company's bid was 70 cents a thousand, 27 cents higher than the bid of the Rayner Decalcomania company.

Restraining Writ Issued.

The Rayner company obtained a temporary injunction in the fall of October, 1936, restraining the state from buying any stamps from the American Decalcomania company. A hearing on the subject before Master in Chancery John M. Pfeifer at Springfield continued for several weeks.

Gov. Horner, meanwhile, approved temporary purchases from Eisenberg's company, and it was stipulated in the record that Horner and Eisenberg were good friends. Attorney John L. McInerney, for Eisenberg, said, however, that he didn't know whether Eisenberg contributed to Horner's campaign fund.

A few days before Judge L. E. Stone of the Sangamon county Circuit court was to rule on the right of the state to ignore the 43 cent bid and accept the 70 cent bid, the Rayner company discharged its lawyer and dismissed the suit, according to the report of Representative Searle to Speaker Cross.

Price Raised to 75c.

"The state then entered into a contract with Eisenberg," the legislator recalled, "at 70 cents a thousand. "It was renewed each year but the price later was raised to 75 cents.

"Last year we attempted to investigate the relations of Nudelman and Eisenberg because of constant reports that Eisenberg was responsible for Nudelman's affluence."

In the official journal of the house of representatives there is printed this question:

"Does Director S. L. Nudelman own the American Decalcomania company?"

The question was asked jointly by Searle and the following representatives: John A. Bingham of Galena; Sam O. Dale of Fairfield; Frederick W. Rennick of Buda, and David I. Swanson of Chicago. They were Republican members of a committee appointed by Cross to investigate all charges of graft made against the administration.

Hints at Disclosures.

"The charges made at that time were never denied," Representative Searle said yesterday. "Our committee was stabbed in the back and the Horner administration forces believed they had silenced us and could suppress the truth. But recent developments indicate we may yet tear the mystery away from the deal."

The legislators were impressed by the facts in the complaint of the 1939 law suit which concerned awards made in the states of Wisconsin and Minnesota to the American Decalcomania company. They alleged collusion between the American Decalcomania and Rayner Decalcomania companies in reference to Wisconsin and Minnesota awards. The time given for these alleged collusive agreements was in January, 1936, for the Wisconsin bidding, and in December, 1936, for the Minnesota bidding.

The Illinois bids were received in June, 1936, and the final award made in November, 1936, according to the legislators' records. And it was in July, 1936, that the trade commission announced that all the companies involved, including Eisenberg's and the Rayner company, had agreed to cease and desist from collusive bidding.

"Both companies were accused in the law suit of violating that cease and desist order," said Attorney James A. O'Callaghan, who filed the complaint of last August in behalf of a former agent for the Rayner concern.

O'Callaghan informed Speaker Cross that no judicial cognizance was taken of the charge that the Eisenberg company and its friendly rival were violating two federal laws.

Cross said he was intrigued by the charge in the law suit that the decalcomania dealers had divided up the country, allotting certain states to each company and helping each other mulct the states of large sums.

This allotting of states was described in the law suit as follows:

"That under said plan the said defendants [naming them] distributed the several states in the United States requiring and purchasing decalcomania transfer liquor, beer, and cigaret stamps for their needs among themselves, and their controled corporations:

"That the state so allotted to each corporation was the exclusive state of that corporation; that, therefore, all the purchases in decalcomania transfer stamps made by the various departments of any of the taxing bodies in that state would be made of and filled and supplied exclusively by that certain defendant's corporation to whom the state was by said conspirators allotted."

Cites Federal Document.

Attorney O'Callaghan said the document issued by the Federal Trade commission was damning evidence against the decalcomania companies. It began:

"Monopolistic trade practices tending toward maintenance of a uniform price level will be abandoned by 12 companies manufacturing decalcomania, or transfer pictures, under a stipulation entered into with the federal trade commission. Nine of these companies are said to do about 90 per cent of the total business in these pictures in the United States."

The companies are then named, and the American and Rayner companies are among them. After telling of their agreement to cease and desist, the announcement continued:

"In December, 1931, according to the stipulation, nine of the larger companies organized the so-called Decalcomania Association of America, and later the Borden, Kalasign, and Consolidated companies became members.

"The stipulation points out that this concerted action resulted in the elimination of price competition in the transfer-picture business and that trade in these products was unduly restrained, with a tendency to create a monopoly."

"The defendants never denied the charges in our suit," Attorney O'Callaghan stated yesterday. "They sought to have it dismissed on technical grounds, but when Federal Judge Woodward set it down for oral arguments, they agreed to pay and we accepted."

Representative Searle said that in the preliminary investigation by his committee last year it was learned that the Rayner company dropped its suit in Illinois in 1936 in time to avoid getting a court decision.

In testimony taken by Master in Chancery Pfeifer, it was established, according to the committee report, that the 1936 contract was awarded to the American Decalcomania company at 70 cents on the recommendation of Nudelman, and with the personal knowledge and consent of Gov. Horner.

"If there were any basis for prosecuting me civilly or criminally, I would have been sued a long time ago," said Director Nudelman yesterday. "My political enemies have had ample opportunity for a thoro investigation of my stamp purchases."

SUBWAY STRIKE IN NEW YORK IS 'OFF,' SAYS LEWIS

New York, April 2 (AP).—John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., said late today there will be no strike on the two privately operated New York City subway and elevated railroad systems. He gave this assurance following a mid afternoon conference with Mayor Fiorello La Guardia.

The strike had been threatened by the Transport Workers union on the B. M. T. and I. R. T. lines as the result of disagreement over terms under which 27,000 union workers are to be employed when the city takes over the lines in its unification program.

"This entire matter is satisfactorily settled," Lewis said. "There will be no strike. We expect arrangements entered into here today will work out satisfactorily and for increasing efficiency."

FALSE TEETH WEARERS OFTEN WORST BREATH OFFENDERS

Don't let Denture Breath and stains shout "False Teeth"

DENTISTS SAY···USE POLIDENT

A thin dark film collects on plates and bridges. This film soaks up odors and impurities like a sponge! It holds germs and decay bacteria . . . gets into every tiny crevice where brushing can't even reach. And it's so tough that ordinary brushing seldom removes it. Almost always it results in "denture breath"—probably the most offensive of all breath odors.

Yet there's a perfect way to clean and purify false teeth without brushing, acid or danger. It is Polident, a powder that dissolves away all scum, stains, tarnish and odor.

Polident makes breath sweeter—plates or bridges look better and feel better. Tens of thousands call Polident a blessing for comfort, convenience and hygiene.

Long-lasting can only 30¢, any drug store. Money back if not delighted. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau and dentists everywhere. Hudson Products, Inc., New York, N. Y.

POLIDENT

Cleans, Purifies Without Brushing!

Do this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes. Rinse—and it's ready to use.

SCIENCE FINDS ANOTHER USE FOR LOWLY CACTUS

Newest Product Will Resemble Bakelite.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

MONTERREY, Mexico [by Mail].—Cactus, the lowly plant that is food and drink to millions of Mexicans, is going to be put to another use. It will be used in the manufacture of a product having the properties of bakelite. The factory will be opened here some time this year.

Thus the thorny, prickly, plant already known for its versatility will bow once more to the wonders of modern science.

In America scientists have developed such phenomena as seedless oranges and hybrid flowers. The late Luther Burbank experimented for 16 years before he brought out a spineless cactus that could be fed to cattle. Here in Mexico most of the botanical experiments have been with cacti, and they have had their effect on the life and habits of a large share of the citizens.

Fill Many Needs.

Vast stretches of this country depend on an unpredictable rainfall. They suffer severely before the end of the drouth spells. At that time the cactus fills almost every human need. And even the cattle and burros eat the thick, tough leaves after the thorns have been burned off.

Known to the Indians as "nopal," cactus provides ingredients for enough dishes to make a full dinner.

After the thorns have been pared away, the budding leaves are shredded into thin strips. These, called "nopalitos," are fried with eggs, onions, tomatoes, and shrimps. They taste something like fresh string beans. Indians from the country peddle them in the towns, measuring them out in little earthen jars and charging 10 centavos for a jarful.

Fruit Tastes Like Plum.

The cactus fruit, called "tuna," forms at the tip of the leaves. Unpeeled, it has a horny husk of dull purple or dark orange. Peeled, it is yellow or pink. In either case, it is stacked high in baskets and sold in the public markets. Its taste is a little like that of a plum.

A good drink comes from the "tuna." When the juice is pressed out, it can be made into a mild concoction dubbed "colonche." Or, boiled down with sugar, it can be transformed into a molasses that delights the native chefs. A thicker mixture, made with brown sugar, is cast into a mold and becomes "queso de tuna," or tuna fruit cheese.

Mexico has about 400 species of cacti, and each has its special use. Altogether, they form the country's staff of life.

ANGLERS READY WITH DIP NETS FOR SMELT RUN

Marinette, Wis., and Menominee and Escanaba, Mich., next week will make their annual bid for the attention of midwestern anglers.

The smelt run, due to start any day now, is scheduled to reach its height between April 12 and 21. Millions of the silvery fish will surge up the Menominee and Escanaba rivers from Lake Michigan to their spawning grounds far inland. They will be greeted by thousands of sportsmen armed with dip nets.

All three northern cities are planning festivals in honor of the event. The Escanaba and Delta county smelt jamboree will be held April 11, 12, and 13; Marinette and Menominee will combine forces in a carnival starting April 12 and lasting nine days.

Smelt are near relatives of salmon, but smaller, averaging 5 to 10 inches in length and with an average weight of 12 to the pound. They were brought from the Maine coast to the Great Lakes a few years ago and since then have been multiplying rapidly.

I am bringing my family to Chicago next week to see some of the sights. We are particularly interested in visiting the Field Museum of Natural History. At what hours is it open to the public and what are the entrance fees? L. K. A.

The museum is open every day of the year, except Christmas and New Year's day, from 9 a. m. on. In November, December, January, and February it closes at 4 p. m.; in March, April, September, and October at 5 p. m., and in May, June, July, and August at 6 p. m. Admission is free to members on all days. Other adults are admitted free on Thursdays, Saturdays, and Sundays; nonmembers pay 25 cents on other days. Children are always admitted free.

Just where is Boulder dam situated? C. B.

In the heart of the Nevada desert, near Las Vegas and Boulder City.

When is the best time to see the waterfalls in Yosemite National park? Please tell me something about them. F. M. P.

From now until early summer. Swollen by the melting snowpack in the high country, the mountain streams at this time of the year are plunging over nearly perpendicular granite cliffs in drops of from 300 to 1,600 feet. Within an area of a few square miles Yosemite has some of the world's highest waterfalls. Among them are Cascade, Bridalveil, Ribbon, Yosemite, Vernal, Nevada, Illilouette, Sentinel, Staircase, and Royal Arch. Yosemite Falls drops a total of 2,425 feet—nearly half a mile. Its upper fall alone is equal in height to nine Niagaras.

Two Ancient Mayan Cities to Be Opened to Tourists

MEXICO CITY, April 2 [Special].—The ancient Mayan cities of Chichen-Itza and Uxmal, on the Yucatan peninsula, are about to be opened to tourists. The Mexican Southeastern railway is nearing completion of a line that will connect those two cities with the capital by way of Puerto Mexico and Campeche.

WORTH A WEEK, PUERTO RICO CAN BE 'DONE' IN A DAY

Short Trip Gives Tourist a Taste of Everything.

Like most other places in the West Indies, Puerto Rico has enough attractions to occupy the visitor for a week or more. But the tourist with only one day at his disposal can do much of the island in that time. For the distances there are short.

Starting out at 9 a.m. from San Juan, the newcomer can get to El Yunque and back by 12:30. This trip gives him an ample taste of everything Puerto Rico has in the way of beauty, scenic splendor, and tropical country life.

First the traveler sees the Condado suburban section. Then, skirting the Atlantic, he passes thru groves dense with coconut palms. Soon he comes upon fields of sugar cane, orchards of grapefruit, and pineapple plantations. Nearby are mango and breadfruit trees, and trees loaded with papaya melons.

Road Winds up Mountains.

The road winds and twists toward the top of the 4,400 foot mountain range that runs a few miles back from the seashore. It leads thru a jungle where orchids grow wild, but where there is little danger from snakes or insects. The view of the ocean from the mountain footpaths appeals to both the nature lover and the camera fan.

Going back by a different route, the tourist visits the university, a variety of small towns, and a number of sugar mills before swinging into Ponce de Leon avenue and pulling up at the Beach club. He changes into his bathing suit in a cabaña just back of the beach, and he has a swim off a shore shaded by palm trees.

After lunch he is driven along the ocean front to Fort San Cristobal, the capitol, several social clubs, and the Columbus statue. He is taken thru narrow, balcony lined streets before he comes to El Morro, the 400 year old Spanish fort standing guard over the entrance of San Juan harbor. There he is apt to spend half an hour in wandering around among the gun turrets, powder magazines, and massive tunnels.

Other Points of Interest.

Next comes the governor's mansion, La Fortaleza, on a cliff overlooking the wide bay. The rooms of the palace, filled with old mahogany furniture, and the garden are worth another half-hour stroll.

Daiquiris, Cuba libres, or other cocktails at any one of a number of rum bars are followed by dinner at the hotel, with such delicacies as native lobster, chicken Valencia, and iced papaya. From then on until sailing time there's a choice of dancing at the hotel, at a formal night club, or at one of the decidedly informal hot spots.

CARLSTROM BIDS FOR 3D ATTORNEY GENERAL VICTORY

G. O. P. Veteran's Drive Wins Praise.

Political observers yesterday praised the campaign of Oscar E. Carlstrom, former attorney general, for Republican nomination for that office. Carlstrom, now 61 years old, is known as one of the most dramatic speakers in state Republican politics.

Carlstrom has repeatedly advanced two major arguments for a return to Republicanism. They are the need for a judiciary free from political entanglements and the necessity of keeping the country free from foreign entanglements. He has urged that the Republican party offer sound leadership to the voters in the November election.

Served in Office 2 Terms.

Altho Carlstrom is campaigning against a popular candidate, George F. Barrett, his previous record as a vote getter [he served two terms as attorney general, 1925-'33] has been termed a strong threat in his race for the nomination. In 1924 Carlstrom received 1,474,602 votes for the office, and in 1928 he polled 1,709,348. He was defeated three times in campaigns for governor.

Carlstrom was state's attorney of Mercer county from 1916 to 1920. He also served a four year term as city attorney of Aledo. He practices law with offices in Chicago but maintains his voting residence at Aledo.

Carlstrom's public life began with his enlistment in the army in 1899, when he went to the Philippines. When the United States entered the world war in 1917 he was a captain of artillery in the Illinois National guard and went overseas with the 33d division. He was there assigned to the judge advocate's department.

Aided by Len Small Bloc.

In his first election as attorney general he was aided thru his support of the Len Small state forces. When elected the question arose as to whether he would carry out an intention, announced during his campaign, to dismiss the Brundage interest suit again Small. Instead he permitted the suit to go to the Supreme court to defeat Small and accepted a $650,000 settlement for the state.

Carlstrom's parents were Swedish immigrants. He has always had a strong support from voters of Swedish descent.

Other contestants for the Republican nomination for attorney general are Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, George Landon of Wilmette, and Frank A. Eagleton of Springfield.

PHYSICIAN GETS 10 DAYS IN JAIL AS TIPSY DRIVER

Dr. Harold B. Cassidy, 38 years old, 4851 North Damen avenue, was sentenced yesterday to 10 days in the county jail on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Cassidy was the anesthetist when an operation was performed on John Dillinger to alter the outlaw's features and finger prints. Dillinger was slain in Chicago in 1934. Cassidy won probation in the Dillinger case.

Dr. Harold B. Cassidy.

Dr. Cassidy was sentenced by Judge Frank M. Padden in Safety court. Evidence showed that he drove thru a stoplight at Racine avenue and Diversey parkway on Monday and struck a car driven by Frank Ryan, 3526 North Seeley avenue.

Others jailed by Judge Padden were:

HENRY JOLLY, 42, colored, of 4732 Indiana avenue, 60 days for reckless driving.

SAMPSON TOWNSEND, colored, 1104 Madison street, 10 days for driving while intoxicated.

DON McCORD, 28, of 1311 North State street, five days for reckless driving.

MILLION DOLLAR FUND IS SOUGHT IN RACKET FIGHT

A group of business men is attempting to obtain promises of a million dollar fund to be used in offering rewards for information leading to the suppression of racketeering. This was disclosed yesterday by Frank A. Hecht, chairman of the All-Chicago council, which was formed by the Association of Commerce to fight business and labor racketeering.

Frank A. Hecht.

Hecht addressed a luncheon meeting of the Shrine Luncheon club in the Hotel Sherman.

Hecht explained the reward program is to be made available to the council and that subscribers to the fund would be assessed as rewards are made. He cited the fear of racket victims to talk as the basis for declaring that all rewards will be given anonymously.

HEARING ON PLEA OF ANNENBERG WILL END TODAY

Arguments on motions to dismiss indictments charging M. L. Annenberg and 19 co-defendants with income tax evasion and violation of the federal lottery laws will be concluded today before Judge James H. Wilkerson in Federal District court. The judge is to rule on the motions next Monday.

Judge Wilkerson yesterday indicated doubt that the federal grand jury last August had acted properly in returning a presentment in which it said Annenberg had a monopoly on the dissemination of racing news information, but that he and his associates could not be indicted for violation of the antitrust laws because the monopoly was in an illegal field.

The judge made the suggestion that he might declare the presentment a nullity after counsel for nine defendants charged that their clients were promised immunity when they testified before the grand jury which returned it, then were indicted by a second grand jury in session at the same time. The government contend immunity granted by the one grand jury did not extend to the second.

KILLS SELF IN AURORA GARAGE.

John Bagwell, 50 years old, 723 Palace street, Aurora, was found dead yesterday in his automobile in a downtown Aurora garage.

DELAY ASSAULT CHARGE IN STRIKE AT ST. CHARLES

Charges of assault with a deadly weapon against Walter MacNeille, secretary of the St. Charles Manufacturing company of St. Charles, were reset for hearing April 8 when MacNeille was arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace W. H. Johnson of Wheaton. The continuance was ordered because witnesses had been summoned to a conference with the National Labor Relations board in Chicago.

The charges grew out of a strike called Feb. 28 by two American Federation of Labor unions at the St. Charles plant. A group of strikers who stopped MacNeille's car in DuPage county on March 21 charged he fired tear gas into the face of one of them.

The labor board conference yesterday was informal, it was understood, the board having called several of the strikers to learn the status of negotiations, if any, with the company. It was said this was in an effort to expedite disposal of the charges.

CAR COLLISION ON SOUTH SIDE TAKES 3 LIVES

Four Others Escape with Minor Injuries.

Two city firemen and a companion were killed last night when their automobile, speeding south in Pulaski road, collided with another car 150 feet north of 55th street. Occupants of the second machine escaped with minor injuries. In it were a father, his daughter, 11 years old, and two of her schoolmates.

The dead were:

Clem O'Barski, 30 years old, 8207 Luella avenue, a fireman attached to Engine Company 63.

Ray Ambrose, 37, of 6253 South Sacramento avenue, also of Engine Company 63, who was assigend as chauffeur to Marshal Thomas Gaffney of the fifth division.

Henry Rieck, 61, of 6334 South Carpenter street, a trucker.

Cycle Police See Crash.

Those in the other car were Arthur Zajicek, 38, of 3038 South Homan avenue, an employé of the Board of Trade; his daughter, Gloria; Alice Reininger, 11, of 3036 South Homan avenue; and Virginia Vosejpka, 12, of 3019 South Homan avenue.

Two motorcycle policemen, James Devereux and John Dalek, witnessed the crash. They said the firemen's car was running on the wrong side of the street. It was owned by O'Barski and presumably driven by him.

All three occupants of O'Barski's car were hurled to the pavement by the impact. His spare tire rolled straight to 55th street and forced Policeman Dalek to move his motorcycle to get out of its path. Coroner Alexander L. Brodie set the inquest for 9:30 a. m. today.

Truck Kills Mother.

One woman was killed and another, believed to be her daughter, was critically injured last night when a truck plowed into a group of three persons at Van Buren and Halsted street. The dead woman was identified from cards in her purse as Mrs. Lydia Baine and the other woman as Miss Margaret Baine. They lived at 2619 Jones street.

Police believe they were waiting for a street car on their way home from their work. An east bound truck swerved in front of a north bound Halsted street car and struck the women, who were at the northeast corner. It then struck Joseph Dugo, 43, of 1226 Vine street, a watchman. The truck shot across Van Buren street to the south, ran 200 feet farther east and struck a post. Miss Baine was taken to the County hospital. Dugo was slightly injured.

Police found Ralph Haides, 32, of 1302 South Leavitt street, wandering nearby. He denied that he had been driving, but said he was riding in the truck with his brother, Norman, who could not be found.

Investigation by Albany Park police yesterday indicated that Mort Levy, 21 years old, of 4934 North Kimball avenue, who was found dead beside a stolen car, had been struck and killed by the thief, who then fled.

The car was stolen from a garage at 2534 Lawrence avenue. The night attendant, Mike Tadavich, 22, of 4713 North Western avenue, was held for questioning.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 229 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 175 were killed in Chicago, where 5,130 were injured in the same period.

BODY FOUND IN BURNED FIELD.

Homewood county highway police yesterday found the partially burned body of Charles Dobracke, 58 years old, an inmate of the Oak Forest infirmary, in a burned field a half mile from the institution.

4 WOMEN OBTAIN DELAY IN STRIKE TERRORISM CASE

Judge William V. Daly in Women's court yesterday continued to April 11 charges of intimidation against four women strikers at the Chicago Metallic Manufacturing company, 3711 South Ashland avenue. The women were arrested March 29 on the complaint of nonstriking women employés that they had threatened them with violence.

The four are Mrs. Anna Bijenke, 3333 May street; Miss Helen Lubas, 3811 South Spaulding avenue; Miss Florence Plecki, 5720 Justine street, and Miss Alice Bozynski, 4512 Marshfield avenue. The continuance was granted when their attorney, Francis Heisler, told the court he needed time to obtain witnesses.

Tolerance Is Needed for a Sick Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Goodness!" said a mother to herself. "It's getting to be so that I have to walk on eggs with Tim. He snaps back so," and she gazed in disapproval at her high school son who had just breezed in from baseball practice.

At last her motherly patience was exhausted.

"I wish you'd just stop being so cross, Tim," she said. "I don't talk that way to you and I don't expect you to talk that way to me!"

The great big 17 year old looked at her with a scowl. Then his face cleared.

"Sorry, Mom!" he said. "I know what's the matter with me. It's only before meals I'm this way and I can't seem to help it. I feel like a ravening wolf inside and sort of savage outside. It's hunger. I'll try to control myself, but if you'd just ignore me until I eat! I'm okay by the time I'm half way thru my dinner."

One of the differences between a grownup and a child is that grownups so often know why they feel and act as they do, and children don't. A grown person will say: "I know what's the matter with me, I'm tired" or "I guess I haven't gotten entirely over that attack of flu. I'll have to ease up on myself" or "It must be my physical condition that makes me feel so low in my mind."

Crocheted Purse and Gloves

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted purses and gloves still are among the popular style items which complete every ensemble. These gloves, crocheted in a shell stitch, have a narrow cuff of the same design. The purse, also worked in a shell pattern, is finished with an attractive braided handle. A belt of the shell design may be made to finish the group. Crochet cotton, carpet warp, and any of the plain or nubby knitting yarns may be used.

For instructions in crocheting the purse and gloves in shell stitch, No. X-261, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Lange Players Feature Bach and Three Sons

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A rather irreverent person once described Johann Sebastian Bach as "no slouch of a papa." However much one may deplore the choice of words there is no denying the truth of the characterization. Bach had no fewer than 20 children, several of whom were musical. In a unique concert in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone yesterday Hans Lange and his chamber players presented a program of the music of Papa Bach and three of his boys.

Carl Philipp Emanuel, Wilhelm Friedemann, and Johann Christian filled the first half of the program. A sinfonia by the second named proved to possess an allegro movement whose sunny vigor and crystal clarity the old man himself would not have been ashamed of.

The turn of Johann Sebastian came in the program's second half. The sinfonia to the church cantata, "Weinen, Klagen, Sorgen, Zagen" [a piece better known in the Liszt piano transcription than in any form approximating the original], was followed by the sinfonia to the cantata, "Ich steh' mit einem Fuss im Grabe" [literally, "I stand with one foot in the grave"]. The fifth Brandenburg concerto, one of the least frequently heard of the set, completed the concert.

The performance as a whole was characterized by a nice lightness and transparency. Distinguished solo contributions were made by Jane Anderson, pianist; John Weicher, violinist; Dudley Powers, cellist, and Ralph Johnson, flutist.

In Kimball hall last night Blenda Sterner, pianist, gave a remarkable account of the Mozart D major sonata. She let the composer seem to speak for himself, yet helped him along in a variety of subtle ways. That is, she kept the piece delicate, fluent, serene, and "objective"—but at the same time allowed her own musical imagination to supply the inflection which Mozart doubtless wanted but could not write down. Her playing was glorified by countless tiny rubatos and by many an intoxicating color effect. Everything was in character—everything perfectly Mozartean.

Allowing for the vast difference in style, the same general statements hold for Miss Sterner's performance of the Ravel sonatine.

'No Time for Comedy' Still Gay, Literate

"NO TIME FOR COMEDY."

Comedy in three acts by S. N. Behrman. Staged by Guthrie McClintic. Settings by Jo Mielziner. Costumes by Valentina. Presented by Katharine Cornell and the Playwrights' company, in return engagemental at the Selwyn theater, Tuesday evening, April 2, 1940.

BY CECIL SMITH.

With script and cast and production all entirely unchanged, "No Time for Comedy" returned to Chicago last night for a fortnight in the Grand Opera house before finishing off its triumphal tour with a final flourish in Canada.

Upon renewed acquaintance S. N. Behrman's comedy remains a delightful and reassuring proof that literacy and gay entertainment need not behave like antagonists in the theater. Mr. Behrman's mind may not always function with profundity, but it does always retain a cutting edge. Tho it may be heresy to say so, I find more clarity and intellectual poise in a single epigrammatic phrase of Mr. Behrman's repartee than in 10 pages of Maxwell Anderson's turgid and unresolved philosophic poetry.

At least "No Time for Comedy" poses a single question, argues it divertingly pro and con, and leaves the audience in possession of the author's final conclusion.

In making his pleasing decision in favor of a continuing belief in wit and gaiety, Mr. Behrman rejoices, of course, in the help of Katharine Cornell and her gifted associates. Miss Cornell's performance has ripened since we saw it last; or at any rate I was more completely won over than in my two previous experiences with it. Linda Esterbruch, at once the actress in her husband's successful comedies and the too clairvoyant critic of her husband's habits of living, has now become completely identified with Miss Cornell's style. She plays the rôle with beautiful adroitness of rhythm and pantomime, and with complete sustaining of continuity and suspense.

The deftness and resource of Margalo Gillmore's portrayal of Miss Cornell's sentimental rival is likewise remarkable, and the second act scene in which the two women confront each other is something to watch, even if it does not contain the best passages in the script.

Francis Lederer is still something of a bull in a china shop, but his boyish fervor enables him to get by with a performance considerably less discriminating than the tone of the play demands. John Williams is magnificent as Miss Gillmore's aloof husband. Gee Gee James' maid is both spicy and utterly lovable.

The Housewife

More than a few times we've had inquiries from readers who want to know where they can find a real, old fashioned rocking chair. The hunt is not a bit long, nowadays. We can direct them to three types of this comfortable chair. One is a fine copy of an early American comb-back type and is in maple. It has a high back and the spindles are slender and shapely. The second is a handsome, upholstered Victorian rocker, and the third is an inexpensive little walnut sewing chair. So there you are ladies! Pay your money and take your choice

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Quite one of the loveliest presentations of cologne comes from France. The bottle is superbly simple; only a Lalique could have translated elegance into such smooth simplicity.

It's a perfumed cologne, of course, and there are just three fragrances, all of them florals. Exceptionally good, too.

There is a gardenia, for one, a lovely, cool, true version of that perennially popular scent. And there seems to us a great deal of the languorous perfume in this cologne; it was our experience that the fragrance clung for hours.

Carnation, as we've told you before, is becoming a best seller. From its nice, comfortable little rôle as a spring favorite it's developed into a spring furor; every one loves it now, it seems.

There's a carnation in this trio of colognes that's remarkably good. It's a dancy, peppy scent that lends itself particularly well to cologne—and a rubdown with this, or even a light touch of it on wrists or forehead is as refreshing as an ocean breeze on a muggy day.

The third scent is lilac. Personally we can take lilac or leave it alone, but as liliacs go this is charming. Even we like it, and the people we know who are mad about the scent tell us it's extra special. A whiff of it is exactly like that warm sweet fragrance that wafts from a bush—and what more could you ask in the way of fidelity?

These are quite de luxe. They are, definitely, for the woman who likes beautiful things. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Spring Brides' Days Filled with Parties

BY JUDITH CASS.

TROUSSEAU shopping, apartment hunting, and all the other thrilling preparations that a girl does before her marriage are filling the days of many young women these bright spring days, for there are weddings galore in the offing. Some not so far off, either; for instance, that of Miss Anne Macdonald and Dr. Ian Hodge, for they are being married on Saturday. Dr. Hodge arrives today from his home in Philadelphia to attend the last round of parties that have been planned for his bride-to-be and himself.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery P. Short of Winnetka are having a dinner at the Woman's Athletic club, after which they will take their guests to "Key Largo." Miss Mary Lou Laird has planned a dinner for tomorrow evening, and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Macdonald, the bride's parents, will give the bridal dinner on Friday evening at the Indian Hill club. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stuart will give a luncheon at their home on Saturday.

The wedding will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the chapel of the Congregational church in Winnetka and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Macdonald's sisters, Mrs. Laurence F. Killaly of Toronto, Canada, and Mrs. Hugh F. Waddell of Peterboro, are arriving today, the former to serve as her sister's only attendant. Mr. Waddell will be best man.

Chicagoans Go to Denver for Spens-Gowdy Wedding.

Several Chicagoans and former Chicagoans are in Denver, Colo., to attend the marriage today of Miss Jean Spens and Joseph Scott Gowdy. Miss Spens, daughter of Mrs. Conrad Spens of Denver, formerly of Chicago, will have Mrs. Robert M. Hoffman Jr. of Barrington as her only attendant. The Hoffmans left last week and plan to return on Sunday. Conrad K. Spens of Evanston, the bride's brother, will give her in marriage, and another brother, Gordon, will be best man for Mr. Gowdy, son of Mrs. Roy C. Gowdy of Denver.

Ushering will be James Reed Shannon, whose wife is the former Miss Katherine Street of Chicago, and Lloyd Hughes of Denver.

The ceremony, which will take place at 4:30 o'clock in St. Martin's chapel of St. John's cathedral, will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. Gowdy and his bride will reside in Denver after a wedding trip to Mexico.

Barbara Anne Crowe's Wedding to Be April 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Allan Crowe have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Anne, and Frederick Loomis Aydelotte, on Saturday evening, April 20, at 8:30 o'clock in the Church of the Holy Comforter, in Kenilworth. The Rev. Leland Danforth will officiate. A reception will follow at the Crowe home, 234 Raleigh road, Kenilworth.

Mrs. Laurence Thompson Knott will be her sister's matron of honor. Miss Ruth Johnson will be the maid of honor. Miss Barbara Aydelotte, the bridegroom's sister, will be bridesmaid, and little Susanne Knott will be flower girl.

Mr. Aydelotte, son of Wade Van Hise Aydelotte of Fairlawn Heights, Akron, O., will take his bride to Akron to reside. They will go south for a month's wedding trip.

Miss Eleanor Wetten Bride of Next Saturday.

Altho the wedding next Saturday of Miss Eleanor Wetten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hayes Wetten, and James Sutton Pennington Jr. is to be a small one, witnessed only by members of the families and intimate friends, the bridal party will include three out of towners. Miss Elizabeth Newland, who was Miss Wetten's roommate at Wellesley college, will come from her home in Philadelphia to be maid of honor. Mrs. Henry Gaillard of Cleveland, who attended the same college, will be a bridesmaid with Miss Julia Drake, Mrs. Edward Hall Taylor, Miss Jeanne Miles, and the Lampert twins, Miss Myrtle and Miss Lillian. The bride's sister, Mrs. T. Lloyd Kelly, will be matron of honor.

Preston Peters of Greenwich, Conn., will usher with Lyman McBride of Chicago. They and Edward Brandriff of Highland Park, who is to be best man, all were classmates of Mr. Pennington's at Amherst college. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pennington of Los Angeles.

Honeymooning on Catalina Island

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Countiss Jr. are spending their honeymoon on Santa Catalina Island, off the coast of southern California. Miss Katherine Luxem and Mr. Countiss were married in Chicago on March 9. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Luxem.

Spring Brings Bright Prints and Wool Coats

BY REA SEEGER.

Prints are fluttering in the spring sunshine in daytime dresses and, in companion dresses to thin wool, bright colored daytime coats are going out as typical American ensembles. They are practical, flattering and crisply smart. Subtle color contrasts, unusual combines, and small precise printed patterns assure slender streamlining, making dresses that will not spread the print beyond good eye control.

Dark blue, brown, green, and black dull tops are used for swinging graceful print skirts. Sulphur yellow with a midnight blue printed design, for instance, is combined with a swathed bodice top of deep blue. The yellow background print is used for the hip length jacket. Another color get-together is china blue with navy, lemon yellow with gray, and the daring twosome of red and yellow.

Lots of the smartest prints feature dark color against beige, green with red, pink with navy, copper with bronze green, parrot green with indigo, and tangerine with cornflower blue. Dots, small checks, geometric effects, neat little scrolls, bow knots, and the floral designs are all extremely easy to wear. Floral banding, paisley bands, and leaf patterns all in contrast against dark backgrounds offer everything, both in the showings of print yardage and in the fresh new spring clothes ready to wear out.

Companion sheers are scheduled for early summer wardrobe planning, the dress of the silk print, the long coat of the matching print in filmy sheer. Or the duet in reverse is just as smart, dress of sheer, the coat of the silk print. White and high colored costume accessories change these printed ensembles every time you change the color scheme. Iced with white hat and gloves even the darkest print becomes cool and summery so that selections made now will take you thru the coming summer in high print fashion.

SPRING SONG FOR A MINORITY.

I love green things, and birds, and bees,
Flowers, and Tschaikovsky's Waltz of these,
But among the monstrous things I know
None can touch a flower show.
I'd rather see two beetles race,
Or have the itch—a triple case—
Than behold the horticultural fall from grace
Of a petunia publicly put in its place,
Or join the hothouse crowd in a cheer
For this better than banner botanical year.
"There've been no such dahlias in God knows when!"
If He does, may He never let it happen again.

Tales of Antiques.

Tales of antique hunting and of rare acquisitions have come to life with the assembling of treasures from the homes of prominent Chicagoans for the loan exhibition arranged and sponsored by the Illinois chapter of the American Institute of Decorators at 840 North Michigan avenue, beginning April 12. One of the exhibits is a charming Louis XV. chest of drawers. It once belonged to an old lady in Lyons who had an attic filled with treasures, known by reputation to every antiquaire in the district. One dealer sent gifts of cheese to the old lady for months, and one day she told him she would permit him to buy one piece from her attic. He selected the small decoupage chest. Taking it home joyfully, he began to clean and repair it. One of the drawers stuck. He pried it open and found it bursting with securities and thousands of French francs. Another drawer was filled with jet beads. He returned the valuables to the former owner. The chest was later purchased by the Chicago decorator who tells the story, and sold by her to a private collector of French pieces.

A pair of original bridal chairs loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Chester Tripp of Evanston are in the Gothic group—a male and female chair—and the bar sinister is incorporated in the design of the female chair. Members of the committee of decorators, headed by Cornelia Conger and Ernst Von Ammon, have been impressed with the continued influence of Gothic thruout the various periods. They found it in an unusual Chippendale armchair loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, again in a small regency grilled cabinet loaned by Mrs. John W. Gary, and still again in a Victorian chair of fantastic design loaned anonymously. A screen covered in wallpaper of the late 19th century with Gothic arches in its pattern, loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke, shows the persistent influence of the style.

Morley on Kitty Foyle.

Christopher Morley, in town last week-end, explained that the reason he will not autograph copies of his best seller, Kitty Foyle, is because it is so intimately Kitty's own story he feels it would be an impertinence for him to autograph it. He even considered leaving his name off the title page, Mr. Morley said, so strongly does he feel that it is Kitty's story.

There are 24 steps up to Ben Abramson's bookshop from the first floor and Morley, who gave some lecturettes there last Saturday, suggested that each step be named for an author.

"Except the first three steps," he added. "They might be the first three steps of decency—the three steps Kitty says are obligatory for a hostess to take toward an arriving guest."

Lederer Next Star in W-G-N Sunday Show

Francis Lederer, stage and screen actor, will star on Fifth Row Center over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual network next Sunday. The show, broadcast from 5 to 5:30 o'clock, will mark one of Mr. Lederer's first radio broadcasts from Chicago, altho he has starred many times on the air since he first came to the United States eight years ago.

Mr. Lederer, now co-starring at the Grand Opera House with Katharine Cornell in "No Time for Comedy," has been rehearsing for his W-G-N and Mutual appearance all week. He will be heard in a special radio version of the famous play, "The Firebrand," by Edward Justis Mayer. Mr. Lederer will play the title rôle, which is based on the life of Benvenuto Cellini.

Music for the show will be furnished by Harold Stokes and the W-G-N orchestra. A strong supporting case of Chicago radio actors will be heard with Mr. Lederer.

Mr. Lederer came to the United States in 1932 with a reputation as one of the finest leading men in Europe. He quickly proved that reputation well-founded in his first Broadway play, "Autumn Crocus." Born in Prague, Bohemia, he studied in his native city, but made his first stage hit in Berlin, where he co-starred with Elisabeth Bergner in Max Reinhardt's production of "Romeo and Juliet." Other successes in Berlin followed, and Mr. Lederer then went to London and Paris, where he was also an outstanding success.

During the last five years, he has spent most of his time in Hollywood, where he has appeared in many movies. Among the more important have been: "The Pursuit of Happiness," "One Rainy Afternoon," "My American Wife," "Midnight," "Romance in Manhattan, and "Confessions of a Nazi Spy."

In the last few months he has toured the United States with the "No Time for Comedy" company.

Mr. Lederer is married to Margo, the Mexican actress and dancer, who also has had a successful Broadway and Hollywood career.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

Dayton, O., April 2.—I sat in with a group of theater men last night, Cincinnati's Joe Goetz, Pittsburgh's Mike Cullen, and local managers Bill Clark, Mary Burnett and Woodie Sable. . . . It was the consensus of these veterans that never before in the history of show business has the public shopped so carefully for entertainment wares. . . . "If you can't give them 40 cents worth of entertainment for 40 cents," observed Goetz, "you can expect to flop. The public knows exactly what it wants and won't accept any substitutes." . . . Each one of them agreed to this. . . . Interestingly enough, at least two of the five believed that "Gone with the Wind" might hurt show business in general . . . not only because of the money it monopolizes, but also because it will be a long, long time before the movies can produce a picture great enough to follow it.

You find Ann Sothern building as an attraction thru this area. . . . If her studio will give her protection, that is fine dialog writers, the Sothern miss will go on to a great success. . . . The men like her because she is attractive, easy to look at . . . the girls like her because she wears clothes well and because she shows them how to boss men around. . . . The fact that she had gumption enough to absent herself from the movies for a year, instead of accepting stupid rôles, appeals to their intelligence.

These cities and towns really put themselves out to be nice to Hollywood visitors. . . . At the luncheon here Mayor Brennan and other city officials joined with newspaper publishers and editors, chamber of commerce officials, owners of businesses and stores to bid us welcome. . . . Hollywood hasn't even started tilling these fertile fields of good will . . . yet they tell me that some Hollywood people came thru and thoroly ired the city. . . . One Paramount star refused to sign autographs at the stage door. . . . Next day the kids got even with her. . . . The local schools were plastered with notices to boycott the tired cinema queen.

Big rivals to theaters thruout the country, at the moment, are the bingo games being conducted by churches and lodges. . . . In some places the churches and lodges run huge bingo games not only at night but also in the afternoon. . . . The theater men are afraid to protest too vigorously because of various punitive measures that the churches can adopt in retaliation. . . . Yet it seems obvious that churches should not be engaged in gambling or lotteries. . . . Business men would be happy if they stopped.

Once upon a time, and that not so many years back, if you passed thru the country, the youngsters in the various towns asked you about Florenz Ziegfeld, or Charlie Dillingham or George White. . . . The big idea then was that the country seemed to have its eye focused on the lights that jittered electrically along Broadway. . . . To date, we have signed literally thousands of autographs and we have yet to meet a single person who wanted to know anything about Broadway. . . . All of them, young and old, have apparently transferred that interest to Hollywood. . . . This is a trend that should be noted.

Newspaper men I've met in the various cities have an interesting explanation for this. . . . They say that Broadway misses most the excited Boswellian pen of O. O. McIntyre. . . . McIntyre held the ear of the small towns with his record of life in Bagdad-On-The-Subway. . . . He was the trumpeter who blew high, shrill notes on behalf of Father Knickerbocker. . . . They point out, too, these newspaper men, that a whole group of us who once wrote daily syndicated Broadway columns since have switched our typewriters to the coast. . . . In other words, they contend that the paragraphers who once created the legends of the main stem are no longer doing so. . . . This is an interesting contention. . . . It has a certain measure of truth to recommend it. . . . The clincher argument they use is this: "What would Emporia, Kas., be if it didn't have the trenchant pen of William Allen White to recommend it?"

There is no doubt that the picture has changed considerably. . . . Remember when the whole country applauded Ann Pennington's shapely legs? Or commented upon Anna Held's milk baths? Remember when the Hippodrome was the epitome of stage spectacles and Skating Star Charlotte was as well known nationally and internationally as Sonja Henie? . . . Today there are girls on the Broadway stage with legs even more shapely than those of Miss Pennington, but the trouble is nobody propagandizes them. . . . The Radio City Music hall is more magnificent than the Hippodrome, but nobody dramatizes it. . . . Say, maybe these out of town writers are right in their analysis of what has happened to Broadway.

Helen Parrish was buttonholed by a 9 year old little girl at the stage door last night. . . . "Miss Parrish," said the little girl, "why are the two little ink spots so sad?" . . . Helen said she didn't know. . . . "Because their mother is still in the pen finishing a sentence," answered the youngster. . . . And then she proffered the pen and asked for an autograph. . . . Even the autograph seekers realize that they have to put on a production number with the current competition.

Gun Bought Grant

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Framed by his enemy, Santee Bales, Sam Teacher, outlaw cowboy, shoots the bank robber dressed to resemble him. The governor agrees to give Sam $25,000 in addition to full pardon for all the crimes accredited to him if he will persuade obstinate Matt Drury to sell the railroad the right of way through one of his canyons. Sam gets a job on Drury's ranch and has a run-in with his worthless son, Steve, and his pretty but spoiled daughter, Celia. Instead of firing Sam, Drury takes his advice and gives Steve a small stake of his own; and he tells Celia she has to run the house. Both children leave home in a huff. Celia getting a job in a restaurant, and Steve getting into a crooked poker game with Bales and ends up the big loser, having to go into partnership with Bales. Bales persuades Steve to get the grant of the canyon property so they can make the governor pay them instead of Sam. Sam is captured by Bales and his men, who steal his gun and leave him tied up. When Sam breaks loose and reaches town he is arrested for the murder of Steve as his gun is found near the murdered man. Matt wants Sam hanged but his foreman, Pearly, is convinced of Sam's innocence and resigns to help find the real murderer. He buys a stable next door to the jail and digs Sam out, and they concoct a plan to outwit Bales. With dynamite they change the course of the river that determines the boundary of the land Bales plans to sell the railroad. Bales learns that the river is needed for irrigation and plans to get a court order to change the course of the river back again. Celia gets homesick and visits her father. While she is there, Pearly and Sam appear at the ranch and try to persuade Drury to guard the ranyon until Sam can kill Bales. Drury refuses but Celia sees Sam in his true light and begs him to protect her father and his interests.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

STOLEN ORE.

"Another thing I've learned," continued Celia, "is that I'm happier at work than I've ever been in my life. And the third is—is that if Pearly was willing to quit his job to break you out of jail, then you can't be as bad as I thought. And now you're trying to help Dad—and I am, too. Only, I can't, and you can—if there is anybody that can."

And then, as if she had said too much, she left him and went back into the house. In a moment, Pearly stepped out to join Sam and they vanished into the night.

Drury sat staring at his plate, anger giving way to bewilderment in his face. Finally, he looked up at Celia, as if asking for help. Celia smiled at him. "You do what you think is right, Dad. Only, Pearly is trying to help you. You know that."

"But—murder."

"Of a killer."

"Of a man by a killer," Drury said quietly. "No, railroad or no railroad, I won't share in that."

Twenty miles to the east of Trabajo and far up in the Utes was the Giant Glorieta mine. Nestled in the high timber, its shaft house, candle house, office and barns were just as gray and weathered as the slab shacks housing the miners and their families. Five years of almost daily rain or snow had grayed their lumber to the color of the boulder fields higher on the peak. It was a tight little community, for the closest town, Sand Forks, where the reduction mills were, lay some thirty miles away. The log saloon and store in Glorieta contrived to supply the cheer for the camp, but the men who drove the freight wagons, loaded with ore, down to Sand Forks were the aristocrats of the camp. They were envied because twice each week they escaped the rainy monotony of the camp in the summer, and its bitter cold in winter.

George Harnum was such a man. Mondays and Thursdays each week he would mount the seat of the big high-wheeled ore-freighter which stood under the tipple, pick up the jerkline and his whip, and with bull throated shouts and curses, get his five teams of mules into movement. It would always be early in the morning, and always he would be bundled up in a mackinaw and heavy boots, and, if it was raining, as it was on this morning, in a long yellow slicker.

The toughest part of the trip was getting cold mules to pull over the hump of the ridge that lay just beyond the camp. After that, it was downhill all the way, and a man only had to understand the braking of an ore wagon and a mule's mind to make it a pleasant trip. It got a little lonesome of course with nothing but dripping timber and steaming mules as companions; and occasionally, when you had to pass an upwagon on an especially narrow part of the rocky road, it could be exciting. But usually it was a little lonesome.

It was with considerable interest, therefore, that George, an hour out of camp, beheld the slickered puncher holding the reins of a horse who stood beside the road waiting for him this morning. When the wagon was almost abreast them, the puncher raised a hand in a manner that indicated he wanted to speak with George. With considerable ease George pulled up and, foot on the brake, said, "Howdy."

"Howdy. I lamed my horse. Any chance of catchin' a lift down to the Forks?"

George spat over the side, and regarded the puncher. He was a runt, nothing more than a kid, but he could talk and that was all George wanted. "Plenty. Tie him to the end-gate and climb up."

The puncher did so and George whipped the mules into motion again. "I never rode on these-here things before," the puncher said, examining the wagon and the load. "What is it?"

"Ore. Ain't you never seen ore before?"

The puncher, blue-eyed and innocent, shook his head in negation. "Not me. All I ever see is cows." He peered under the tarp at the load of grayish looking rock and said, "Don't tell me that damn stuff is worth haulin' down to the Forks."

George laughed indulgently. "Mister, you're ridin' on about three thousand dollars' worth of gold. That's high grade stuff."

The puncher looked properly awed, and George went on to explain the process of reduction. The puncher gave him a smoke, and listened. He asked questions about the mule-skinning job, and George warmed up to him. "There ain't nothin' to it, George said. "You drive the lead team with this jerk line. The rest of them Jacks you beat into line and keep 'em from straddlin' that chain."

The puncher nodded. "There's a lot of pull there, all right. Could you take off acrost country with this rig and get anywheres?"

"If it was reasonable flat," George said, "I could go anywheres."

The puncher reached under his slicker, as if to get a match, and when his hand came out it held a gun, which he pointed at George.

"Well, I reckon that's what you're goin' to have to do," he drawled.

George glanced down at the gun and then at the puncher and licked his lips. "Listen, cowboy. You aim to steal this ore?"

"That's right."

"What good's it gunna do you? You can't buy whisky with rock."

"Ever tried?"

That one stumped George. He thought a while, then glanced obliquely at the puncher's face and saw the mocking light in the eyes, and grinned sheepishly.

"You can't ride me, cowboy. No, I ain't ever tried, but I know it ain't so."

"I'm goin' to try it," the puncher said gravely. "You just drive this up to the saloon I name, and I'll bet I can stay drunk for three weeks."

George looked at him again, and decided he was loco. They drove on a way in silence, and then George said, "You better put that iron away. I'm due to meet another wagon pretty quick."

"That's what you think."

"I know."

"No you don't. You're goin' to take the right hand road when we come to the fork down here."

George's forehead wrinkled. He was trying to think of any fork, and then he remembered the old wagon trail that was abandoned years ago because of its grade. It was weed-grown and steep, and a man had to look carefully to see that it had ever existed.

George exploded. "Why, damit, man. You loco? They give that road up because it was so steep! It's all washed out!"

"No it ain't. I come over it."

"But I can't drive that!"

"You just been tellin' me how good you was, and how easy it is to handle this rig," the puncher said innocently. There was an undertone of jeering, however, that George did not like.

"All right. Suppose I can. Where you goin' when you take the road? It levels off at the flat, then heads for the Rim, then it follows the Rim west for ten miles or so and peters out. There ain't any road."

"That's right."

"All right. Where you goin'?"

"To the Rim."

George was filled with despair. "Look, I'll lose my job over this."

"Why?"

"Why, damit, this ore is worth three thousand dollars! And these mules and this wagon! I s'pose you're goin' to take them too."

"I'll pay for it."

George looked at him. "Sure. In what? Beercaps?"

Sam pulled off a boot with his free hand, and pulled out a sheaf of dirty bills. He peeled off three of them, put the others back in the boot and put it on. "Here's three thousand," he told George, handing him the money. "I ain't goin' to keep the wagon and mules, so I don't pay for them."

George gulped in amazement, just as Sam said, "Here's the fork."

George pulled up and regarded the cut-off. While he was looking a second puncher in a slicker stepped out from behind a tree, a shovel in his hands. He was an old-timer with a ragged mustache, and he leaned against the tree without saying a word. George looked from him to the small puncher on the seat.

GASOLINE ALLEY—TAG, YOU'RE IT!

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Knockout

According to CULBERTSON

Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I was West in the following deal and was bombarded with criticism and argument after the 800 point set.

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
East-West 30 part-score.

	NORTH
	♠ A 10 9 7 4 3 ♥ None ♦ K J 6 ♣ Q 5 3 2
WEST		EAST
♠ 8 ♥ K J 10 7 5 ♦ A Q 3 2 ♣ 9 6 4		♠ K Q J 6 2 ♥ A 8 4 ♦ 9 ♣ K 10 8 7
	SOUTH
	♠ 5 ♥ Q 9 6 3 2 ♦ 10 8 7 5 4 ♣ A J

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 diamonds	Double
3 hearts	Double	Pass	Pass
3 spades	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

"East contends my second bid also should have been hearts instead of diamonds to show more positive strength in the suit, in which case he would have left in the double. Also, since two suits already had been doubled, it was not logical that an outstanding length in spades would be held by the opponents. Incidentally, after looking over the hands, one can readily see thru North's diamond double, a mere prod to force another spade bid.

"I claim the blame rests on East for taking out the heart double after my pass, especially when I had at no time raised spades. My reason for showing the diamond suit on the second round was the possibility of a no trump fit.

"South opened a low heart. North shifted to a club after ruffing, and the first six tricks were rattled off before East got his breath. Of course, the ace of trump also was conceded.

"We would appreciate your comment. Mrs. B. W. G., New York."

Just one more case [No. 6,754,832, I imagine] of the guilty party reproaching his victim. I publish this hand because it is an all too common illustration of the indecisiveness to be found at many bridge tables. East's bidding was typical of the player who cannot make up his own mind, but must have it made up for him by the opponents. After West's three diamond bid and North's double, there was [presumably] no doubt in East's mind as to the correctness of his three heart preference bid. But when this met with a double from South, East decided to change his horses and make a pure "stab" at his own magnificent spade suit. That he had bid this suit twice and found no encouragement from West, apparently had little influence on him. Admittedly a five card suit headed by a K-Q-J is worth a rebid, but when partner having heard those bids refuses to raise that suit even in order to escape from a double, it is a safe bet that he has an acute dislike for that denomination. West's bidding showed a very fair hand; without it he would have passed to the two spades. A two-over-one takeout [viz., West's two heart takeout of one spade] strongly suggests a five card suit.

Summing up, then, it should be obvious that the fault in this matter lay entirely on East's shoulders. At three hearts, reasonably good play on West's part would either have brought home the contract, or, depending on the defense, gone down one trick.

If you've some leftover cooked ham in the refrigerator you can use some of it for ham waffles at tomorrow's luncheon table. If there's no ham, try chopped bacon instead. Either meat will make luncheon waffles hearty enough and tasty enough to make the noon meal unusually pleasurable.

Use any favorite recipe for waffles, adding the chopped meat to the batter. This is the recipe I use for plain waffles and variations.

Waffles.
[About eight.]

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 eggs, separated
1¼ cups milk
¼ cup melted butter
For ham waffles: ½ cup chopped cooked ham

Sift dry ingredients together. Beat egg yolks and add milk and melted shortening. Stir into dry ingredients, beating the mixture until smooth. Add ham, if it is being used in the recipe. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a hot waffle iron. Serve with sirup, honey, crushed fruit or jelly.

Individual meat loaves for tomorrow night's dinner may be made from almost any meat loaf recipe. The combination is baked in muffin pans or custard cups instead of as a single loaf.

Individual Meat Loaves.
[Six.]

1 pound ground round steak
½ pound ground pork
1½ teaspoons salt: ¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 small onion, minced
1 slightly beaten egg
¼ cup catsup
¾ cup scalded milk
1 teaspoon sugar

Combine all ingredients, mix well, and press into greased muffin pans. Bake for 45 minutes at 350 degrees.

Tomato Sauce.
[2 cups.]

¼ cup flour
¼ cup butter, melted
2 cups tomato juice or sieved tomatoes
Salt, pepper, celery salt
½ teaspoon onion juice

Blend flour and butter in a saucepan. Add tomatoes gradually. Cook and stir to a smooth sauce. Season with salt, pepper, celery salt and onion juice. Serve hot with meat loaves.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Wednesday, April 3.

Today's early ideas hold too much of self pity and emotional inharmony to be relied on. Down the familiar groove. Mid-day suggests calm thought, seeking the opinions of those wiser and older, sticking to the well thought out plan.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if this is your birthday, brings money reward in exact proportion to past effort—or error. Clean your financial slate. Some expansion thru distance. Danger: May 31-June 11; Oct. 12-31; March 2-10, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Give the brain a trot around the track; go after new business in afternoon.

Old Masters and Moderns Meet in Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An infinite amount of thought and work must have gone into the gathering of the pictures which make up the exhibition of Origins of Modern Art, that opened yesterday at the Arts club to continue thru April 30. It is a stunning show altho one is not convinced that it would be any the less stunning were all thought of the pictures as "origins" be discarded and sheer pleasure in the presence of so many brilliant and intelligible works substituted.

The paintings have been grouped in classifications of form, color, realism, vision, composition, abstract, etc. They run as far back into time as the gay and unsophisticated prehistoric rock painting, "The Mtoko Cave, Southern Rhodesia," lent by Walter P. Chrysler Jr. They are as advanced as Picasso and Matisse, Van Gogh, and Rivera. Certain pictures have been set one side as constants; from them the tide in art is supposed to ebb and flow.

The idea is capital; its application difficult. There seems in many instances no connection between the traditional canvas, the fine piece of painting, and the rather maudlin exhibitionism of the 20th century artist. In fact, sometimes there seems no connecting link between two works of the same painter, in the before and after periods of his going modern. Take for example the delightful, solid landscape by Derain, "Le Haut d'Ollivieres," and his "Vue de Londres," impregnated with the fantastic conception of color fathered by Van Gogh.

The classification "Science" offers the largest number of delightful and challenging pictures; the introduction of a Picasso and a Leger is a false note—or rather, perhaps, they are the right note and the rest in that group are out of place.

If mathematics is a science then the abstractions of Picasso and Leger are correctly present; the Monet, Jongkind, Barye, and Seurat are incorrectly installed—surely they should hang under a title that would convey more of the sense and sensitivity that is the charm of each.

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.
[Central Standard Time.]

The first broadcast of Citizens of Tomorrow, a new series of radio programs of special interest to the youth of America, will be presented from W-G-N's main audience studio before 600 students of the Lake View High school from 7 to 7:30 p. m. The program, presented under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will include short stories of typical Illinois high school boys and girls, a news quiz in which three boys and three girls among the studio guests will participate, and music by the glee clubs of the participating schools.

Philip Maxwell of the editorial staff of THE TRIBUNE will play the rôle of school principal and conduct the news quiz. The story for this evening will be about an Illinois high school drum majorette who likes to play football with the boys. "Jerry," the girl, will be portrayed by Dorothy Gregory, 16 years old, a senior at Maine Township High school. Each week a different school will be invited to send students to participate in the show.

John Steele, European news commentator in London for W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, previously scheduled on Friday nights, will be heard every other Wednesday at 9:20 p. m., starting tonight.

The Pageant of Melody will present Attilio Baggiore, the octet, and the concert orchestra under the baton of Joseph Johnson, in a program of classical music from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Baggiore will sing "Musica Proibita," by Gastaldon, as a solo, and with the octet will offer "Notturno D'Amour," by Drigo, and "I'll See You Again," from Noel Coward's "Bittersweet."

Radio Audience Will Get Story of Style Scoops

"Fashions on Parade," a dramatic story of how THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE scooped the entire American dress manufacturing industry in presenting in color the 1940 styles for milady direct from the creators in Paris, will be told on a special broadcast on W-G-N at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow.

The photographs which will appear in the Sunday rotogravure section of THE TRIBUNE will be the first in color seen by American newspaper readers.

With a setting of music provided by the W-G-N concert orchestra, a cast of leading Chicago actresses will portray the behind-the-scene setting of the famed Parisian fashion salons, including Balenciaga, Molyneux, Suzy, Schiaparelli, and Piguet, where Tribune photographers obtained the color pictures which were rushed across the Atlantic by Clipper plane to New York and relayed to Chicago.

On the program will be a leading Chicago woman of the early years of the twentieth century, who will tell how the latest French styles were obtained at that period.

The full page of Paris fashions in color appearing in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE will be the first of a series of four pages.

EUROPE'S RING CHAMPIONS REACH NEW YORK

WHITE SOX SCORE FIVE IN 7TH; DEFEAT CUBS, 7 TO 3

LEE HAMMERED FOR NINE HITS IN SEVEN INNINGS

American Leaguers Lead Series, 6-5.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

El Paso, Tex., April 2.—The White Sox were bubbling over with mischief again today and sort of messed up the attempt of Bill Lee, premier member of the Cub pitching staff, to prove he is ready for a nine inning assignment. James Dykes' frisky fellows gave the stately Lee the works in the seventh, scored five times and then coasted to a 7 to 3 decision in the portable city series. The verdict put the American leaguers in front by six spring victories in eleven games.

The defeat was a bit more than ordinarily painful for the Cubs because in addition to having Lee bumped and themselves being guilty of streaks of confused fielding, they weren't able to hit. They showed one batting flash by thumping Pete Appleton four times for three runs in the second and that was all they dida to the ex-Senator in his five round workout. Then Orval Grove, the rookie, stepped into the picture and after four innings of swinging against the speed baller the National leaguers fashioned only one more hit.

Lee Comes to Grief.

Lee was a slick workman for five innings and if he could have kept it up the three runs off Appleton in the second might have been sufficient for Cub purposes. But in the sixth Mike Kreevich got the range by tripling and this gave the Sox their second run.

In the seventh, Lee met up with Tom Turner, who doubled. In the wake of this came a pass, singles by Joe Kuhel and Kreevich, and a double by Julius Solters with the bags loaded. In the midst of the confusion Bill Rogell committed an error which opened the road for the last run. Lee was withdrawn from circulation after this upheaval.

Whereas the Sox touched off four extra base drivers, one off Julio Bonetti, who finished for Lee, the Cubs produced only one item longer than a single. This was a double by Billy Herman in the second. But there was something about the Cub attack even worse than the paucity of extra base clouts. They couldn't get a man home in the third when two walked with none out or in the fifth when there was a full house with one gone.

Sox Cash in on a Walk.

Lee refused to give up anything beyond a lone pass in the first inning, but the Sox didn't ignore a similar gift in the second. It went to Luke Appling at the start of the inning and Taft Wright promptly showed he was pleased to be back in action after a vacation caused by a lame wrist. He singled to right, putting Appling on thiru. Bob Kennedy popped up, but Mike Tresh slapped a fly into Augie Galan's hands and Appling scored.

Appleton's troubles in the second began with Dom Dallessandro's single to right. Glen Russell pushed a single between Kennedy and Appling and Al Todd whacked a single into right, Dallessandro scoring and Russell galloping to third. After Rogell popped out, Lee tapped to Kuhel whose throw to Tresh nipped Russell at the plate. Don Kolloway fumbled Stan Hack's roller, Todd scoring. Herman then doubled to left and Lee scored, but

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Willie Hoppe didn't win the world's three cushion billiards championship last night. He won it early this morning, 20 minutes after midnight.

The one time boy wonder of billiards, now gray and stoutish at 52, met a stubborn opponent in Welker Cochran, who always seems to be around when Hoppe is involved in winning titles. Hoppe wasn't his usual brilliant self, but he had enough finishing power to set down the San Francisco veteran, 50 to 43, in 46 innings.

Gains $3,500 Prize.

It was Willie's sixteenth straight triumph in the tournament that will come to an end Saturday in Bensinger's Wabash avenue rooms. The new champion will receive $3,500 of the $20,000 prize money that will be awarded the 11 contestants.

After Cochran won the lag, Hoppe scored two billiards in the first inning, four in the fourth, and two in the fifth for a sizable margin. At the intermission he led, 25 to 20. After the rest, Cochran came back strong and finally caught Willie in the thirtieth inning, making it 30 to 30. Two innings later the Californian scored twice and went ahead for the first time. Hoppe regained the lead with his second cluster of five in the thirty-third frame and thereafter never was headed, altho Cochran always was close enough to cause him some mental uneasiness.

It's Willie's Second Title.

Thus for the second time the New Yorker with the drawing room manners is king of the angle players. After Cochran won the world championship in Chicago in 1936 he met Hoppe's challenge and was relieved of his crown. The recording of Hoppe's newest title must be crowded on a page of his cue accomplishments which started in 1906 when he defeated Maurice Vignaux in Paris, France, for the world 18.1 balk line championship.

The champion was the last of the 11 players to enter the tournament. He pleaded he wasn't in condition for such a grind as the 110 match tournament. His remaining four matches are with Jake Schaefer, Jay Bozeman, Johnny Layton, and Joe Chamaco. If he negotiates this hurdle the winning of 20 matches in a row against such a topnotch field will become the greatest all-time billiard feat, three cushions or otherwise, in the estimation of officials and players alike. Ten consecutive victories by Layton was the previous high in tournament play.

Schaefer Rallies to Win.

Schaefer saw to it earlier in the evening that there would be no backing into the championship by Hoppe, altho he was fortunate in defeating Chamaco. The score of 50 to 49 signifies all the match was.

The near capacity crowd of 1,000 brought total attendance to approximately 16,000, assuring financial success.

"WE'RE HERE AND READY, AMERICA," SAY EUROPE'S BEST

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Europe's amateur boxing champions demonstrated that they were willing and ready for action after they disembarked from the Vulcania in New York yesterday. They start today for Chicago and arrive tomorrow morning, ready for the last phase of their training in preparation for the bouts with Chicago's Golden Gloves champions in the Stadium next Wednesday. Left to right, they are: Guido Nardecchia, Italy, flyweight; Ulderico, Sergo, Italy, bantamweight; Federico Cortonesi, Italy, featherweight; Egisto Peire, Italy, lightweight; Eric Agren, Sweden, welterweight; Karl Noren, Sweden, middleweight; Lajos Szigeti, Hungary, light heavyweight, and Olle Tandberg, Sweden, heavyweight.

SEE CITY SIGHTS TODAY, THEN IT'S ON TO CHICAGO

Meet Golden Gloves Team Wednesday.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 2.—The amateur boxing champions of the neutral nations of Europe ended their long ocean voyage this evening. Tomorrow the team entrains for Chicago where, on April 10, it will meet the Chicagoland Golden Gloves team in the ninth international championships.

It was an excited group of boys—three Swedes, four Italians, and a Hungarian—that disembarked from the Vulcania at pier 92, North river, shortly after 7 o'clock tonight. In the thrilling trip from the lower bay, past the Statue of Liberty, and then past Manhattan's jagged skyline to the Hudson river berth of the Italian line, the boys forgot the monotony of the 4,000 mile voyage from Naples.

Sergo a Veteran Traveler.

The sight of Manhattan was not a new experience for four of the boys. Little Ulderico Sergo, Italian bantamweight, for instance, first came to Chicago in 1935 with the Italian team. Since then Chicago's Golden Glovers have met the combined amateur forces of Europe, the expeditionary party this year being restricted to competitors from neutral nations chosen in the tournament in Rome March 20.

Sergo has been the most consistently successful of all Europe's amateur boxers. But even to this likable chap, as to Guido Nardecchia and Egisto Peire of Italy and Eric Agren of Sweden, who have been here before, arrival in the world's most fabulous port is an experience that never grows old.

Newcomers Are Speechless.

The others were speechless in their amazement at the sights that met their bulging eyes. Federico Cortonesi, Italian featherweight; Karl Noren, middleweight, and Olle Tandberg, heavyweight, both of Sweden, and Lazos Szigeti, light heavyweight of Hungary, are making their first Golden Gloves invasion.

Officials in charge of the group are old friends. First down the gang plank was Arthur de Kankovszky from Budapest, Hungary, secretary of the International Boxing federation, whose devotion to the ideals of amateur sport in these uncertain days in warring Europe made possible the continuation of this sports spectacle.

Kankovszky Is Thrilled.

Kankovszky has made a score of Atlantic crossings, accompanying each European team since 1937, and tonight he said solemnly: "No other boxing expedition has meant as much to me personally. This friendly relationship between our federation and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is a beautiful tribute to sportsmanship in a world of jealousy."

Also in the party was Oscar Soderlund of Stockholm, president of the International federation. He left the front line in Finland at the conclusion of the Russian invasion, where he had been reporting for his newspaper, to bring the Swedish boxers to Rome. Soderlund made the 1938 trip to Chicago with the European squad.

Two Italian Counts in Party.

Count Gerardo di Leonardi of Milan, is in charge of the Italian boys. He also was a member of the European group in 1937 and 1938. Steve Klaus the American born instructor of Italian boxers, again is coach of the invaders. Last year, Klaus and his boys won the first victory over Chicago since the rivalry started.

Count Leonardi was accompanied by his friend and Italian Davis cup star, Count Alberto del Bono.

Klaus reported his charges in better condition than he originally thought possible during the early portion of the voyage. A smoother passage permitted a heavier training schedule yesterday and the day before. Klaus is certain the squad will reach peak condition quickly in Chicago.

Coach Klaus Is Confident.

"You must remember," Steve said, "that these boys really needed a letdown after the bouts in Rome. And my Italian fighters had just finished

J. P. Nicholson, Coach of Irish, Dies Suddenly

South Bend, Ind., April 2 [Special].—John P. Nicholson, track coach at the University of Notre Dame since 1927, whose teams won numerous championships thruout the United States and Canada, died of heart disease here early tonight. He was 50 years old.

John P. Nicholson.

Nicholson had appeared at the South Bend Y. M. C. A., where he spoke before the South Bend Athletic association, composed of a group of working boys, with the idea of assisting the youths in developing their athletic tendencies. Shortly after the meeting, Nicholson, complaining of an attack of indigestion, retired to a parlor room. He died a few minutes later.

SPRING training trips are old stuff for Jimmy Austin, White Sox coach. . . . He has been making them for 38 consecutive years and at 60 he can do more work than many of the big league prima donnas. . . . Joe Kopcha, who established himself as one of the best linemen in the National Professional league while playing guard for the Chicago Bears, is practicing medicine in Whiting, Ind., his home town. . . . The 1940 prize for intriguing big league names should be awarded to Clark Griffith's Washington club. . . . The roster includes Alejandro Carrasquel, Joe Krakauskas, Rene Monteagudo, Gilberto Torres, Early Wynn, Jacob Early, Angelo Giuliani, Edgar Leip, Hal Quick, Teddy Retenski, Roberto Ortiz, and John Welaj. . . . It may encourage Hank Greenberg of the Tigers to know that Fred Lindstrom, Riggs Stephenson, and Ben Chapman all made successful shifts from the infield to the outfield. . . . A Knute Rockne memorial service will be aired from Our Lady of Sorrows church on the west side Friday night. . . . Students at the University of Pennsylvania plan to conduct a voting campaign in behalf of the school's candidates for the Chicago All-Star football squad before classes are adjourned in June. . . . If you don't think Bill Hapac's name will live in basketball history at the University of Illinois, let's hear your rebuttal to these facts: He set a new Big Ten scoring record of 34 points for a single game; a new three year Illinois record of 582 points; a new Illinois season record of 244 points; equaled Chuck Carney's mark of 60 baskets in Big Ten competition for one season; first Big Ten scoring champion from Illinois since Carney led the conference in 1922; averaged 13 5-9 points a game for 18 contests. . . . Remains of an ancient Roman bath have been found on a golf course at Walton Heath, England. . . . St. Louis high schools will play night baseball this spring. . . . Rangers Whip Toronto, 2 to 1, in Cup Opener

New York, April 2 (AP).—Alf Pike, New York Ranger rookie who came close to being the goat of the first game of the Stanley cup hockey finals, emerged as the hero tonight when he scored a goal after 15 minutes and 30 seconds of "sudden death" overtime play to give the Rangers a 2 to 1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

It was Pike whose misplay in the first period cost the Rangers a possible chance to end the first game of the final round within the regular three periods. But he more than made up for this error in the eyes of a crowd of 12,437 when he blasted a beautiful shot past Turk Broda, the Toronto goalie, to bring the game to an abrupt end.

L. Patrick Gets Assist.

Lynn Patrick drew an assist in the winning tally but it was Pike, a first year man in the league, who did most of the work. He picked up the puck in the center zone, passed to Patrick at the blue line and received a return pass just as he hit the Toronto defense. Bingo Kampman tried to stop him but Pike got off a high, hard shot that sailed under Broda's arm.

The only scoring in the three regular periods came in the first period and Pike was the "goat" for the

HOSTAK TO FIND OUT SOON IF HE'S STILL CHAMPION

N. B. A. Will Make Decision on May 28.

The National Boxing association will take a poll of member states on May 28 to determine what action will be taken against Al Hostak for failing to defend his middleweight championship against Ceferino Garcia, New York title claimant, who is recognized as No. 1 contender by the N. B. A.

Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission and second vice president of the N. B. A., made this statement last night after he was asked the possibilities of having Illinois recognize Garcia as title holder to clear the way for a proposed match between Ceferino and Tony Zale in Chicago Stadium May 9.

Available in May.

The question was brought up after George Parnassus, manager of Garcia, told Promoter Bill Rand his Filipino protége was available for Zale in May, but the fighter would not appear unless the state commission gave him title status.

"We can't very well do that," Triner explained. "The N. B. A. has ruled Hostak is the champion, but he must make his next defense of the title against Garcia. We know Hostak has signed articles to meet Garcia in Seattle May 21, but Ceferino balks at fighting in Seattle. He countered by accepting a 15 round fight against Ken Overlin in New York May 24. A poll vote of the member states will determine the issue when Hostak's time limit expires May 28."

Seek Zale Foe.

This decision eliminates any chance of closing a Zale-Garcia match for May 9. However, Promoter Rand will continue his search for a strong Zale foe on that date.

BIMELECH SURE DERBY STARTER IF TRACK IS FAST

Palm Beach, Fla., April 2 (AP).—Col. E. R. Bradley, owner of Idle Hour stock farm at Lexington, Ky., said today that his horse Bimelech will be a sure starter if the track is fast in the Kentucky Derby May 4.

He made the statement to refute a recent report that Bimelech's training was lagging. "If for any reason something unforeseen happens that we will have to scratch Bimelech from the Derby, newspapers will be notified immediately," the owner declared.

Col. Bradley, enjoying good health, plans to leave the middle of April for his Lexington home, where he will watch the final preparation of Bimelech for the Derby on the Idle Hour training track.

To a Grandson.

Years will pass before you read this
And I hope I'm living still,
Living just to hear your laughter
As you play and show your skill.
Living just to help you learn, boy,
That this life can fairer be,
If you follow in His footsteps,
He Who died for you and me.

Years will pass before you read this,
But I hope to watch you grow
Into sturdy, honest boyhood
With a mind that wants to know.
Yes, to know about the worthwhile
That in turn will help you meet
Obstacles upon life's roadway
That to many spell defeat.

Things of worth—God, home and mother—
Pass them not like thoughtless youth.
In those three you'll find the answer
That will lead to love and truth.
Years will pass before you read this,
When you do I hope to be Close beside you with this message:
"God was good to you and me."

AN OLD MASTER, MR. BOBBY JONES, IS AT IT AGAIN

Back Lame, but Posts 66 in Drill for Masters'.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Augusta, Ga., April 2.—Ten years isn't such a long time, but it's been quite a spell for a fellow who was practicing chipping today just off the practice green of the Augusta National Golf club. In 1930, he was the subject of the wildest receptions the game ever has known. Today on a bright afternoon with the thermometer hitting 90, he is in the dual rôle of host and No. 1 guest at the seventh annual Masters' tournament, opening here Thursday noon.

The chipper in question, as you may have suspected, was Robert Tyre Jones Jr. In 1930 he brought off the one and only grand slam—victories in the American and British amateurs and opens within the same year.

Thru? Not Quite.

Mr. Jones, grown a trifle chubbier since the year of the big win, has been bothered these last few weeks with a strange crick in his back, just below the left shoulder. It must be much better now, for he fired a 32—34—66, six under par, in playing with Charley Yates against Horton Smith and National Amateur Champion Bud Ward today. Bobby hit three birdies in the first five holes, caught the bank at the water 12th, and was short at the 17th. He and Master Yates had a best ball of 62 against the 68 submitted by Smith and Ward.

Bobby racked up his clubs after the aforesaid 1930 achievement, definitely retiring from golf. Friends thruout the country thought otherwise, however, at least to the extent of thinking that the masterful Atlantan should make one competitive appearance a year. Bobby didn't cotton to the idea at first.

But his admirers finally won, persuading him to take part in this one particular show on a golf course built around him, and partly by him, for he had his say in the architectural work on the course.

Putting Has Changed.

Since the Masters' was founded, Jones has finished in the first 24 only twice, yet his very presence on the grounds, the sight of his still beautiful swing, has been the inspiration making for one of the best tournaments in golf.

"What differences have you found in golf in the 10 years since you retired?" Jones was asked.

"I'm not much for reminiscing, but I think that the main difference in tournament play since then is putting," he replied. "In my time you could name the great putters. Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Francis Ouimet—yes, I dropped a few myself. Now, you find that all the tournament stars are good, if not exceptional putters.

"Naturally, improvement in equipment has done much to lower scoring, altho I disagree with those who contend that the ball of the last few years carries any extra driving power compared to what we played thru 1930. Scoring standards are different now, too. If you had anywhere from 138 to 140 at the end of 36 holes in the old days, you could always figure yourself a few strokes leeway. Now 138 or 140 means nothing."

Jones' 66 was matched later in the day by Ralph Guldahl, defending champion and Byron Nelson, winner in 1937.

A.B.C. Bowler Gets 300 and Yet Doesn't

Detroit, Mich., April 2 [Special].—Another record for the American Bowling congress was posted today when Charley McAnespie, tire salesman from Lancaster, O., posted 12 strikes in a single game but failed to score 300.

McAnespie, competing in his second national pin tournament, scored games of 214 and 201 in the singles division and then hit eight consecutive strikes to start his final game. On his ninth shot, the 40 year old Ohioan flicked his ankle with the ball and it rolled into the gutter. McAnespie picked up the ten pins for a spare on his second shot and then hung up three more strikes for a 270 game and eighth in the singles, totaling 685.

"I offer no alibis," he said when he stepped off the drives, missing the seventh 300 game in the 40 year old history of the congress.

Jim Danek, Forest Park, Ill., veteran who won the singles last year at Cleveland with a 730 total, went the way of most bowling champions today. Danek hit only 503 in the team event, came thru with 672 in the two-man division but slumped to 497 in his singles effort, 333 pins short of his solo series of last year.

Another title was lost when Phil Icuss and Murray Fowler, of Steubenville, O., 1939 doubles champions, hit 1,184 or 221 pins under their winning figure last year. Leaders:

hurdler and a member of the 1912 United States Olympic team.

Greg Rice, who set a new world indoor record for the three mile run in Madison Square Garden last Sunday night, was one of Nicholson's star pupils. He coached Rice at Notre Dame and made him one of the greatest distance runners in the world today. Rice was specializing in shorter events until Nicholson realized that in Rice he had the timber to mold a great two and three mile champion.

During the 1912 Western conference meet, then open to outsiders, Nicholson won the high hurdles and high jump, and placed third in the broad jump. He tied the world's record of 15 seconds in the 120 yard high hurdles.

Started Coaching in 1913.

Nicholson started coaching at Centre college in 1913. He coached track at DePauw university in 1914-'15 and at Sewanee from 1916 to 1922, during which time he produced a southern intercollegiate track championship team and three football title winners—1919, 1920, and 1921.

In 1924 Nicholson moved to Rice institute in Houston, Tex., and inaugurated the Rice relays. Early in 1925 he went to Canada and was named track coach of the Montreal Athletic association.

Nicholson was born July 30, 1890, in Greenville, Pa. Besides his widow he is survived by a son, Bill, 20, a freshman at Notre Dame, and a daughter, Martha, 13.

Funeral arrangements will be made tomorrow.

the national championships before that. They haven't broken training. They have just relaxed. We'll be ready to whip Chicago again. This is the strongest team we ever have sent over."

Klaus was undecided tonight whether he would have the squad work out in New York tomorrow. The boys will have time, however, for a brief sightseeing excursion and already Cortomesi has inquired if he might go up to the top of the Empire State building, which is only a few hundred yards from the New Yorker hotel where the Europeans are quartered.

The boxers were the center of interest for ship reporters, whose duties have dwindled with the withdrawal of passenger ships by the warring nations. The pier, however, was nearly deserted, as the police who guard the Queen Elizabeth at an adjacent berth, prohibit casual visitors.

Vulcania Makes Up Time.

For a time yesterday morning it seemed that the Vulcania might not dock until early tomorrow. The ship originally sailed from Trieste and departed from Naples March 22, stopping at Genoa, Gibralter, Lisbon, and was already overdue a day. Shortly before noon, however, the Italian Line announced the Vulcania would arrive at 7 o'clock.

All of the officials of the team speak English, Count Leonardi having acquired quite an extensive American vocabulary since his first visit three years ago.

Tandberg, the husky heavyweight, looks formidable, even in street clothes. He not only is the best amateur heavyweight Europe ever has developed, but he knows his own mind. He declined three invitations to fight in Chicago on previous European teams, his place twice having been taken by Germany's Herbert Runge whom Tandberg has beaten in every engagement since the 1936 Olympics.

In 1937 Tandberg returned to Stockholm from Milan to complete his examination to become a master painter. Work also interfered in 1938 when he won the preliminary tournament in Berlin.

The team leaves tomorrow afternoon on the Pennsylvania's General and arrives in Chicago's Union station at 8:40 Thursday morning.

Richie Turns On Power in Chicago Golden Gloves Camp

BY HOWARD BARRY.

James Richie yesterday gave his answer to those who are worried about the ability of Chicagoland's Golden Gloves fighters to stand up under the power tactics they'll face a week from tonight when they meet the champions of Europe in the Stadium. During yesterday's sparring matches in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium Richie, who holds the Golden Gloves and intercity light heavyweight title, took on two of the most rugged battlers of that weight class—Shelton Bell and Hezzie Williams.

Apparently both Bell and Williams had been sent in with instructions to make it as tough as possible for Richie. Each fought him for one three minute round and there was never a moment when they weren't rushing and slugging.

Richie Proves Stamina.

There never had been any doubt about Richie's boxing technique and after those two rounds observers agreed there wasn't any doubt about his ability to stand up to a heavy slugger.

Richie, who is sleekly built without an ounce of fat on his frame, showed a catlike quickness in dealing with Bell's bull-like rushes. Bell, who also was a winner in the intercity matches, is noted for his power and for his ability to give and take punches of terrific force. Against so formidable a sparring mate, Richie showed he knew exactly what he was doing every minute he was in the ring.

As soon as Bell was thru, in came Williams, who won the light heavyweight championship in the Chicago sectional Golden Gloves tournament in the Coliseum.

Luckily, No One Is Hurt.

In addition to being a hard hitter, Williams has great speed. But Richie showed that he was just as fast. They mixed it up so furiously that Paddy Kane, who was supervising the engagement, seemed worried that one of them might get hurt. He asked the timekeeper how near they were to the finish and then ordered both fighters out onto the gym floor the moment they got the bell.

The coaching staff is anxious to toughen up the light heavyweights as much as possible because Lajos Szigeti, who will represent Europe in this weight class, is one of the most experienced amateurs in the world. He has held the Hungarian championship 13 times and has reached the semi-finals of the last two Olympic tournaments. He estimates that he has been in 600 fights. His toughness is indicated by the fact that he has never been knocked out in this long campaign.

Szigeti's Aggressive, Too.

Szigeti's tactics are as aggressive as those used yesterday by Bell and Williams. He keeps rushing his opponent all the time, never letting him get set for a punch. Those who saw Richie stand off his adversaries yesterday are ready to believe that no matter how furiously the Hungarian attacks, he'll never get past that straight left the Chicago representative flashes with such accuracy and speed.

The boys will continue increased quotas of sparring as the week goes on and eventually they will be sent thru four rounds as a final test of their fitness. Three of these will be normal sparring and the fourth will be devoted entirely to in-fighting which is calculated to harden the boys for the kind of slugging they'll encounter from the Europeans.

The boxers have been going in for billiards, cards, books and movies as relaxation after their hard days in the gymnasium. Tony Ancona and Patsy Ancona have shown the most talent in the billiard rooms. Cornelius Young and Roy Lewis have been the most successful of the card experts.

The European fighters landed in New York yesterday and are scheduled to reach Chicago at 8:40 tomorrow morning. They will be met at the Union station by local Italian, Swedish and Hungarian organizations and representatives of the various consuls. The Italian welcoming committee will consist of the following: Horatio Tocco, John Dolce, Corrado Vaselli, Dr. Salvatore Vainisi, Dante Taddeucci, John Merlo, Vincent Ferrara, Anthony De Guilio, Sam Pecoraro, Frank Coccia, and Rocco Fuselli.

RATES DROP, BUT SUBURBS' TOTAL TAX TO BE HIGHER

Rise in Assessed Values to Cause Increase.

The 1939 tax rates for the suburbs are generally lower than those of 1938, it was shown yesterday in an announcement of the new rates by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn.

The county town rates were given out after the announcement last week of the 1939 tax rate for the city of Chicago. The Chicago rate is $9.11 per $100 of assessed valuation, down 1 cent from the 1938 rate of 9.12.

Rates for many of the suburbs were reduced proportionally more than the Chicago rate. There were, however, a few increases among suburban villages and cities.

Total Bill to Be Higher.

The total 1939 tax bill in the suburbs will be higher than the 1938 total, in spite of rate reductions, because of an increase of 7 per cent in assessed valuations on Cook county property outside Chicago.

In most instances this increase more than offsets the reductions in rates, which vary from 1 per cent to 6 per cent. The total tax bill inside Chicago also will increase as the result of a 5 per cent increase in valuations.

The 1939 rate for Evanston is 4 to 6 per cent below that of 1938, depending on the school district. The reduction is about 4 per cent in Oak Park, Park Ridge, Wilmette, and Western Springs. Smaller declines are shown for River Forest, Chicago Heights, and Glencoe. Towns showing increases included Worth, Hazelcrest, and Barrington.

Tables Compare Levies.

Following is a comparison of the 1939 tax rates with the 1938 rates for most of the cities and villages in the county. Taxpayers will pay the rate of the township or school district where their property is located. The school districts [SD] are in brackets:

WRITER'S CRAMP BESETS COUNTER AS CENSUS OPENS

Tallies 22 in Family and Rests Arm.

An army of 2,500 enumerators started out yesterday to take the 1940 census throughout the Chicago district, which consists of Cook and Lake counties and Lake county, Ind. George W. Schreech, area manager, issued orders to 16 district supervisors to report any trouble, but said the census seemed to be proceeding smoothly, as none was reported.

George W. Schreech.

The only instances of difficulty occurred in Blue Island, where an enumerator got writer's cramp taking down the names of a man and his wife and their 20 children, and in Chicago, where an enumerator reported that a wife interrupted five times to telephone to her husband at his office to get information on questions she could not answer.

Tally to Take Two Weeks.

The first census in the nation was taken in 1790, so this is the 16th, altho not that many have been taken in Chicago, few inhabitants but Indians being on the scene for the first and second censuses.

Enumerators will not report results to their supervisors until they complete their territory. This is expected to take two weeks in the city and perhaps a month in rural districts.

Enumerators must work at least eight hours daily, but may work more if they desire. As federal employés they are not subject to provisions of the wages and hours law and are paid at the rate of four cents for each name. They also receive eight cents for each home and an additional two cents for each infant enumerated. In the last census an enumerator's average weekly salary was $30, altho some hard workers made as much as $65.

FEDERAL PLAN FOR 'EASY FARM MONEY' FOUGHT

Burden on Treasury, Says D. W. Bell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—The battle around the Farm Credit administration continued today as the treasury explained criticism of the Jones-Wheeler bill for opening the FCA doors to easier farm loans. This bill may result in further burdens on the treasury. Undersecretary of the Treasury Daniel W. Bell told the house agriculture committee, which is considering the bill.

Daniel W. Bell.

Meanwhile farm organization leaders, who oppose the administration's plan for establishing an "easy money" policy in agriculture, testified in support of the Gillette bill before the senate banking and currency committee for reestablishing the FCA as an independent agency by taking it out of the department of agriculture.

Ordered by Roosevelt.

The 6 billion dollar credit agency was placed under the secretary of agriculture by a presidential reorganization order last year against the protests of most farm organizations.

Bell criticized the interest reduction and financing provisions of the Jones-Wheeler bill, which are supported by Wallace and New Dealers in general. The undersecretary, who was formerly acting director of the budget, suggested changes in the bill, including a limitation on the amount of obligations which the FCA could have outstanding.

"Many of the relaxations provided by the bill," said Bell, "would mean that the federal land banks would be less able and less likely to obtain from the farmer the full amount of the money loaned to him and the interest thereon. This would mean, therefore, that in the long run the charges to be borne by the treasury—first, against its investment in the capital stock and surplus of the banks, and, second, to the extent that these are exceeded, against the guarantee of their obligations—would likely be greatly increased.

Would Set Up Standards.

"The statute should set some standards for readjustments rather than leave them entirely to administrative discretion.

"Finally, it would seem that the size of the total farm credit program contemplated under the proposed legislation ought to be limited by placing a reasonable maximum on the amount of obligations permitted to be outstanding at any one time.

"Such a limitation has been placed on the obligations of other government owned corporations, and is particularly desirable as a mechanism whereby the entire operations of such agencies may be reviewed from time to time by congress. If it is decided to place a limitation of 3¼ billion dollars on land bank bonds and bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation combined it would permit an increase in outstanding loans of about 1 billion dollars."

Opposes Interest Cut.

Some of Bell's sharpest observations on the bill were concerned with the proposed 3 per cent interest rate on long term farm mortgage loans, which would bring the rate on existing farm mortgages held by the land banks under the FCA to a new low level, or ½ of 1 per cent below the minimum temporary emergency rate which has been in existence since 1935.

"While I am fully aware of the desirability of permitting farmers to enjoy interest rates as low as possible consistent with the cost of funds to the government," he said, "it is difficult to understand how this interest rate arrangement can be justified on such a basis.

"The bill proposes that the secretary of the treasury make up any excess in the borrowing rate over 2 per cent during the period prior to June, 1946. But no provision for a subsidy is made for the period beyond 1946, altho ultimately this question would have to be faced.

"In view of the present budgetary

Edison Power Sales, Revenue Top Last Year

Sales of electric power increased 12.9 per cent and electric revenues improved 6 per cent during the first two months of 1940 compared with the 1939 period, Charles Y. Freeman, chairman of the Commonwealth Edison company, told stockholders at their annual meeting yesterday.

The percentage of gain in electric output fell below the final quarter of 1939, however, and the increase in revenues was only two-thirds of the rate for the full year 1939, he said.

"A study of electric output for March indicates a slight reduction from the percentage of increase which prevailed for the first two months of the year," he added.

Construction Under Way.

The company's 1940 construction program, involving the expenditure of 42 million dollars, is fully under way, Freeman reported. Two major projects will provide more than 200,000 kilowatts of additional electric generating capacity at the Powerton and Northwest stations. About half of this additional power will be available this fall and the rest in the fall of 1941, he added.

Studies are being made, Freeman explained, which contemplate the installation of electric generating capacity of 147,000 kilowatts at Fisk station, to be ready in 1942. The 25,000 kilowatt unit for the Joliet station of the affiliated Public Service Company of Northern Illinois is scheduled for completion by the end of 1941.

Plan Involves 100 Millions.

"Major projects contemplated during 1940, 1941, and 1942, together with construction expenditures for replacements and the expansion of the system, involve an aggregate outlay of approximately 100 million dollars," Freeman said. "Sufficient funds should be available to meet these expenditures without the need for new financing."

Answering the question of a stockholder as to where the funds would be obtained, Freeman said that about 18 million dollars a year, or an aggregate of 54 millions, would be available from depreciation reserve funds and that the company has about 15 million dollars remaining from a bond issue. No trouble is anticipated in finding the necessary additional funds, he said.

Urges Limited Salaries.

Another stockholder suggested that salaries of officials be limited to $50,000 a year and that the company consider the institution of a six hour day. Freeman said he would discuss the recommendations with directors. About 250 shareholders attended the meeting.

To fill the places left by the deaths of James Simpson and John T. Pirie, Freeman and Edward J. Doyle, president, were elected to the board of directors.

Consolidated net earnings for 1939 had been announced earlier at $25,414,590, equal to $2.43 a share, compared with $19,701,625, or $2.37 a share, in 1938.

The Simpson and Pirie vacancies on the Public Service company's board were filled by stockholders by the election as directors of Freeman, chairman of the company, and T. Albert Potter, president of the Elgin National Watch company.

82,600 Telephones Added to Bell System in March

New York, April 28 [Special].—American Telephone and Telegraph company system had a net gain of 82,600 telephones in service during March, it was announced today. The gain for February was 82,800, and for March, 1939, 81,900. The cumulative gain for the first three months was 260,000, against 215,200 a year ago. At the end of March there were 16,795,300 telephones in the Bell system—a new record.

CHICAGO AREA FIRMS SPEND 16 MILLIONS IN EXPANSION OF PLANTS

Manufacturing plant expansion in the Chicago district during the first quarter of this year involved a total of about $16,000,000, four times as much as the $3,900,000 in the first three months of 1939, the industrial division of the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday.

The expansion was undertaken by 64 companies. In the first quarter of last year 25 companies started expansion programs.

Six manufacturers started production activity in the Chicago district during the first quarter. These were the Dewey & Almy Chemical company, Bellingham Furniture Manufacturers, Ultra Chemical company, Herbert corporation, Gordon Varney company, and the Lewisburg Chair company. In the first quarter of last year only one company entered the Chicago area.

"Many of these additions to Chicago's industrial pattern show a tendency by prominent companies to undertake expansion of main plants rather than to decentralize operations in untried territories," the association said.

FEDERAL DEBT RATIO SHOWS VAST INCREASE

New York, April 2 [Special.]—Federal indebtedness currently is more than 68 per cent of the total debt of the country, contrasted with less than 21 per cent in 1913, the First National bank of Boston asserted today in its current review.

"In order to obtain revenue," the bank declared, "the federal government has invaded many tax fields originally belonging to state and local governments. If this trend continues communities may find that they can not obtain sufficient funds to finance their regular activities. In such an event they would tend to become vassel of the central government.

"It has been pointed out in some quarters that we need not be concerned about our national public indebtedness, since it is much less than that of most foreign countries. This is in general true, but the comparison is not so favorable when all political subdivisions are included."

PLANE MAKER CONFIRMS BIG EMPIRE ORDER

Los Angeles, Cal., April 2 [Special].—Altho declining to discuss details, Robert E. Gross, president of Lockheed Aircraft corporation, said today that reports concerning the placing of a large order by the Anglo-French buying commission with his company were in the main accurate.

This is the first official statement in connection with the reported placing of approximately $600,000,000 out of a rumored $1,000,000,000 total of fighting aircraft with all the American aircraft corporations by the commission. The statement was made at the annual meeting today in reply to the question of a stockholder.

Unofficial figures are that Lockheed is receiving an order for approximately 1,200 interceptor-pursuit and bombing planes, the cost of which would amount to about $100,000,000, lifting the company's backlog to $160,000,000.

British, French, Canadian Moneys Gain on Dollar

Advances were made yesterday by the British pound sterling, the Canadian dollar, and the French franc in the New York exchange market. Sterling rose 2 cents to $3.57¾, the Canadian dollar ¼ cent to 82 cents and the franc 0.0125 cent to 2.03 cents.

STOCKHOLDERS TOLD OF RISING BUSINESS TREND

Many Firms Report Better Results.

Stockholders of many corporations, including top flight concerns in their business fields and companies of moderate size, were told yesterday of business improvement recorded during the early months of 1940. The trend was disclosed at annual meetings held in Chicago and other cities. A few executives forecast continuance of the improvements.

First quarter profits of Spiegel, Inc., Chicago mail order enterprise, will about equal the $325,763, or 16 cents a share, earned in the comparable period of 1939, Modie J. Spiegel, Jr., president and general manager, said at the company's meeting.

Spiegel's profits in the second quarter of 1940 should be larger than the $362,508, or 20 cents a share, earned in the 1939 period, he said. March sales were about the same as last year or possibly a little lower, he added.

Larger Profit Forecast.

Because the company's expenses are on the downgrade and merchandise profits on the upgrade, the year as a whole should be better than 1939, Spiegel said. The directors created a new vice presidency, naming Earl D. Well to the post.

Sales of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, one of the largest of its kind, have shown a continuance of the upward trend experienced in the last quarter of 1939, officials announced at Jersey City, N. J. Earnings likewise have gained during the first three months over the similar period last year, it was said.

H. A. Baker, president of the American Can company, largest domestic producer of containers for food and other products, told the company's annual meeting in New York that sales so far in 1940 have amounted to about $5,000,000 more than for the corresponding period of 1939.

Small Part of Annual Sales.

The first three months of the year, however, account for a relatively small proportion of annual sales and, therefore, too much significance should not be attached to early results, Baker said.

He told shareholders the company's sales of paper milk containers have been satisfactory in New York and the Pacific coast area, but that expansion into other territories will not be attempted on a large scale until further experience is obtained.

Thomas L. Smith, president of Standard Brands, Inc., one of the largest corporations in the field of manufacturing and distributing food products, asserted first quarter earnings have shown improvement over last year. The outlook for the full year is encouraging, he said, at Dover, Del.

First quarter operations of Fansteel Metallurgical corporation, North Chicago, producer of nonferrous rare metals and metal alloys, maintained the rate of improvement recorded last year, Max Swiren, assistant secretary, told stockholders. Bookings currently are larger than at the corresponding date in 1939, he added.

Utah Radio Prducts Gain.

Another Chicago enterprise, Utah Radio Products company, had consolidated shipments totaling $695,290 during the first quarter of 1940, compared with $624,132 in the 1939 period, G. Hamilton Beasley, president, said at the annual meeting. Fred R. Tuerk of Fuller Cruttenden & Co. was elected a director to replace M. M. Corpening, who had resigned. All other directors and officers were re-elected.

All directors and officers of Bunte Brothers, Chicago candy manufacturers, were reelected.

Return to Gold Money Requires Minting of Smaller Coins

All gold coins that were in circulation in the United States prior to the dollar devaluation of 1934 will have to be redesigned on a smaller scale if congress accedes to the growing demand for the return of gold to general circulation. Inquiries made yesterday at the office of the director of the mint in Washington disclosed that the government has made no preparations for a new design for gold coins.

Leland Howard, acting director of the mint, said it was impossible to give the exact dimensions of gold coins that may be issued in the future because sizes would necessarily depend on the design approved.

Free Circulation Advocated.

Free circulation of gold has been advocated as a means of strengthening confidence in the currency. The government's prevailing gold policy, under which 18½ billion dollars of the metal have been accumulated in the treasury's storehouses, is being regarded with increasing misgiving.

Using the dimensions of the old gold coins as a starting point it is possible to arrive at the probable sizes of the new coins after consideration is given to the reduction in the gold content effected by President Roosevelt's devaluation of 1934.

The gold coins that were circulated most generally before possession of the metal was made illegal were the 5, 10, and 20 dollar pieces. The dimensions and gold content of these coins were:

	$5.00	$10.00	$20.00
Diameter [inch]..	0.848	1.060	1.350
Thickness [inch].	0.0582	0.080	0.0968
Std. wt. [grains]	129.0	258.0	516.0
Pure gold [grains]	116.1	232.2	464.4

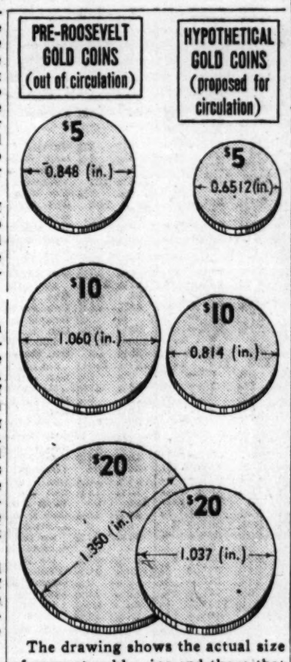
Possible New Dimensions.

If it is assumed that the new coins would be of same thickness, the dimensions and gold content of these pieces, when and if they are put in circulation, would be as follows:

	$5.	$10.	$20.
Diameter [inch]..	0.3512	0.814	1.037
Thickness [inch]..	0.0582	0.080	0.0968
Std. wt. [grains]	76.190	152.38	304.76
Pure gold [grains]	68.57	137.14	274.28

In the accompanying diagram are shown the comparative sizes of the old coins and the hypothetical new coins. The standard coin is composed of an alloy of 10 per cent copper and 90 per cent gold. In diameter the new coins would be 76.8 per cent of the coins that were withdrawn from circulation.

Dr. Chester A. Phillips, economic advisor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, is one of the economists who have recently advocated free circulation of gold.



The drawing shows the actual size of present gold coins and those that would have to be minted if gold returned to circulation.

LARGEST CHICAGO BUILT VESSEL OF ITS KIND FLOATED

Chicago was the scene of a ship launching yesterday. The Jim Martin, largest river towboat ever built here, took to the water in the yards of the Calumet Shipyard and Dry Dock company at 9367 Harbor avenue, South Chicago.

The Jim Martin is 130 feet long, has a 30 foot beam, and is powered by two 600 horse power Diesel engines.

Owner of the new craft is the Ashland Oil and Refining company, Ashland, Ky., which will use it on the Ohio and lower Mississippi rivers. Developing a total of 1,200 horse power the towboat will be capable of pushing eight to ten barges. It has two propellers. The boat, which was named for the chairman of the board of the owner company, cost about $230,000. It will have a crew of 18 men. The vessel will have a ship to shore telephone service which functions by radio.

James A. Rogan, president of the shipbuilding company, said a single screw 600 horse power Diesel towboat is being built for the John I. Hay company, a barge line on the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.

PREDICTS EARLY RESUMPTION OF LAKE NAVIGATION

Detroit, Mich., April 2 (AP).—Opening of the navigation season in the upper Great Lakes by the middle of the month was forecast today by the United States weather bureau here. Meteorologist Clarence J. Root said indications point to the opening of navigation in the St. Mary's river between April 10 and 15 and that steamers should make passage in the straits of Mackinac without trouble by April 15. The coast guard cutter Escanaba is on its way to the straits and may break a way thru several days earlier.

Drifting ice fields and much open water was reported in Lakes Huron, Michigan, St. Clair and Erie. The Lake St. Clair ship channel was said to be clear within range of vision with the Detroit and St. Clair rivers, down which broken ice is moving, open except for a possible ice gorge at Algonac.

NEW YORK ACTS TO AID PRIVATE SLUM CLEARING

Votes Plan Proposed for Illinois.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

A slum rehabilitation bill which for the first time in American history gives private enterprise broad legislative permission to redevelop rundown city areas has been passed by the New York state legislature and awaits only the signature of Gov. Lehman to make it law, the Chicago Building congress was informed yesterday.

Paul D. Angell, secretary of the congress, received from Thomas S. Holden, president of the New York Building congress, a telegram saying that the New York urban redevelopment corporations act passed both houses of the legislature without opposition.

Draws Favorable Comment.

The announcement was greeted with immediate favorable comment in Chicago. William Wilson, counsel for the Chicago Building congress, said: "The act will give the green light to private industry in that field. It recognizes the almost forgotten usefulness of private capital and private endeavor in the solution of social problems."

Elmer C. Jensen, architect and president of the Chicago Building congress, and John A. Holabird, architect and vice president of the congress, also praised the New York legislature's action.

Holden, vice president of F. W. Dodge corporation, chairman of the drafting committee of the Merchants Association of New York, and one of the leaders in shaping the act, also announced that the program will be drawn to the attention of chambers of commerce thruout the nation.

Trade Groups' Support Asked.

"The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has approved a report which described the redevelopment act in detail," Holden informed Angell. "The board recommended the plan for study to all chambers of commerce

New York Stocks.

New York, April 2 (AP).—Aviations, particularly air transports, held the buying spotlight in today's stock market while many leaders struggled unsuccessfully to get out in front.

Steels, motors, and specialties did fairly well, altho the majority was content to tack on fractional advances. Favorites, at the best, got up 1 to 3 points. Extreme gains were shaded in most cases at the close.

Air line issues left the rest of the list behind as discussion of sharply expanding traffic for the carriers revived thought of big earnings and dividends.

Several plane manufacturing stocks also exhibited quiet strength in response to talk of large foreign orders being placed soon for fighting craft.

Steels came back after a listless forenoon performance when reports were heard of broadening purchasing of structural steels and other products.

Touching new highs for 1940 or longer were American Airlines, United Air Lines, Pan-American Airways, Transcontinental & Western Air, Copperweld Steel, Dresser Manufacturing, Loft, Radio corporation, Dow Chemical, White Rock, and Bayuk Cigar.

Retaining advances up to a point or so were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Loew's, International Paper, Greyhound, and Texas corporation.

On the offside were American Telephone, Western Union, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Kennecott, Johns-Manville, Goodyear, and Phelps Dodge. Altogether, 265 individual stocks were on the losing end, 328 were up and 211 unchanged.

New York Stock exchange members' collateral borrowings as of March 30 amounted to $569,813,430, an increase of $14,339,083 over the Feb. 29 total of $555,474,347, the exchange announced.

New York Bonds.

New York, April 2 (AP).—United States government bonds today continued to narrow the gap separating them from the record high levels established last June.

Traders reported the new advances in treasuries ranging to 11-32 of a point resulted from further quiet buying by institutional and individual investors in the face of limited offerings.

Corporate bonds had some gains, altho the main list was mixed. Low yield liens improved with the governments.

In the foreign group gainers of fractions to about 2 points included Antwerp 5s, Brisbane 6s, Tokyo City 5½s, and Belgium 6s. Down 2 or more were Denmark 5½s and Norway 4½s.

Transactions totaled $7,006,000 face value against $7,123,500 yesterday.

Chicago Stocks.

Gains were more numerous than declines among the 98 issues traded yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Three stocks attained new high price levels for 1940, and two of these closed at their peaks. They were W. H. Barber, up 2¼ points to 18½, and United Air Lines, ⅝ point higher at 21⅝. Elgin National Watch touched 29¼, the highest this year, but slipped back to close unchanged at 29.

Bank Stocks.

American National bank shares advanced 2 points yesterday. Other issues were unchanged. Prices follow:

WATERMAN (PEN) CLAN SPLIT ANEW OVER FIRM'S LOSS

Elisha H. Seeks to Oust Three Relatives.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 2.—Elisha H. Waterman of the Waterman pen family cracked the clan's new found harmony wide open today with a petition in Manhattan Supreme court for the dissolution of L. E. Waterman company, the fountain pen manufacturing firm he heads. He asks that his brother, an uncle, and a cousin be removed as officers and that they be compelled to pay to the company losses it incurred, he charges, thru their "mismanagement and waste."

Elisha H. Waterman.

Those losses, Elisha sets forth, totaled $4,000,000 from 1929 to last Jan. 31. In addition, he says, the company has been brought near the "brink of insolvency" because of policies his kin have "stubbornly pursued."

Returned Two Years Ago.

It was just under two years ago that Elisha returned to the family fold after an economic exile of 13 years, during which he earned his living as dish washer in short order lunchrooms, fry cook, and hack writer of woodpulp fiction.

He clashed with his father, the late Frank D. Waterman, over how the firm should be run, in 1925, and was shoved out to fend for himself. In May, 1938, after his father's death, Elisha, under the terms of his grandfather's will, reassumed his place on the board of directors of the company. His daughter, Audrey, established her claim to her father's share in a huge trust fund set up under the will of the grandfather, Lewis E. Waterman, founder of the company.

Calm Is Short Lived.

But the calm was short lived, today's action revealed. The petition names Elisha's brother, Frank D. Waterman Jr.; his cousin, Lewis E. Waterman Jr.; Fred S. Waterman, his uncle, and Archibald W. Pole, another director of the company.

Bit by bit, Elisha says, they encroached upon him in his efforts to conserve the company's position in the pen industry. Finally, thru their control of the board, they stripped him of all duties save those of labor relations.

He asks that they be superseded by a receiver, the company liquidated, and its assets distributed.

THIS COUNTRY MAY AID EMPIRES IN WINNING WAR, SAYS J. S. BACHE

TORONTO, Ont., April 2 [Special].—If any danger threatens that the empires might lose the war, the United States will "finish it with them," Jules S. Bache of New York, president of Dome Mines, said today at the annual meeting of the company. He said, however, that he did not believe the empires would need any help in winning the war.

"I don't pass opinion whether our men should be drawn into the war because the allies can finish it themselves," he said. "If they can't we will be drawn in with them. I would go further, however, and say now we ought not to wait until the finish. There are ways we can help if the people in the United States would see it is a matter of business and not sympathy.

"So far as I'm concerned, I haven't a neutral hair to my head. I'm not a diplomat. I can speak my mind."

Bache declared "professional isolationists" were motivated largely by the hope to get more votes from mothers in the United States.

DROUTH AND DUST FAIL TO AFFECT WHEAT FUTURES

Drouth and dust storm reports from Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas fell flat as a wheat market influence yesterday except for a brief period after the opening. Prices closed ⅛ cent lower.

Interest in the market was limited, brokers said, with many professionals marking time awaiting the crop estimate on winter wheat by Chicago statisticians tomorrow.

Temperatures of 85 degrees or more have prevailed for several days in Kansas and points south and with high winds have intensified the need for moisture for the growing winter wheat crop, experts said.

The Canadian northwest is also reported in need of additional moisture.

Corn futures held within a range of about ¼ cent a bushel in slow trading.

OIL PRODUCTION IS REDUCED IN ILLINOIS, NATION

State Retains Its Rank as Third Largest Supplier.

Crude oil production declined in Illinois and in the nation in the week ended March 30, the Oil and Gas Journal reported yesterday. Output in Illinois decreased 21,801 barrels a day to a daily average of 424,720 barrels, but the state still held its newly acquired rank as the third largest producing state.

Oklahoma, which recently moved from third to fourth place, reduced its output in the latest week by 11,750 barrels a day to a daily average of 413,125 barrels.

United States production dropped 29,774 barrels to 3,855,287 barrels daily, the journal said.

The journal said that production from the Devonian lime in the Salem field of Illinois has been declining

FIND NEW OIL SHOWING.

Mattoon, Ill., April 2 (AP).—An official of the Carter Oil company today announced a slight show of oil had been recovered in the deep-lying St. Peter formation at a wildcat test two miles south of this city.

Generally unimpressed by showings of oil, the oil industry hailed the announcement as the first indication that the practically unexplored formation may be productive, at least in some areas if not in the Carter well.

Ask Control Bill Change.

Washington, D. C., April 2 (AP).—Chairman Cole [D., Md.] of a house subcommittee considering a bill to establish partial federal control of oil production made public today a letter from President Roosevelt suggesting the measure be modified to provide for federal enforcement of conservation only where states themselves failed to enforce such laws.

The President asserted such a change would, in effect, extend the principles of the Connally hot oil act, which forbids interstate shipment of oil produced in violation of state laws.

NATIONAL TEA'S SALES 16.52 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

The National Tea company, a Chicago enterprise, yesterday reported sales during the four weeks ended March 23, amounted to $4,883,933, an increase of 16.52 per cent over $4,191,207 sales in the corresponding 1939 period.

Sales for 12 weeks ended March 23 gained 14.6 per cent totaling $14,410,869.

Sales of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company increased 6.8 per cent during the four weeks ended March 23, compared with a year ago. Sales totaled $19,671,054.

A similar percentage increase was shown for the last 12 weeks ended March 23, sales totaling $57,278,915 compared with $53,620,204 in the corresponding 1939 period.

FEDERAL SCHEME FOR 'EASY FARM MONEY' ASSAILED

New Treasury Burden, Says D. W. Bell.

position of the government, I feel that the best interests of the farm credit system would be served by the immediate institution of a permanent interest basis. The best arrangement would seem to require that the interest rate on all new loans made after the effective date of the legislation should be based on the "cost of money" plus a stated differential sufficient to cover expenses and losses."

Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, denounced the Jones-Wheeler bill as "undemocratic, unsound, and destructive of local initiative and control." The FCA must be returned to its former independent status if farmers are to get credit "free from changing administrations, partisan politics, or burocratic control," he declared.

Urges "Free" Agency.

At the senate hearing on the Gillette bill, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, urged the committee to support the bill in order to establish a credit institution "free from political disturbances."

"It is the conviction of the federation," he said, "that the credit functions of the FCA can be most efficiently administered by an independent agency of government."

All leading farm organizations except the Farmers' union of the north central states have supported an independent FCA. The union is principally responsible for the loss of independency, having urged the move on Mr. Roosevelt.

MINIMUM WAGE ORDER IN TEXTILE TRADE AFFIRMED

Action Is Constitutional, Court Decides.

New Orleans, La., April 2 (AP).—The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed today an order of the wage-hour division of the department of labor fixing a minimum wage of 32½ cents an hour for textile workers.

The order was contested by Opp Cotton Mills, Inc., of Opp, Ala., and the Southern Manufacturers' association, which declared it discriminatory. It was issued last September upon recommendations of industry committee No. 1 for the textile trade.

Observing the minimum wage "provides weekly earnings of approximately $13," the court said that "whatever discrimination may be pointed out in the conflicting evidence labor should not be called upon to equalize the discrimination by bearing all the load."

First Test of Procedure.

The Opp case was the first court test of industry committee procedure under the fair labor standards act of 1938. It was also the first time a United States Circuit Court of Appeals had been asked to pass on constitutionality of the act.

The court found the act constitutional, at least so far as it is involved in the fixing of minimum textile industry wages, saying: "Only those provisions affecting this proceeding are passed upon."

The court declared that the south is at a disadvantage because of freight rates. It said, however, it would not disturb the administrator's conclusion that with respect to production, transportation, and living costs, together, there is "substantial equality" between regions.

Applies to Other Workers.

The wage-hour division's order applies to silk, rayon, flax, and jute manufacture as well as to the cotton textile industry, and increased the hourly wage rates of an estimated 175,000 workers from its effective date, last Oct. 24.

Other lines of manufacture whose employés came under jurisdiction of the wage-hour act were awaiting the decision in the textile case before filing suits contesting similar orders.

CRACKERS AND COOKIES.

National Biscuit common appears to be a well seasoned stock. The company has maintained an outstanding position for many years. I am in the market for such a common stock with dividend paying possibilities. Please send me a report on this company. Also indicate what part foreign trade plays in its earnings.—C. B.

Answer: National Biscuit company is the leading baker of crackers and cookies in this country. Its output is estimated to be one-half of the total domestic production and more than twice that of any competing company. Other products include cakes, candy, cocoa, peanut butter, wheat cereal, bread, and puddings.

Operations of the company and subsidiaries are conducted in plants situated in 32 American cities in 22 states, in four plants in Canada, and one in England. Flour mills, a molasses blending plant, and carton factories are included in the integrated industrial structure. Distribution of the baked goods to dealers is made frequently by trucks from about 250 sales branches.

National Biscuit was formed in 1898 and acquired three other baking companies, which were later dissolved. There are outstanding 248,045 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value and 6,289,448 shares of $10 par common stock. The company has no funded debt.

Regular annual dividends of $7 a share have been paid on the preferred stock. Common dividends were disbursed in each year since 1898 without interruption. The next payment on the common stock will be 40 cents on April 15 to stockholders of record March 15.

Despite an increase in sales last year, profits dipped because of higher taxes and a slight loss on foreign exchange conversion. Profit from foreign business in 1939 was about 12 per cent of total earnings. A provision of $105,753 was made for possible loss on the transfer of 1939 foreign earnings not yet remitted.

The following table compares consolidated net income, earnings per share, and dividends per common share in recent years:

	Net income.	Earned per share.	Dividends per share.

Cheer up—the sun's gonna shine some more. And when it does it's good for you to get out in it and walk to your office instead of spending so much time commuting. You can do that down here and do so many things you like to do and still get a good night's sleep. It's a little unusual to have a living room 2 stories high or one 37 feet long, or a little 2 story house in rooms and kitchenette in a group of six, clustered about a little slate-paved court [heated and serviced like an apt.] to try to have things unusual and delightful, and you like that sort of a tenant, too—the kind that likes fireplaces and such things and wants to live in an adorable place. We'd like to help you make it so. A few furnished and some marvelous layouts for combining your home and business.
